Pelletier arrives in Victoria

Pelletier Tangles with Victoria Broadcasters

Balance, Not Blackout, Aim of New Rules

By BILL THOMAS

Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier made it quite clear Tuesday to a group of angry local broadcasters that no matter how they twiddled their dials of protest, the government is determined to preserve and foster the Canadian indentity in radio and television.

"You can create a situation," Pelletier told C-FAX operator Clare Copeland, "whereby a man will cross the street in New York City or in Chicago and will buy the Montreal market or Vancouver market or the Toronto market without our even knowing the transaction has taken place.

"So I think there is an essential function to discharge, in this regard, and I think the CRTC is trying to do just that."

"The CRTC is trying to make regulations that don't shut us all in behind our borders, but on the other hand balance the foreign input that you can channel into Canada as far as you can control it in order to protect Canada."

Pelletier told Copeland that if the Canadian content in Canadian broadcasting is not protected "you could no longer talk of Canada as a sovereign country."

Protest Way Cleared

From UPI, LAT

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration plans to ask federal district court today to waive a 15-day waiting period for White House demonstration permits so that student activists can go ahead with a massive weekend protest against Vietnam and what they called the "Kent Massacre" — the killing of four students by Ohio National Guardsmen.

The move will be designed to convince young people that the administration really does support orderly dissent — as opposed to violent protest — and possibly to defuse some of the emotion certain to surround an influx of thousands of students into the nation's capital.

Two student anti-war groups and one of combined clergy and laymen combined to call on Americans, young and old, to join in the Washington protest — to face the White House "urgently, angrily and nonviolently."

Explaining the approach, one source said there is a feeling within the administration that many young Americans honestly believe the justice department is against all dissent, whether peaceful or not. He said the department wants to knock down any such idea.

Injunction Flurry Fights Widening Strike Tieup

By DON COLLINS

Industry appeared Tuesday to have declared an "injunction war" in an attempt to stay alive in the face of the province's devastating towboat strike.

Coupled with this was the determination of the B.C. Towboat Owners' Association to man as many of its 350 idled boats as possible with experienced company men and keep some vital tows on the move.

One of Island Tug and Barge's towboats was reported "on the go" somewhere Tuesday night out of Victoria, guided by company men and possibly towing a barge with freight cars.

This was the picture as the strike of 1,150 B.C. members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild ended its third day. Several forest operations had closed or almost closed despite the newness of the strike.

One of many applications for Supreme Court injunctions is expected in an attempt to delay what would be one of the most severe blows to industry — the closure by Friday of B.C. Forest Products Gorge Road and Point Ellice sawmills.

The company says the picketing of the logs is illegal and wants the pickets removed on the hope that company boats can be used to move the boom up the Gorge to the sawmills.

A B.C. Forest Products spokesman in Victoria said Tuesday the closure of the two sawmills was a "definite possibility" by Friday if the logs weren't moved.

Political Crisis

Ulster Splits Dublin

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Republic was plunged into political crisis early today as Premier Jack Lynch sacked two government ministers and a third immediately announced he had quit.

Ireland's minister of justice resigned Tuesday.

Lynch announced: "I have requested the resignations as members of the government of Neil Blaney, minister for agriculture and fisheries, and Charles Haughey, minister for finance, because I am satisfied that they do not subscribe fully to government policy in relation to the present situation in the six counties (Northern Ireland) as stated by me at the Fianna Fail (ruling party) convention in January last."

'Radical' Hospitals Proposed by B.C.

B.C. Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said Tuesday approval in principle has been given by the government to the idea of B.C. "putting up all the money and building two new radically designed hospitals."

In an interview over Vancouver radio station CKNW, Loffmark said the 150-bed hospitals would use the most modern techniques and equipment to keep down the size of the staff needed and to reduce operating costs.

He gave no locations for the proposed hospitals.

Loffmark said "radical, modern design" of hospitals seems to offer the best prospect of lowering the cost of B.C. hospital service.

Deported Deserter Back, Judge Reopens Inquiry

VANCOUVER (CP) — County Court Judge E. J. C. Stewart has ordered reopening of a federal inquiry into the Jan. 25 deportation of three U.S. Army deserters following the escape and reappearance in Canada of a second member of the trio.

Commission counsel Allan McEachern said Tuesday that the inquiry, of which Judge Stewart is commissioner, will resume May 11 in Vancouver.

At the same time, lawyer Don Rosenbloom disclosed that Charles Leonard, 18, of Chico, Calif., had deserted his army unit a second time and made his way back into Canada 10 days ago.

Kreeger, Leonard and Earl Hockette, 21, of Santa Cruz, Calif., escaped from a U.S. Navy shore patrol vehicle a few hours after being escorted across the border by RCMP and a customs officer at Huntingdon, B.C., to Sumas, Wash.

Kreeger made his way back to Canada and testified at the inquiry. Leonard was recaptured, court-martialled at Fort Ord, Calif., returned to his unit several weeks ago and deserted again.

Rosenbloom said he plans to ask Judge Stewart to allow Leonard to testify when the inquiry resumes.

"Leonard is one of the main principals in the case and he wasn't available to testify before," said the commission counsel. "We've been informed by Mr. Rosenbloom that he is now, and Judge Stewart felt he would like to hear all the evidence available."

Nixon Stresses Limited Drive

BULLETIN

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. and South Vietnamese troops drove three more spearheads —the fourth, fifth and sixth of the campaign—into Cambodia today, bringing to 50,000 the number of Allied soldiers now committed to President Nixon's cross-border offensive against guerrilla bivouacs. (See also Page 3.)

WASHINGTON (AP)— United States forces will penetrate no deeper than 35 kilometres (21.7 miles) into Cambodia without congressional approval and American troops will be out of that country by June 30, President Nixon told senators and congress Tuesday.

Speaking to members of the House of Representatives and Senate foreign affairs and military committee in two separate sessions Tuesday, Nixon is reported to have given assurances the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, announced last Thursday in a country-wide address, would be no deeper than 30 to 35 kilometres — 18.6 to 21.7 miles.

The chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, Representative Thomas Morgan (Dem. Pa.), told reporters Nixon would come to Congress for approval should he decide it was necessary to make a deeper penetration.

It was also Morgan who said Nixon plans to have U.S. forces out of Cambodia by June 30.

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler, in a briefing with reporters following the afternoon meeting, went one better than Morgan and said U.S. forces would go no deeper than 30 kilometres — 18.6 miles — into Cambodia.

Asked about reports Nixon made his decision to go into Cambodia against the advice of Defence Secretary Melvin Laird and State Secretary William Rogers, Ziegler said:

"I would say from my observation that is not correct and I'm sure they (Laird and Rogers) will support that."

Nixon met in the morning with members of the Senate and House armed services committee and in the afternoon with those of the Senate foreign relations committee and the House foreign affairs committee.

From all these committees — especially the Senate foreign relations committee — there has been a measure of criticism of the presidential course in Indochina, and Nixon obviously was seeking to still it and increase his support.

He did not succeed completely. But from some of those on hand he drew laudatory remarks.

In both the morning and afternoon meetings, Nixon briefed the Senate and House members and answered questions. And there were briefings by top military and diplomatic advisers.

Senator Robert Griffin (Rep. Mich.) told reporters Nixon had done a masterful job, adding:

"He made clear his intention of not expanding the war, the invasion of the Communist sanctuary would actually limit the war, enable him to help save American

Soldiers Shoot At Nuns

SAIGON (Reuters) — Armed soldiers burst into the national pagoda before dawn Tuesday and opened fire on about 600 monks, nuns and students occupying the building, a South Vietnamese military spokesman said.

The soldiers, after a two-hour battle, evicted the militant anti-government Buddhists who took over the pagoda two days ago. Displaced monks said 10 persons were killed and 20 wounded.

Church Prays in 'Despair' Over Cambodia

NARAMATA, B.C. (CP) — The B.C. conference of the United Church of Canada Tuesday stood for five minutes of silent prayer as an expression of "outrage and despair" at the decision by the United States to move into Cambodia.

GORDE HUNTER

Scared Optimist

OPTIMISM is the life blood of the happy. A true pessimist is never really enthralled with day-to-day living and never knows the joy of the dream of a vine-covered cottage. Knock the optimist as a wearer of rose-colored glasses out of touch with brutal reality, but save a sobering thought for the fact living for him is a pleasure.

Labels are never completely accurate, but label me an optimist. Label me right of centre in my thinking with an abhorance of communistic ideology. But also label me as running scared because of the recent events perpetrated by the military in the name of the Nixon administration.

THE escalation into Cambodia, the realization that the major world powers have slowly slipped into the roles as pawns of the military, makes for pessimism even in the most optimistic thinkers.

It may come as a shock that right wing believers can also be anti-war. The act of war, the act of violence, was never compatible with the beliefs of most of the young men who trooped off to a pair of world conflicts. Only the sadistic revelled in it. The vast majority accepted it because of a patriotic loyalty to their country, their Commonwealth and because of the totalitarian threat to both.

DAMN FEW went with the idea of becoming heroes, but most went willingly and they had contemptuous thoughts for those who swung the lead at home. Glory? Ask the foot slogger, ask the tail gunner, ask the matelot, sick to his stomach on a sweeper in the North Atlantic. Most hated every minute, hated every no-good foreign city and somehow or other day-dreamed their way back to hearth and home.

The excitement of VJ day was short-lived, but they all wore their discharge buttons with pride. In fact, a guy without one was a social outcast. They wore their accomplishment, their deed, on their lapels.

The little maple leafs soon became unnecessary appendages and were thrown in the bottom drawer, but those who served still feel the warm glow of having stood up for King and country.

MOST OF THEM have little time for the draft dodgers and deserters of today. For the insurgents, the anarchists who burn and destroy, who violate the rights of others while protesting the violation of their own rights.

But the military mind of today baffles them. They're confused by presidents who have allowed their power to be usurped. It's obvious to me the United States could win this thing in Vietnam, but not by the conventional methods of a war I knew.

They could win it with the epithetic H-bomb and heaven help us all if that button is ever activated. There was hope when Richard Nixon announced his troop-withdrawal plans. He was abiding by his election promises and maybe all politicians weren't bad after all.

THE MILITARY, however, convinces him of the need to enter Cambodia. Laos? Thailand? Obviously yes by their thinking because the top brass military mind is geared to war, not peace. This thing has already lasted as long as the Second World War and there is no clear-cut military accomplishment or victory in sight.

The hope persists that the United States Senate will somehow or other restore some of the sanity, restore the real decision making to the elected office rather than by the hired hands in the Pentagon.

The word impeachment will be used more and more in the coming weeks and yes, a president could be impeached. The House of Representatives has the sole power to impeach an officer of the U.S. government and in the entire history of the U.S., the articles of impeachment have been voted but 13 times and only once against a president.

THAT WAS in 1868 and Andrew Johnson was impeached for interference at elections, corrupt use of veto power and other high crimes and misdemeanors. The Senate which acts as the court, failed to convict Johnson by one vote of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Undoubtedly such a move would be harder to pull off today, but my optimism runs to such an eventuality if all other avenues for cessation fail. The quicksand of Vietnam precludes the type of victory once thought posible, but my nature refuses to yield to the criers of doom. Somehow reason will prevail and the military will be put in its place.

Your Good Health

On Eyes, Be Practical

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There is a difference of opinion in our family as to whether an ophthalmologist or an optometrist should conduct a routine first examination of a young child's eyes. There are no indications of any problems — just a desire to be sure there are none.

We are confident that an optometrist can conduct an examination, recognize many problems and fit glasses when indicated. Also we feel sure he will refer patients to an ophthalmologist to treat problems which he cannot.

Would he be able to detect any and all difficulties? Is there any reason to consult an ophthalmologist in preference to an optometrist if there are no obvious indications of eye trouble? — Mrs. B.L.W.

You have the difference very well in mind.

An ophthalmologist is a licensed physician who then has gone on and specialized in care and diseases of the eyes.

An optometrist is not a physician. He has been trained basically to measure eyesight and determine how glasses must be ground to compensate for defects — nearsightedness, astigmatism, etc. But as part of their training, optometrists get instruction in recognizing disease conditions that they see, so they can refer such people to ophthalmologists.

Ideally everyone should have his eyes examined by an opthalmologist, but who said we have an "ideal" society?

So instead of talking about an abstraction, let's be practical. How young is the "young child"? How luxurious can you afford to be in having an examination when there is no indication of trouble?

What's wrong with just having your pediatrician, as part of his examination, warn you if he sees any indication of anything wrong, such as amblyopia (or "lazy eye") — that is, reduced vision in either eye. Such visual acuity can be ascertained only after the age of three or three and one half years.

If, however, you had detected any signs of squinting, unusual appearance or motion of the eyes, or any hint that the child does not see well, then yes, I'd go to an ophthalmologist at once.

caster on the validity of the proposed CRTC requirement that music programming be 30 per cent Canadian, Pelletier replied, "In my opinion it is realistic. It will require some effort, but it's realistic. I understand from a music standpoint it's not a matter of having one-third of the time but one-third of the pieces devoted to Canadian work, played."

Badgered by radiomen about the availability of Canadian talent, the chain-smoking Pelletier sighed, "I do know that we have unemployed musicians, unemployed actors, unemployed authors that could certainly fill in as well, sometimes better, than the foreign imports.

Asked if the decision to insist on 30 per cent Canadian musical content was not premature, Pelletier replied, "It is your right and your duty to question it, but I have seen no demonstrations either way.

"All I know is, and I am not talking for the broadcasters in this part of the country, that I can tell you that in some of the eastern cities where I have lived the broadcasters were going to the cheapest kind of entertainment and the cheapest with the Americans."

When Copeland protested that the Canadian content percentage regulation was not indicated to the Canadian Association of Broadcasters during preliminary private talks, but that it was made public at an open forum, Pelletier was quick to respond.

"You remind me of a man who came into my office, I won't name him and I said you're a broadcaster and you're interested in broadcasting. He said yes. Can I have one of my assistants to take notes?. He said no, 'I want to see you all by myself.' So he came into my office and I closed the doors, and he said now, 'this CRTC business that you have set up — only one question: is it, as I think, windowdressing to make the government to look good?

"'Or are you serious about it?' And this to me was a great clue as to the disposition of the broadcasters in this country, because they thought that it was just windowdressing.

"And I can tell you that I agree that it is not windowdressing and at certain times some people will feel the what the regulations will be, pinch, although we don't know You were mentioning 30 per cent. It might be a lower figure or a higher figure, I just don't know. No figure has so far been placed.

"You can see the result," said Pelletier.

At this point, the secretary of state was interrupted by Copeland who started to say, "At no point did the government ever say to the CRTC that this is how it should go . . ."

Pelletier shot back, "Oh! Come on now! Under the old BBG, you know very well that this isn't true. Under the old BBG they took the regulations which were very badly drafted and they turned the whole outfit into ridicule. And you know that as well as I do. They took the Canadian content between 6 a.m. and 10 a.m. and I don't know, or 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. when the audience was lowest."

One broadcaster cited the example of the Canadian Pacific as a case where public money was used to encourage private enterprise.

Pelletier responded, "My interpretation of the Canadian Pacific was a few individuals using public money to build tremendous fortunes, and you know very well that this was the system. Not only in Canada, it was the same in the States, and the same in Europe. It was gravy for those who built the railways and if you've read the story of them it is very interesting.

"They would run the railway until some swamp in mid-Saskatchewan and come back to Parliament and say 'dish out some more money or you won't have a railway.' And I wouldn't like broadcasting to develop in this way. I think that broadcasting in Canada has been in existence for 50 years and that it didn't achieve the kind of Canadian content that it should have if Canada is to exist as a separate country.

"It might create problems, you have no indication that the CRTC will not consider individual problems. I have indications to the opposite, to the contrary. I understand that people are disturbed as everyone is disturbed when you regulate or legislate in a certain area, but they come to live with it."

Pelletier and a trio of aids arrived by floatplane from Vancouver and the minister spoke to a Liberal association luncheon meeting, dwelling more in his formal speech on the cultural development aspects of his portfolio. At one point he referred to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria as having "a Japanese art collection reputed to be one of the finest in North America."

Asked how he felt about the results of the Quebec provincial election, Pelletier glowed and replied — "Happy."

"The polls have been saying that the 20-some per cent that the separatists got, within these percentages there was a large section which was a protest vote. I would add to this that Monsieur Levesque is a very attractive politician. He knows the tricks, he's been a very good minister, and many people voted for him personally.

Who Knows Canada?

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — When Canadian Prime Minister Trudeau visits here May 20 to 22, he'll likely find that Canada isn't exactly a household word in Malaysia.

In fact, most people here haven't even heard of Canada, though it is the fifth-largest donor of foreign aid to Malaysia.

Those who have heard of Canada, through reading and schoolwork, have some remarkable impressions. Auto mechanic Lim Ah Chai, for instance.

"Canada? I cannot remember much about Canada except that it is cold with snow. I am not sure," he said, "but I think they ride on carts pulled by reindeer, like Santa Claus."

The 32-year-old native of Kuala Lumpur said he knew about the U.S., England and Russia.

Other Malaysians queried about Canada either said they knew nothing about it or knew only that it is a very cold country near the United States.

The lack of violence in Canada, along with a lack of government crisis and large strikes, has kept Canada out of the public eye here, he said.

The official had another explanation.

"It just goes to show that relations between our two countries are so good they never make the news, hence the low level of public knowledge about the country," he said.

"We don't protest to each other. We never criticize each other. These are the things that make headlines and simply do not happen where Malaysia and Canada are concerned," he noted.

U.S. Spearheads Fourth Drive Into Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — Approximately 4,000 more American troops spearheaded into Cambodia northwest of Saigon early this morning in the fourth allied thrust into the neighboring country in one week.

U.S. military spokesmen said the brigade-sized force of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division crossed the border early this morning from Tay Ninh province, 65 miles northwest of Saigon.

The sector is located between the Parrot's Beak and Fishhook regions of Cambodia which were invaded by 30,000 allied troops last week.

There were no immediate reports on casualties or fighting.

The new offensive followed by less than 24 hours a drive launched by American and South Vietnamese infantrymen into Cambodia from the Central Highlands 50 miles west of the South Vietnamese city of Pleiku. That operation, aimed at the communist Se San base camp, involved about 6,000 allied troops.

Sources said about 40,000 allied soldiers now have been committed to campaigns inside Cambodia, which administration officials said are designed to destroy communist base areas and the communist nerve centre for South Vietnam before the monsoon rains.

In the Fishhook section of Cambodia, American troops Tuesday encountered stiff resistance in their drive to find the so-called communist pentagon. Communist losses were described as 88 killed.

In South Vietnam, communiques reported a terrorist incident in Hue and a clash which killed three Americans.

Peking Honors Prince

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Peking announced Monday withdrawal of its diplomatic representatives in Phnom Penh as it granted recognition to a Cambodian government-in-exile formed by former head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

There was no immediate reaction from the Cambodian capital, but observers there said they felt the move would stengthen the position of Premier Lon Nol.

The government-in-exile said it would unite Cambodians to fight against United States imperialism, overthrow the Phnom Penh government and, after complete victory, build an independent, peaceful, neutral, democratic and prosperous country.

Wife Kills Children

EDMONTON (CP) — Police said a mother smothered her four children, then shot herself to death Tuesday.

The children, ranging in age from four or five to 13 years, were found dead by their father. The woman apparently had shot herself just as her husband arrived home.

Laborites Gain Glasgow Seats

GLASGOW (AP) — Britain's governing Labor Party had a big triumph in the Scottish local elections early today, gaining six seats in Glasgow where the Conservative-Progressive alliance lost over-all control.

Party headquarters in London said the party had gained control of 10 burghs (towns) in Scotland. Seats gained totalled 67, against 12 losses, it said.

Six-Month Term For Name-Calling

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Shpikula, 22, of Vancouver was sentenced Tuesday to six months for contempt of court during attempts to try him on charges laid following a Maoist demonstration here last Dec. 30.

Shpikula was put in handcuffs and leg irons for his second court appearance after he kicked and fought with police and court officers while resisting removal from the courtroom.

He was cited for contempt after denouncing Judge Graham Darling as "lackey."

The judge issued a formal warning, but Shpikula continued:

"This impartiality you speak of is completely bogus ... I denounce the lackey courts; I denounce you, lackey judge. This is a political trial."

Judge Darling also declared a mistrial Tuesday and ordered Shpikula to appear before the spring assize of the British Columbia Supreme Court which opens next Monday.

The Odds Are Unattractive

IT IS POPULAR among so many commentators, Americans foremost among them, to condemn the Nixon administration out of hand for the thrust against communist bases in Cambodia. The cries of outrage are that neutral territory has been invaded, that the South Vietnamese war is being extended, and that the Americans and Saigon government leaders are aggravating a situation already in delicate political balance.

Indeed, President Nixon may have made a wrong decision. Certain it is that it is a risky one. But time will tell whether it is as unsound as his critics believe or pretend.

It should be remembered that before the South Vietnamese and Americans marched, North Vietnamese regulars, Viet Cong veterans, Pathet Lao guerrillas and Khmer Rouge Cambodians were actively campaigning both in "neutral" Cambodia and Laos. It must be remembered, too, that for years the North Vietnamese have used Cambodian territory as sanctuary and reinforcement depots for the South Vietnam war. Moreover, the main supply line for the northern forces ran through the Laotian and Cambodian eastern provinces where it was largely immune from molestation or even observation.

Times without number the communist allies mounted savage attacks on American and South Vietnamese military installations from their Cambodian bases; and it was from these same points that infiltration was, and still is, originated in the war of terror against the refugee camps, jungle villages and civilian centres where casualties have run to an estimated 500,000.

For any one or all of these reasons it might have been thought the southern allies had ample justification for retaliation. In fact, before Prince Norodom Sihanouk was ousted he did give them the right of "hot pursuit" into Cambodian territory.

But with a communist offensive sweeping westward and southward from the Laotian highlands, and with Sihanouk overthrown in his absence, and a sudden confrontation between the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong with the Cambodians in the sanctuary areas, the position changed very radically and very quickly. President Nixon was confronted with the prospect of sweeping communist successes on the South Vietnamese flank and the establishment of a new and formidable enemy power base.

At the same time the new government in Phnom Penh started calling for help.

Rightly or wrongly, President Nixon has responded. But having decided to attack on the vulnerable flank he signalled his intentions by originating the thrust with armor. It might have been thought the better tactic would have been to drop paratroops first and then strike with mechanized power in a pincers movement.

But the lessons of Burma and Malaya and the lesser jungle wars apparently have been forgotten, and the attack has had to penetrate 40 miles — by last reckoning — before meeting the first firm resistance in Cambodia. Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese and their allies will melt into the countryside at will.

It is highly improbable that any decisive result will come of this action. But it may relieve the pressure on Phnom Penh and even to the embattled Laotian army trying to defend Vientiane.

On that basis it might — just might — have the effect of confining the fighting to the eastward of Thailand and the deeps of southeast Asia. But few would hazard a bet on it.

A Poor Performance

ESQUIMALT MLA Herbert Bruch is likely to have forfeited such support as he previously had from the Victoria West portion of his riding through his reaction to criticism. In fact the rest of his constituency may well look with dismay at his performance.

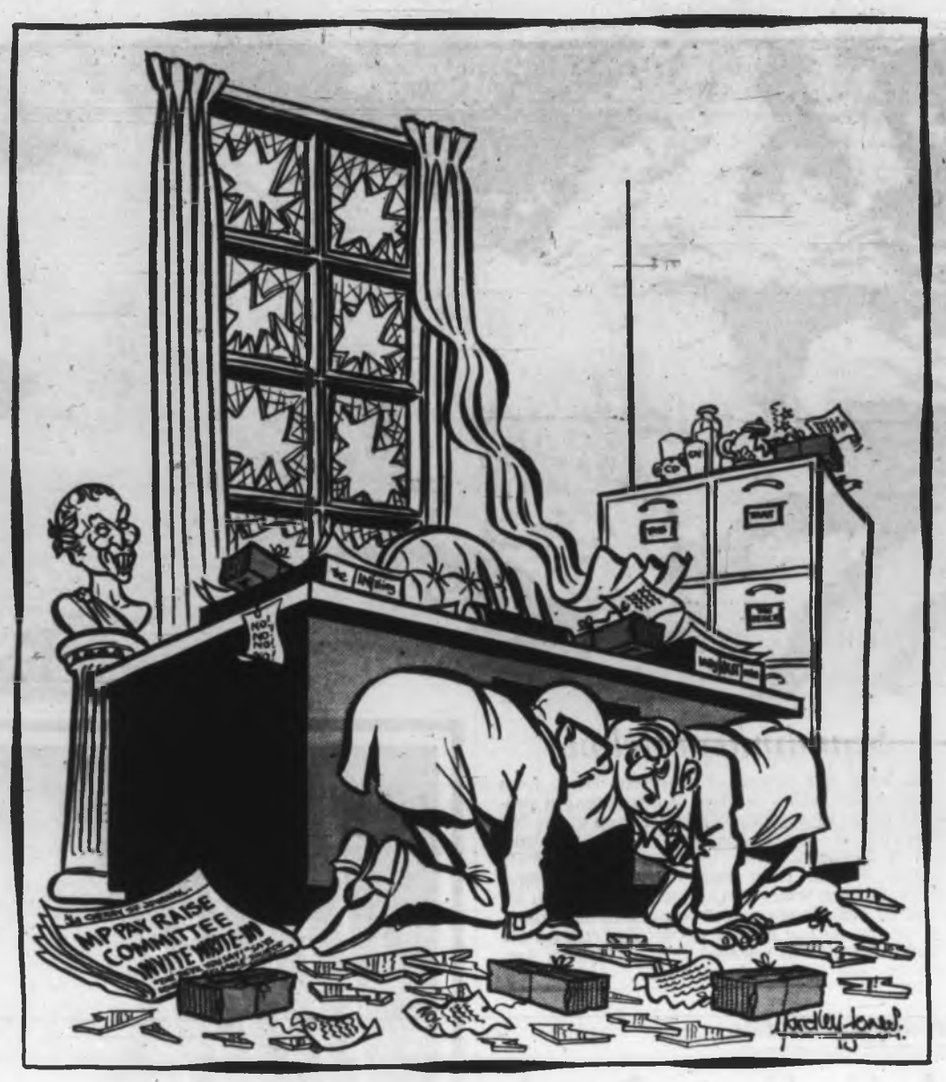
The criticism has been in relation to his apparent lack of concern over complete replacement of the 62-year-old Victoria West Elementary School. Mr. Bruch, it will be recalled, came under attack in his absence at a meeting of more than 100 parents on April 30, to which it was stated he had been invited by letter, telegram and telephone.

The member has now explained that he was out of town for a ten-day vacation and received the letter only on his return on Tuesday, and that he received no telegram. He also complains that this is "typical of what they do in Vic West" — that in his previous "confrontation" with the PTA over the Victoria West school he had been given only a day's notice of the meeting. It might be observed that if the MLA expects "the blinking courtesy" of being advised well in advance of meetings, he ought to have the courtesy himself of replying to letters which, the chairman of the April 30 meeting said, have on several occasions gone unanswered.

It is in trying to twist his constituents' anger to the Greater Victoria school board, however, that Mr. Bruch lets himself down as the representative of the Esquimalt riding. If parents want a new school, he says, they should "scream" at the board, and not blame their MLA. It is up to the board to make recommendations to the government on what additional facilities have priority in the district. He isn't going to get into "a wrangle with another level of government" — the school board — and he isn't "here to over-ride the school board."

The fact is, of course, that complete replacement of the old Victoria West School, approved by the voters three years ago, is at the top of the school board's priority list. Last June working drawings for the second phase of the replacement — delayed by a ban on anything but "essential" construction — were submitted to the education department. The school board has been trying since to get permission to go to tender.

All that was expected of Mr. Bruch was that he would go to work on the government in his constituents' interest. It appears that Victoria Alderman Peter Pollen, himself a one-time Social Credit candidate, was correct in telling the parents: "You obviously have been denied a voice in the provincial government."



"But I thought they'd MAIL them . . ."

New Industries in Small Towns

Checking the Drift to the Cities

By DEV MURARKA from Moscow

THE Baltic republics of Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia hold a lead in the Soviet Union in the manufacture of sophisticated engineering and electronic goods. They also conduct more sophisticated experiments in management of industry. In many cases the Baltic republics provide the testing ground for new concepts in industry before they are applied on a national scale.

Part of the reason for all this is that all the Baltic states have an abundance of very highly skilled manpower, used to the more complex machines and concepts of Western technology. When the Baltic states were merged with the Soviet Union in 1940 they were already in the process of industrialization. It is claimed by Soviet experts that between 1940 and 1969 industrial production in Lithuania increased 25-fold.

One important problem in Soviet industry is where to put new factories. The planners have been urging that concentration of industry in bigger cities must be discouraged. Instead, they are in favor of smaller plants in small towns which have a reserve of labor. In their view this will reduce heavy overheads, but they also have sociological factors in mind. New industries, provided they are carefully planned, will help to regenerate provincial life and check the pressure to drift to the bigger cities, which are overcrowded and have serious housing and other social problems.

It seems that quietly but successfully Lithuania has been experimenting along these lines for some years. Until 1958 the construction of industry was concentrated in the three major cities of Vilnius, Kaunas and Klaipeda. They accounted for nearly 61 per cent of industrial labor and 66 per cent of gross industrial output in the republic. This meant, however, that other smaller towns of Lithuania had little share in the industrial prosperity. It also accentuated the pressure of migration to the three cities.

The unique feature of Baltic urban life is that most of the cities have no more than 10,000 inhabitants. The problem was how to regenerate these small town communities, provide jobs for surplus labor there and yet maintain a rapid growth rate in industrialization.

A perspective plan for a period up to 1980 was drawn up with emphasis on proper regional distribution and location of new industries. It was calculated that by 1980 the population level of these small towns will be 20,000 to 30,000 people. At the top of this plan was a ban on building new industries in Vilnius and Kaunas. Even expansion of existing plants was to be undertaken only with the permission of the republic's Council of Ministers.

The first step was to switch manufacture of simple items from the bigger factories to smaller towns.

The old factories were not left idle but their existing plants were supplemented with new machinery and production switched to more complex items.

The total share of the three big cities in industrial production has now declined to 55 per cent from 61 per cent. The planners are confident that in the next 10 years it will decline even more. There has been a corresponding decline in labor previously engaged in household chores, from 446,000 in 1958 to 196,000 in 1968. Yet the planners consider it only a beginning in the industrialization of small towns.

In the engineering industry, it is becoming imperative to manufacture one or two basic models of a given machine and for this purpose specialized machine-tools should be made at small and medium plants rather than at gigantic factories. The planners believe the siting of a plant which requires about 600 to 700 workers in a small town is almost ideal. The aim should be to improve the structure of industry and to stop setting up new plants for composite production. Research, designing and other technological help should be made available to small enterprises by the bigger institutions, and it is thought the solution may be to have one large centre for these purposes for a number of smaller factories.

Territorial planning and economic effectiveness of siting the productive forces should be speeded up as much as possible, by the planners, indicating at least one aspect of the future structure of Soviet industry.

Motor Vehicle Safety

Canada Lags on Standards

By HEWARD GRAFFTEY

SINCE the passage of the transport bill in Ottawa some weeks ago, specifying that the federal government "may" enforce safety standards for motor vehicles built or imported into Canada, government officials in Washington and officials in the automobile industry in Detroit have expressed surprise that our legislation offers no guarantee for action. The act simply declares Ottawa "may" do this or "may" do that.

These same officials confided to me that they are surprised that the standards listed by Ottawa are merely a carbon copy of standards listed in U.S. federal legislation over a year ago. The one notable exception lies in the fact that Washington put teeth into its laws, saying the standards would be enforced.

Admittedly, especially when we consider the Canadian-U.S. auto pact, it is true to talk about a North American car market. Nevertheless, when it comes to safety standards, is it overly chauvinistic to believe Canadians should not depend solely on Washington for protection?

The Canadian government used the auto-pact as an excuse not to enforce or act on motor vehicle safety standards until Washington had moved forward. Canada, with its population of over 20,000,000, constitutes a large motor vehicle market. Had Ottawa decided to press forward with specific Canadian standards, Detroit and Washington would have taken notice. By opting out of the safety debate Ottawa missed a golden opportunity.

This is especially tragic, for while the debate was going on over the past four years Canadian government officials, now in the federal department of transport, had developed and drafted purely Canadian standards which are not referred to either by the recent legislation passed in Ottawa or Washington. Let us look at five examples, two of which can be attributed to our Canadian climate.

No U.S. or Canadian legislation makes provisions for the following standards which were developed and recommended by Ottawa officials:

Skid Control: For slippery road conditions largely peculiar to most of Canada.

Outside Protrusions: Over 1,000 pedestrians are killed while thousands are injured each year in Canada by motor vehicles. Sharp protrusions on the outside of vehicles have inflicted needlessly lethal wounds on pedestrians. In the mid-60s a high engineering official of Chrysler in Detroit nearly resigned because Chrysler's stylists would not remove the pointed ornament at the front of the Fury's hood. Some pedestrians thrown on to the hood met an unenviable fate. Canadian officials proposed standards which would have eliminated such an ornament plus other lethal outside protrusions.

Bumpers: Our officials developed standards for uniform bumper heights and standards to make sure bumpers had some protective value in case of collision impact.

Trunk Penetration: Crash research has determined that people are injured and lives are lost due to rear end collisions. A car plows into the rear of another car ahead of it. Tools, etc., in the trunk plunge through the back seat into the car's interior killing and injuring passengers. All that separated and still separates many back seats from the trunk area was and is a cheap piece of cardboard. Ottawa officials proposed standards to rectify this stupidity — and so the story goes.

Ralph Nader said in Montreal recently, "When it comes to getting tough with the auto industry, Ottawa is long on talk and short on action." Perhaps he was putting it a bit too mildly?

Lusaka Summit Conference

New Life Sought for 'Non-Alignment'

By COLIN LEGUM from London

THE international grouping of the non-aligned nations will try to give its organization new life at the summit conference of 74 heads of state in July in Lusaka, Zambia.

The choice of timing and venue are both carefully calculated. The date is intended to enable the non-aligned nations to agree on a common strategy for this year's UN General Assembly. It guarantees a major confrontation between the great powers and the world's smaller nations.

Lusaka was chosen in preference to Algiers and New Delhi to avoid the special interests of both those capitals. Algiers was unacceptable to at least half of the participating countries because they do not accept the Arab League policies towards Israel in the Middle East crisis. New Delhi was unacceptable because of the bad relations between India and China, and also because of Indo-Pakistani strain. The political atmosphere of Lusaka is likely to be more neutral. But it is also significant because of Zambia's position along the frontier of the white-ruled countries in southern Africa.

Non-alignment has fallen on thin times since the first major international conference was held in Belgrade in 1961. A major restatement of its role and potentialities in world affairs was offered by Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere in opening the preparatory meeting in Dar es Salaam.

It was no longer enough, he said, for non-aligned states to meet and complain to each other and to the world about international bullying. "Everyone now knows this goes on. And we have already declared our intention of standing up to such behavior, and of refusing to become permanent allies of any big power. Also, we have declared our opposition to colonialism until it has become a series of hackneyed cliches."

The problems for the non-aligned had changed as a result of the changes within and between the major power blocs, Dr. Nyerere said.

"They are no longer so monolithic; both the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. have had the—for them — unpleasant experience of some of their reliable allies becoming less reliable. And both have reacted, at different times, with force, or by intrigue and subversion, against other members of their group. Thus, inside the power blocs there is obviously a restless movement of peoples struggling to express their own desire for peace and freedom — and indeed a little bit of nonalignment."

Another complicating feature was China's emergence as an independent world power. The "power game," therefore, has become three-sided, and those wishing to stand outside it have further complications to contend with.

These developments, Dr. Nyerere continued, had made non-alignment more, not less of a reality. But what was its role?

Non-alignment, he explained, was never a matter of neutrality, or of treading a delicate tight-rope between contending forces.

"Non-alignment is a policy of involvement in world affairs. It is not that we have no views, or that we wish to be available as mediators and arbitrators if the opportunity occurs. Such a role can be an honorable one; but it is not the major role of non-aligned states. Our role arises from the fact that we have very definite international policies of our own, but ones which are separate from, and independent of, those of either of the power blocs.

"By non-alignment we are saying to the big powers that we also belong to this planet. We are asserting the right of small, or militarily weaker, nations to determine their own policies in their own interests, and to have an influence on world affairs which accords with the rights of all peoples to live on earth as human beings equal with other human beings."

Nevertheless, the non-aligned nations are not agreed among themselves, not even on major issues. "It is simply a statement by a particular country that it will determine its policies for itself according to its own judgment about its needs and the merits of a case. It is thus a refusal to be party to any permanent diplomatic or military identification with the great powers; it is a refusal to take part in any alliances, or to allow any military bases by the great powers."

Pleading for honesty among themselves, Dr. Nyerere said the small nations could do virtually nothing about these facts of geography or history in military terms. "We cannot fight the giants on equal terms. And to talk of alliances between us for mutual defence in modern terms, is to talk of dreams. That is a brutal fact, and it is as well to accept it."

The only defence any small nation has, if attacked by a big power, is to resort to guerrilla warfare.

The basic reality, he went on to say, was that the big powers did not even have to resort to military force to compel their way on smaller nations. "With much less difficulty to themselves — and less danger of getting themselves bogged down in endless anti-guerrilla activities — they can use their economic strength for the same purposes of reducing our independense of action."

Thus the real threat to smaller nations comes not from the military but from the economic power of the big states. In trying to overcome their own economic weakness, the smaller countries are compelled to look for external financial assistance.

"But then," Dr. Nyerere said, speaking from bitter personal experience, "we sometimes find the aid, or the loan, or the personnel is dependent on other factors which we had not agreed to. We are told they will be taken away if we make a particular political decision, which the donor does not like. Alternatively, it happens that when we are seeking support for economic projects, we find ourselves being encouraged to act in a certain manner because aid will be forthcoming if we do so. At every point, in other words, we find our real freedom to make economic, social and political choices is being jeopardized by our need for economic development."

Yet the small nations have no alternative. "The world supply of disinterested altruists and unconditional aid is very small indeed. "All that any of us can do," Dr. Nyerere said, "is to try individually to avoid becoming dependent on any single big power for our total economic advance — and even this is not always possible. It is in these facts that lies the real threat to freedom and to non-alignment."

Faced with these problems and dilemmas, what can the non-aligned nations hope to do? President Nyerere's answer to this crucial question is that the small nations should consider at the next summit conference how they can help to strengthen non-alignment by economic co-operation among themselves. "This is the field in which we can really effect changes in our vulnerability to outside pressure. It is one which we can do something about if we work together."

To judge by the reactions to President Nyerere's speech to the preparatory conference there seems little doubt that this will be the major theme of the Lusaka summit conference next July.

Russian Reminder

JUST in time for the 25th anniversary of Hitler's death and the fall of Berlin on April 30, Soviet authorities in East Berlin opened a museum depicting the Soviet Army's capture of the city.

The grey, stucco-face museum is in the building where the military representatives of the wartime allies accepted Nazi Germany's unconditional surrender on May 8, 1945. Inside, the Russians have arranged a series of dramatic exhibits calculated to have an emotional impact on German visitors. One huge, three-dimensional tableau shows Red Army troops storming the Reichstag with the glow of burning Berlin in the background and Soviet fighter aircraft circling overhead. An East German schoolboy viewing the scene with a friend remarked: "The Germans really got mauled by the Soviets, didn't they."

Other displays demonstrate what the battle of Berlin still means to the Soviet Union. Wall-size photos show Russian infantrymen in house-to-house combat in the streets of Berlin. One room is devoted entirely to war paintings, the largest canvas depicting Russian tanks rumbling toward the battered Brandenburg Gate.

East German visitors are also taken into the room where Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Luftwaffe General Hans-Juergen Stumpf and Admiral Hans von Friedeburg signed the capitulation documents for Nazi Germany.

The question remains why this building, which more than any other symbolizes the end of Nazi Germany, has now been opened to the East German public after years of disuse. Originally, the Russians decided to restore the building, which lay inside a military restricted area of their garrison in Berlin-Karlshorst, solely for their own community. The military command believed it would be valuable for the young Red Army soldiers now serving in East Berlin to learn more about the victory that means Russian soldiers still serve in East Berlin and East Germany a quarter of a century later.

It was then decided to open the museum to East Germans for this 25th anniversary of what is officially known as their "liberation." Some would see this as a kind of healthy reminder to them that, although their leader Walter Ulbricht recently said East Berlin is "not subject to any sort of four-Power control", the Soviet presence there is quite another matter.

As one American diplomat in Bonn explained it, "All the former wartime allies have a little cold spot in their hearts when it comes to Berlin."

Facts Fail to Support U.S. Optimism

Vietnam Pattern Continues

By JACK FOISIE
From Saigon

It now appears that the U.S. joint chiefs of staff have convinced President Nixon that an all-out American-Vietnamese effort to permanently cut enemy infiltartion routes south through Laos and Cambodia can wind up the war in Vietnam or at least bring Hanoi to no-nonsense peace negotiations.

With the announcement here Tuesday that a second joint American-South Vietnamese force has invaded Cambodia west of Pleiku, and with other operations rumored, the pattern of the new American effort to win by military means is becoming apparent.

It also has brought a new surge of optimism similar to that expressed in 1966-67 as the weight of American combat forces began to stabilize the war that had been going against the Saigon government forces.

The "light at the end of the tunnel" which Gen. William Westmoreland saw when he was supreme commander here at that time is now being seen by vice president Spiro Agnew.

There is also beingdisplayed the same zeal of earlier years in estimating the enemy killed and booty captured in the jungles of Cambodia.

Officers admit that most of the estimates are coming from aerial observers, not from the infantry engaged in skirmishes with an enemy who so far seems to have chosen not to stand and fight.

In the 'Fishhook" area of Cambodia, Brig. Gen. Robert Shoemaker claimed that some 700 of the enemy had been killed. He also claimed that his troops reached Vietnamese communist headquarters but found the complex empty.

Reporters who accompanied the advance elenents saw a striking similarity between the "empty bag" results of this major "search-and-deestroy" operation and those mounted in years past inside Vietnam.

If the U.S. public is led to believe the war is now going to be won easily, and then it turns out to be otherwise, anti-war opinion could well be recharged.

Some Soldiers Aged 15

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Outside Neak Luong, Cambodia

Some of the Cambodian soldiers moving into new defensive positions along the Mekong Delta east of Phnom Penh are barely 15 years old.

They have only one clip of ammunition each for rifles they have fired only a few times.

The inexperienced Cambodian troops are still fighting pretty much as they were when serious Viet cong and North Vietnamese eruptions began about one month ago, which is to say that they have yet to hold any piece of territory that the Communists were determined to take.

The Cambodians are still forced to fight on a shoestring while Viet Cong units are supplied with pack radios down to a fairly low level. It is rare to find any radios at all with the Cambodians.

Messages, when they are sent at all, still frequently go back and forth by runner and sometimes via an occasional passerby.

Plan Calls for Huge Blocks of Agricultural and Recreational Land

Toronto to Get Breathing Space

By FRED HAMILTON
From Toronto

The Ontario government looked at the future of the Metropolitan Toronto area Tuesday and suggested a huge 8,600-square mile development with wide blocks of land for agriculture and recreation.

The effect of the design will be felt during the next 30 years in an area extending from Brantford in the West to Cobourg on the east and as far north as Midland on Georgian Bay.

There will be frozen areas where no development will be permitted and corridors of open space and transportation lines separating small- and medium-sized cities established to attract people away from Metropolitan Toronto.

Huge blocks of land, some of them close to Toronto, will be held for agriculture and recreation; new highway and rail routes will be developed, and industry will be encouraged to locate in the best interests of the 8,000,000 persons expected to live in the area.

The design for development of the Toronto-centred region is the result of studies and planning that started in 1966.

The government is firm on the basic proposal for development within three designated zones.

Basic purposes of the program are to take growing pressure off Toronto, decentralize population and encourage economic growth in areas that need development.

Plans vary for each of the three zones. One runs along the Lakeshore from Bowmanville to Hamilton and is about 20 miles wide at its widest point.

A second runs from Acton on the west to Stouffville on the east and north to Brantford. A third covers everything else in an arrowhead, with its lower points at Brantford and Cobourg and its tip at Midland.

Within the lakeshore zone, there will be two small- and medium-sized cities, anchored on regional governments at Hamilton and Oshawa and separated by a "parkway" of open space and rights-of-way for roads, rails and municipal services.

The population within this area by the year 2000 will be 5,700,000. Larger cities will be based on existing lakeshore municipalities and smaller ones will later be developed around communities north of the parkway.

In the outer third zone, beyond easy commuting distance to Toronto but still within its sphere of influence, the province will encourage urban expansion and economic development while protecting large blocks for recreation.

The population of the outer zone by 2000 is expected to be 2,000,000, largely concentrated in Brantford, Kitchener, Waterloo, Galt, Guelph, the new large cities of Barrie and Midland, Peterborough, Port Hope and Cobourg.

The middle zone, called a "commutershed" by MacNaughton because of its closeness to Toronto, will separate the first and third zones by about 20 miles. Further growth within it will be limited, with large sections reserved for agriculture and recreation.

A small "urban axis" will be developed as a communications link with Barrie and Midland, running through Richmond Hill and Newmarket to Bradford.

Some smaller municipalities will be permitted a moderate expansion, but the area generally will be frozen to prevent urban encroachment.

Basic centres of recreation for the region will be the full shoreline of Georgian Bay, Lake Simcoe, the Kawartha Lakes and the Niagara Escarpment.

MacNaughton said the core Toronto zone will be given a full range of transit services, connections to southwestern Ontario will be improved and direct services to Simcoe County, Kitchener-Waterloo and Oshawa-Cobourg will follow.

Twelve Goals Listed

Ontario aims at 12 goals in its design for development of the Toronto-centred region, Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said Tuesday.

He listed the goals this way:

- Encouragement of all parts of the region to develop their best potential without interfering with over-all provincial development;
- Preservation of the unique attributes of the landscape;
- Limitation of the urban use of productive agricultural land;
- Restriction of pollution to a minimum without unnecessary interference with economic growth;
- Maintainance of a pattern of identifiable communities;
- Provision of the best possible transit system for people and goods;
- Building of the most adequate sewer and water systems at minimum cost;
- Improvement of opportunities to use specialized services;
- Development of the region to meet long-term population trends;
- Preparation in advance for technological innovations;
- Preparation to meet changes in social and economic demands;
- Provision of flexibility to meet unforeseen future needs.

'Super' Creatures Menacing Britain

Rats Immune to Poison

By DENNIS EISENBERG, from London

The "super" rats of Britain are rapidly becoming a national problem. Not only are these poison-resistant rodents worrying farmers by spreading a killer disease, but they have burst through a supposedly "death-trap" barrier and are now menacing major cities.

The rats are centred in mid-Wales, which now is believed to be host to the world's most intense concentration of this type of "super" rodent. Completely resistant to the customary poison warfare, the rats have also shrugged off the effects of an even more modern and deadly poison called Racumin 57.

To combat the menace of the rats, the British ministry of agriculture encircled the 1,000-square-mile affected area in Wales and Shropshire with a three-mile-wide control belt of zinc phospide. The plan worked — for a while. With a death count of 60,000 "super" rats, ministry officials were initially delighted with their chemical "cordon sanitaire."

But the "super" rats have not earned the reputation of being "super" for nothing. They burst through the barrier — ironically enough at a place called "Devil's Bridge."

Now the rats are working their way to the heavily industrialized West Midlands area, where millions of people live in such cities as Birmingham, Wolverhampton and Worcester. It is feared that if only a small number get into the towns a potentially critical situation might develop because the "super" rats cannot be traced. They will breed like town mice, already highly resistant to poisons.

In the already-infested farming areas of Wales, the "super" rats are spreading the disease of Leptospirosis, also known as Weil's Disease. This used to be a fairly common cause of illness and death among coal miners in the days when pits were infested with rats. The disease is difficult to distinguish from ordinary influenza, and if not treated the victim can die of kidney failure.

Farmers are demanding that the government launch an all-out drive to stop the march of the rats and wipe them out in the areas they already infest. But every effort to stop the onward march of the "super" rats has so far failed. When a new poison was tried on one refuse tip, the chemical killed 800 of the rodents. But not long afterwards it was found that the tip was repopulated with fresh, even more super "super" rats who were now also immune to the new poison.

The problem facing rodent officers is how to develop an effective killer which is not dangerous to domestic animals and people. The government's infestation control unit in Surrey came up with some new poisons which officials were confident would kill the "super" rats. But field tests showed that the new compounds were "not very promising."

They now are having to start all over again.

In the meanwhile, Leptospirosis is spreading among farm animals. One herd of cattle in the Chilterns was found to be heavily infected with the disease, and milk producing was cut in half. And one-fifth of race horses in southern England have been found to be suffering from the same infection.

And all the while the government officially claims there are no such things as "super" rats. "They are the same as any other kind of rats," said a spokesman, "except that they have developed a resistance to the most commonly used rat poisons."

But the National Farmers' Union believes in calling a spade a spade — particularly when it is a nasty "super" one. "There are growing fears that a real health hazard could arise at any time now, unless a campaign is mounted to exterminate these rats," said one of the Union's spokesmen.

It is admitted that the rats are now spreading at the rate of one mile a year over a broad front. But the danger is that the present methods used to control their progress are becoming less and less effective as the rats develop more and more immunity to the poisons being tried out on them.

And some rats have been discovered many miles beyond where they are supposed to be. It now is becoming a race between scientists seeking new methods of killing the rodents, and the "super" rats really coming to town.

If you want growing life insurance, talk to Standard Life.

Take this example of a Standard policy holder.

In 1950, at the age of 20, he took out a "Whole Life" policy with a face value of $10,000, and with participation in profits. His annual premium is $180, so that he has now paid a total of $3,600 in premiums.

During these same 20 years, we increased the value of his 'sum assured' through Bonus additions by $6,672.00.

This means that, for his $3,600.00 premium payments, our policy holder's policy now has a claim value of $16,672.00 (the original face value plus Bonuses) — which is a comforting thought in our inflationary economy.

Naturally, this is an example of past performance; we can't guarantee its continuance in the future. But our track record is pretty good: the only changes in bonuses we've ever made in peace time have been increases. And for 1969, in spite of the new income tax assessments, we have maintained our previous bonus rate.

The technical name for this growth idea is Full Reversionary Bonus Plan. One of our salaried professionals will be glad to explain it to you, and to discuss how and where a Standard Life Growth Policy fits into your personal financial plans.

Only Golds Defy Lowering Trend

Buying Inertia Hits Prices at Toronto

TORONTO — With declines outnumbering advances four-to-one the market continued its downward trend. Golds again were the most favored section, the index rising 4.31 to 154.32. Buying interest was extremely light and bids were thin.

Other mines were mixed. Denison was off 2 at 31, and its associate Roman fell .90 to 8.00. Falconbridge was down more than 3 points but Nickel was up a fraction. Hollinger, Mattagami Lake and Cassiar were among those higher.

Oils and industrials were lower, along with banks and utilities.

Exceptions were T. G. Bright up 5 at 104⅜ on news of a doubled dividend and 10-for-one split. IOS and Investors Overseas on rumors of new financial aid as a result of meetings in Geneva.

B.C. Forest was off 1 to 30⅜. IOS Ltd., which dropped sharply in recent weeks, was up ⅛ to 5⅛. Wilhelm Hankel, of West Germany's federal credit supervisory authority, said Monday night no irregularities have been found in the firm's activities.

Highlighting industrial losses on small volume trades, Credit Foncier dipped 4 to 47, Velcro Industries 1 to 21, Southam Press 1 to 50, Argus 1 to 15, Canada and Dominion Sugar 1 to 34 and Consumer Glass 1 to 20.

Senior mines and oils were lower with Falconbridge down 4 to 155, Denison 2 to 32, Shell Canada 1⅛ to 23, Union Oil 1 to 19, Pacific Petroleum ⅝ to 24⅛ and Aquitaine ⅝ to 16⅞.

Rally for Kaiser

VANCOUVER — Prices kept slipping although trading remained light. Most industrials held at overnight levels, while Kaiser up ⅜ at 18⅛ and Ionarc up .15 at 2.85 showed gains. Main drop was in House of Stein which lost .90 at 3.60.

Stronger among mines were Highmont up .40, Davis Keays up .30, Giant Mascot and Western Mines, each up .20. Losses were mainly small. Oils made little change.

Denison Down Two

MONTREAL (CP) — The market drifted lower with numerous issues losing a point or more in extremely light trading.

The banking sector suffered the largest losses with the Bank of Montreal off ¼ to 15⅛ in heavy trading. Royal eased ½ to 20½ and the Bank of Nova Scotia ⅝ to 19¼, both in moderate activity.

Seven Year Low

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed off 4.82 at 709.74, lowest since Aug. 9, 1963, when it stood at 708.39. On Nov. 22, 1963, the day Kennedy was shot, it was 711.49.

After the close, the Federal Reserve Board reduced its margin requirement for buying stock to 65 per cent from 80 per cent.

Mail order-retail, utilities, rails, oils, airlines and rubber issues were all generally lower. Aircraft were up, while steels, motors, electronics, metals and chemicals were mixed.

Prices on the big board included Parke Davis, off 1⅜ to 19⅛; Telex, off ⅛ to 17⅝; Fairchild Camera, off 1½ to 39; Polaroid, up 3¼ to 71; Sperry Rand, up 1⅜ to 26⅝; and Bristol Myers, off 3⅛ to 51¼.

Wings Award For Douglas

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Aircraft of Canada Ltd. has signed a contract to deliver 300 wing sets for the McDonnell Douglas DC-10.

C. R. Gollihas, vice-president of finance, said the agreement reached with McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis, the company's parent firm, is an incremental contract that will be extended as the sales of the aircraft increase.

Value of the contract was not disclosed. The airplane will sell for about $16,000,000.

Bond Erosion Continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Savings bond redemptions exceeded sales by $80,000,000 last month, the 17th consecutive month of net decline, the treasury department said Tuesday.

The last time sales topped redemptions was November, 1968. Since then, a net of $1,100,000,000 has been withdrawn from bond holdings.

Uranium Seekers

Asset Sales Limited

OTTAWA (CP) — Foreign-owned companies exploring for uranium will come under similar restrictions regarding any sale of their assets as those applying to companies already producing uranium, Resources Minister J. J. Greene told the Commons Tuesday.

The move is designed to ensure that any future sales of the foreign-owned exploration firms would have to bring about Canadian majority ownership.

The regulations will be retroactive to last March, Greene said.

A company will be deemed to have been actively engaged in uranium exploration March 2 if it held, before then, a valid authority to mineral rights and could demonstrate to the atomic energy control board that it was exploring for uranium on its property, Greene said.

Such a company would have until March 2, 1976, to show the board it had a uranium deposit on its property worth commercial development.

The companies would be treated in the same way as present producers.

Paternity Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Cary Grant was named in a paternity suit filed in Superior Court Tuesday by a former production employee of a Hollywood film studio, Cynthia Bouron, 32.

Exporter Minimizes Prices

British Leyland, in twin announcements Tuesday, cut $100 from its Austin America 1300 and Austin 1800 export models and introduced Austin Mini de luxe, shown above. Changes are redesigned grill and improved side window arrangement. Popular car has passed 2,500,000-sales mark in 11 years since introduction.

Transcona Gets Ginter Brewery

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ben Ginter of Prince George, announced Monday that he will locate his new brewery in the Greater Winnipeg city of Transcona.

The site of the brewery has been subject to speculation for the last year. Both Selkirk and St. Boniface had been mentioned as possible sites.

Ginter said the project will cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. Completion date has been set for between September and November this year. The brewery will employ approximately 70 people.

U.S. Cuts Stock Margin

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

In a bigger-than-expected measure, the U.S. Federal Reserve Board literally poured billions of dollars into the stock market in an after-the-close announcement Tuesday it would reduce the cash margin requirement on stock purchases.

The cash margin for U.S. stocks was reduced from the present 80 per cent to 65 per cent, and the margin for convertible debentures dropped from 60 per cent to 50 per cent.

The reduction on stock margins was 5 per cent more than members of the New York Stock Exchange had requested in an application to the FRB last week.

The immediate reaction to the provision of new credit for stock holding came from the Pacific Coast Exchange, which was still open when the announcement was made.

It was regarded as the first positive signal from the FRB that credit restrictions were being eased.

"What this reduction will do primarily, is to stop distress selling by those investors subject to margin calls on the falling market," said one local dealer. "Apart from this it will create marginal surpluses for many investors who believe that the market may now be at the bargain stage.

UPWARD TURN

He expected the market to take a sharp upward turn today although he was unwilling to prophesy that it would have more than a temporary effect.

"What this does is to give investors another 15 per cent of potential credit on the sum total of their investments," he added. "If it was all used, it would amount to billions of dollars of purchasing power to investors."

The margin requirements in Canada are unchanged. They remain at 60 per cent, or 5 per cent below the new U.S. level of 65 per cent.

The NYSE had asked for the reduction last week as a measure to restore buying potential to the oversold market.

WIND-UP ORDERED

Angry shareholders of Medcom Medical Computer Co. Ltd. Tuesday approved the liquidating of their company, but asked the Ontario Securities Commission to give them preferential treatment to the company's founder and principal shareholder.

A motion that Dr. Keith Arden Ivey, owner of about 19 per cent of the outstanding, should get less per share than the other shareholders when the assets are distributed, was carried by 15,947 votes to 341, at the meeting in Toronto.

Medcom expects to make an initial distribution of $3.25 a share within the next ten days and another 25 to 75 cents later.

Medcom sold 350,000 shares to the public in January 1969 at $10.

MILLIONS LOST

International Petroleum Co. Ltd. is rated as having very little chance of recovering the $170,000,000 value of its Peruvian assets expropriated by that country's military government 18 months ago.

International Petroleum, which held its annual meeting in Toronto this week, is 99.9 per cent owned by Standard Oil of New Jersey, and it has only about 150 minority shareholders in the U.S. and Canada.

In 1969 the company's net profit dropped to $333,000 from $36,600,000 in 1968.

WINE SPLIT PROPOSED

The shares of T. G. Bright and Co., Ontario winemakers, topped the $100 mark value on the Toronto Stock Exchange Tuesday shortly after the company announced its intention to split its share 10-for-one and to double the amount of its dividend.

A meeting to approve the split has been called for June 9, and the first increased quarterly dividend of $1 (10 cents per each new share) will be paid in September. It previously paid 50 cents a quarter.

THE EXECUTIVE JET.™
CP AIR'S SOLUTION TO THE PHYSICAL AND EMOTIONAL NEEDS OF TODAY'S TRAVELING BUSINESSMAN.

We all have our needs.

And we're sorry to say, we can't help most people with theirs. But we can help the traveling businessman with his.

We've introduced the Executive Jet for all our cross Canada flights.

It's designed to let a traveling businessman work when he wants to work. And play when he wants to play. (We give you freedom of choice).

For instance, if you feel like working, just ask a stewardess for a dictating machine, or for stationery. She'll be happy to help you set up an office away from the office.

If you don't feel like working yourself, but would like to know how your money is working for you, just ask one of our girls for the Financial Post or the Wall Street Journal. We even carry a brief up-to-the-minute resume of marketing/financial information. (For the man who's not interested in those kinds of figures, may we suggest the ones in Playboy magazine.)

If you'd rather play than work (which we won't blame you for, either), just tell one of our stewardesses you're in the mood to play games. She'll understand. All Executive Jets carry grown-up games like Instant Insanity and Soma.

Perhaps you feel like doing absolutely nothing. Well, we couldn't think of a better place to do it. The atmosphere on board is always relaxed and informal.

Our stewardesses are great to look at, too. They don't wear uniforms that make them look like they're in the army. They wear what we call "non-uniforms." They're supplied to us by Canada's best-known retailers. So you know they're contemporary.

For instance, you'll see our girls in pant-suits, maxi-coats, and bell bottoms.

Women can find happiness aboard the Executive Jet, too. They won't have to dictate or read Fortune to have fun. There are dozens of other things to do.

So next time you're planning a flight within Canada, ask your travel agent to book you on one of our fourteen daily Executive Jet flights.

It's the other way to fly.

Referendums Fading Away Says Campbell

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Tuesday he feels there is a trend away from asking ratepayers' approval for borrowing to carry out civic projects.

But he indicated the government has no plans in the forseeable future to eliminate such referendums.

The move was suggested by Haddock after the city's five-year capital budget was approved last week. Haddock said an amendment to the Municipal Act allowing councils to borrow money for capital expenditures without a referendum would remove present official "uncertainty and anxiety."

Meanwhile, the mayor added, an adequate safeguard would be a limitation of annual debt charges in any municipality to less than 25 per cent of its operating budget.

Campbell said only two years have passed since the Union of B.C. Municipalities co-operated in a special committee study of this question which involved ratepayer groups throughout the province.

The reaction obtained in this study and in a subsequent inquiry by the legislative committee on municipal matters, Campbell added, showed most people felt borrowing for different kinds of projects had to be treated in different ways.

The result was an amendment to the Municipal Act, the minister said, which allows a municipality to borrow for sewer and water projects without specific approval of ratepayers.

"Some projects should have a vote — expensive city halls and arenas and that sort of thing," Campbell said.

"But we are moving in the direction of this kind of change (to the progressive elimination of the need for referendums on borrowing for capital projects) and when sufficient public support develops there will be changes in the Act."

Square Wall 'Ridiculous'

A proposal for the construction of a five-foot, six-inch wall separating Centennial Square shops from the rest of the square, came under fire Tuesday from several Victoria aldermen.

"I guess the next logical step would be to have some barbed wire around the square and post a couple of armed American guards," Ald. Peter Pollen said.

The proposal to build the wall was made to the city's public works committee by Mayor Courtney Haddock. It would run between the pillars of the arcade from Douglas to the entrance to the city's parking building.

WALL HELP

Haddock told the committee the wall would help solve the problems of square merchants who had been complaining about the loitering of youths in front of their stores.

Pollen also told the committee instead of chasing young people out of the square, the city should build more squares for them.

"This is ridiculous. We are just wasting our time talking like this. I can't understand how we can even seriously consider the erection of a wall," he said.

SHOPS CLOSED

Ald. Harold Olafson said he would rather see the shops closed than have a wall in Centennial Square.

"If we even consider spending $5,000 or $10,000 for a lousy wall, let's close the stores down — let's pack them up," he said.

Committee decided to take no action at this time. Instead, City Manager Dennis Young was asked to look into the possibility of allowing the merchants to break their leases if they so desired.

At present, merchants renting premises in Centennial Square are bound by a five-year lease. Young said the city should also review the present rent scales.

Not Before End of May

Victoria Posties Can See Strike

Victoria postal workers have taken all the necessary steps to gird themselves for a national mail strike. They believe that if there is to be one, it won't begin before the last week in May.

At the same time, they don't intend to follow the lead of the Toronto locals and set their own date for a strike vote, a union spokesman said Tuesday.

"We are going along with our national Council of Postal Unions," said Marcel Boutin, president of the Victoria local of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada. "It seems only right that all the votes on the conciliation board report be taken at the same time."

STRIKE DATE

In Toronto Tuesday, the presidents of the biggest unions associated with the two postal unions set May 19 as the tentative date for a strike vote by their 27,000 members.

The Vancouver union officials say workers might start their own local post offices for business mail in the event of a strike. Their counterparts in Ottawa say such an idea could spread quickly.

Victoria's 300 or so carriers and inside workers, meanwhile, have been quiet by comparison.

"Just in case the worst comes we have set up the necessary strike machinery," Boutin said. "It would be much the same as in 1968."

The last nationwide mail strike occurred in July, 1968. The first was in 1965.

COMMON VOTE

Boutin said the men here favor the system proposed by the national council which wants copies of the conciliation report recommendations.

A date would be fixed by the national office for a common vote, Boutin said, and the votes would be counted by a private firm.

"We wouldn't expect all of this to be done before the last week of May. It would take a little longer, sure, but everybody would have a better idea of what he is doing," Boutin said.

Golf Facility

Saanich Seeks Design

Saanich parks and outdoor recreation committee decided Tuesday night to ask three Victoria architectural firms to submit plans for a clubhouse for Cedar Hill Golf Course.

Committee chairman Ald. William Noel said after the meeting that the architects would be asked to submit complete plans but with the first phase not to exceed $25,000 in cost.

The first phase could consist of a clubhouse to be used in later years as a pro shop or it could be a structure designed to be added to, Noel said. The location is at Derby Road on the eastern border of the golf course.

"We hope the building will be ready for use when we take over the golf club next Jan. 1," he said.

The architects who will be asked to submit plans are John Di Castri, Wade Stockdill Armour and Blewett and Wagg and Hambleton.

Rocks Settle for Tie After Building Lead

Victoria Shamrocks of the Western Lacrosse Association have a new directorate and two new coaches but they still have the third-period blues.

Seemingly set to walk all over Vancouver Burrards in an exhibition Greenwood tournament game Tuesday before about 800 fans at Esquimalt Sports Centre, Victoria blew a 7-2 lead and had to settle for a 10-10 tie.

It was the second straight last-period letdown for the charges of coaches Bert Bertoia and Ron Jay. New Westminster Salmonbellies scored four unanswered goals in the third period for a 12-6 win in the tournament opener.

Brent Ojanen sparked the Vancouver comeback, scoring three of his four goals in the final period. Bill Rawson, Spencer Rea, Brian Davidson, Ross McDonald and Gord Leibscher scored the other Burrards goals in the outbreak.

Denis Somner, with two of his three goals, and Muzz Bryant scored the third-period goals for Shamrocks, who sagged on defence after a hustling team effort in the first two periods.

Nirmal Dillon, scoring once with Shamrocks shorthanded, had three goals to lead Victoria to its 7-2 lead going into the final period.

OPENED SCORING

Dillon opened the scoring midway through the period and Bill Spotswood and Ranjit Dillon, catching goalkeeper Don Hamilton at centre floor, scored to make it 3-1 in the first period after Ojanen tied the game.

Ken Alexander and Somner scored the other second-period goals while Bob Salt beat goalkeeper George Grover with a long shot for the Vancouver goal.

HARRY YOUNG

If the use of the championship tees at Royal Colwood in the second round of the Island Open contributed to the success of youth, then the lusty hitters are likely to have things going in their favor again this weekend when the scene shifts to Glen Meadows for the third round.

At its full stretch Glen Meadows is the longest course on the Island. Not only is it over 7,000 yards from the championship tees but it is also one on which at this time of year there is very little roll on the lower fairways.

Crunching drives and long-iron deadliness will be as important at Glen Meadows as it was at Colwood.

The four matches of the championship flight leave interesting possibilities. The two pros left are Earl Davies and Laurie Carroll — both in different halves of the draw — while the two outstanding juniors of last season — Dave Mick and Carl Schwantje are others who cannot meet before the final.

Meantime, it looks as if these are the possible semi-finalists although in no case this weekend is a match to be regarded as a foreiorn hope for anyone.

Age and youth are well exemplified in the clash between Laurie Carroll and Bob Ferguson, respectively, the oldest and youngest of the survivors.

Carroll has developed a nonchalant paternalistic attitude to the game and to his younger opponents, but his friendliness can be a sugar-coated pill to put an opponent off his guard. And with two previous championships behind him, the driving-range pro is to be feared and respected, and the Carroll power will not flinch at the prospect of the Glen Meadow acres.

Ferguson, on the other hand, is an extremely mature 16. He has played well so far in this competition, and last year was among the best of the fine local crop of under 19s. He is already perhaps a more complete golfer than his older brother, Cec, and he is capable of matching Carroll shot for shot.

The prospects for Davies are also uncertain, because the genial Earl can blow hot and cold. It may be that in winning one of his "cold" ones against Urban Allan last week, he is all the more entitled to respect on this occasion, when he has to go against Gene Williams, labelled as one of Colwood's best.

There will also be much interest in the clash of the two intermediates Dave Mick and Al Brown. Mick's record speaks for itself but Brown has shown great improvement in the past few months, and the Uplands' lad was the leading amateur in the recent District Spring Medal. This may be the best match of the day.

In the other contest, Schwantje will be up against a long hitter in Gorge Vale's Jim Taylor, who has not been long enough in the area to fully establish the reputation he probably deserves.

Anyway with four intermediates, one junior and two professionals in the last eight, the outlook for local golf appears to be in good hands.

It now seems that the Open Championship at St. Andrews this summer is to have the world's most talented golf field for the 96th renewal of the world's oldest golf tournament.

Won for the first time at Prestwick in 1860 by Willie Park — whose driver our clubs compete for every year — the Open has been interrupted three times; first in 1870 when Tom Morris Junior won it three times in a row and made the "Belt" which went to the winner, his own personal property.

Two years later the Open was resumed, also at Prestwick, for the cup that is still the award that goes to the winner along with the all important cheque. Tom Morris Junior won it again, but that was his last fling before a tragic death took him when he was not yet at his prime.

The next two interruptions were for the two world wars. Apart from that the Open has been moving around from one classic sand-dune course to another in the traditional British mould.

I hear that all the top U.S. players — Palmer, Nicklaus, and Casper among them — have entered along with Gary Player, Peter Thomson and Bob Charles to complete the international flavor and the overseas challenge to holder Tony Jacklin, who last year became the first Britisher since Max Faulkner in 1951 to win the British crown.

As another British tournament is to catch much of this talent in the previous week to the Open, it looks as if, for the second year in succession, the field for the Canadian Open, due a week before the Open is going to be bereft of many of the top U.S. tour stars.

Indeed initial publicity for the Canadian event over the London Hunt Club is such as to indicate that a main gallery attraction may be the effort of the Canadian golfers to win the country's leading event.

It is sixteen years since Victoria's Pat Fletcher stepped before the podium at Vancouver's Point Grey to accept a year's lease of the Seagram Gold Cup. Since then the Cup has sailed between the U.S., South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

This time Canada will be strongly represented by Al Balding and George Knudsen, both of whom have been close to success before, and also by the fast-improving Wayne Vollmer and other Canadian hopefuls.

Fabro Re-Opening Suspension Probe

Mile Fabro of Trail, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, will re-open the case of a Saanich minor hockey player who last week was suspended until Dec. 31, 1970, "for irresponsible conduct and abusive language."

Ted Adkin, president of the Saanich Minor Hockey Association, spoke with Fabro by telephone Monday after sending a telegram last week asking for the reason for the suspension. Adkin said the re-investigation of the case may take a week or more.

The incident, which the boy has denied, is alleged to have taken place during the week-end of March 14 and 15 in Powell River, where the Vancouver Island Peewee hockey championship was being played.

Name of the player has not been released.

Bruins Outclass Blues As Orr Controls Play

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis Blues could only score Tuesday while they had a man advantage.

Boston Bruins could score with a man advantage, while the clubs were at even strength and even while playing a man short.

The Bruins, with Bobby Orr directing the attack and controlling the game, used all three situations to open a 3-0 first-period lead and went on to a 6-2 victory and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final.

The Blues got their goals, by Terry Gray in the second period and Frank St. Marseille in the third, with Bruins serving penalties.

TWO-GOAL EFFORTS

Eddie Westfall and Derek Sanderson each scored two goals for Boston. Fred Stanfield and Johnny Bucyk, who had three goals in Sunday's opener, opened and closed the scoring, respectively.

Orr not only started two scoring plays but he inspired Bruins when their pace threatened to slacken and when inspired, the Bruins were an ominous machine, getting particularly strong games from defenceman Dallas Smith, Phil Esposito, Sanderson, Bucyk and Westfall, before he was shaken up in the second period with a board check on which Bob Plager drew a penalty.

MORE RECORDS

Orr and Esposito, who also had two assists, broke more National Hockey League scoring records.

Esposito's two points brought his total to 23, including 12 goals, and Orr's pair gave him 18 during this season's playoffs.

The previous points record of 21 was held by Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks who had six goals and 15 assists in 12 games in 1962. Esposito had matched that total Sunday with a goal and an assist in Boston's 11th playoff game.

The previous record of 16 points by a defenceman was held by Tim Horton of New York Rangers. Horton had three goals and a record 13 assists in establishing the mark in 12 playoff games in 1962 while a member of Toronto Maple Leafs. Orr has eight goals and 10 assists in 12 games.

OPENED SCORING

The brilliant young defenceman started the first scoring play with a pass to Esposito who swept deep into St. Louis territory and completed a pass to Stanfield on a second attempt. Stanfield gave Ernie Wakely no chance in completing the power-play effort.

After Westfall had tipped in a rebound of a shot by Rick Smith to make it 2-0 and with the Bruins shorthanded. Orr controlled play in the Boston end, streaked down the ice and flipped a perfect pass to Westfall after drawing three defenders to one side.

Sanderson, from Esposito and Wayne Carleton on another power play, made it 4-0 before Gray tipped in a drive from the blue line by Noel Picard with Sanderson in the penalty box.

Blues had just returned to full strength when Sanderson tipped in a rebound at 58 seconds of the third period and Johnny MacKenzie was in the penalty box when St. Marseille brought the Blues to 5-2.

Bruins continued to apply pressure and only some fine saves by Wakely held Boston in check except for the goal by Bucyk, who split the defence and fooled the goaltender on a neat effort.

It was the eighth straight win for the Bruins, who won their last two games against New York and swept their semi-final series with Chicago, equalling a record set first by Montreal Canadiens in 1944, equalled by Detroit in 1952 and the 1960 Canadiens.

The series now switches to Boston with the third game scheduled for Thursday night and the fourth on Sunday.

Spokane Wins Allan Cup

SPOKANE (CP) — Spokane Jets defeated Orillia Terriers, 6-3, Tuesday night to become the first U.S. champion in 62 years of competition for the Allan Cup, emblem of the Canadian senior hockey championship.

Jets, who won the best-of-seven series 4-2, had two goals from Tom Rendall, singles from Bud Bodman, John Thompson, Dave Toner and Gord Turlik, and the usual great goaltending job from Seth Martin.

Martin who was with Trail Smoke Eaters when they won the cup in 1962, stopped 41 drives from the heavier fast-skating Ontario team. Gerry McNamara or Orillia stopped 27.

It was the third Allan Cup for Spokane coach Al Rollins. He was a goalkeeper with two champions, Edmonton Flyers in 1948 and Drumheller Miners in 1966.

India Upsets Australia

BANGALORE, India (AP) — India upset Australia with a clinching singles victory by Premjit Lall over Dick Crealy Tuesday and won the Eastern Zone title in the Davis Cup tennis competition. The margin was 3-1, with one match unfinished.

It was the first time in history that Australia had been beaten so early in the tournament. The Aussies dominated the competition for years, winning the cup 22 times — more than any other country.

Reds Pace Another Sweep For West Division Teams

Cincinnati Reds continued Tuesday to make it impossible for their Western Division rivals to gain ground as the division's teams swept interlocking games from the Eastern Division for the second straight day.

Cincinnati scored a 5-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals to maintain their six-game lead as the western teams won six games after taking the only three games scheduled in Monday's major-league baseball.

Lee May and Bobby Tolan hit their sixth home runs in support of Wayne Simpson's three-hit pitching as Reds scored their seventh straight victory.

Simpson, 5-1, has now allowed only 21 hits in 46 2-3 innings and Tuesday did not permit a runner past second base after Richie Allen opened the second inning with his eighth home run.

THREE HOMERS

Atlanta collected three home runs on the way to a 12-6 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates as the second-place Braves extended their winning streak to eight games.

Clete Boyer drove in four runs with his third and fourth homer and Hank Aaron tied Tony Perez of Cincinnati for the major-league lead with his 10th home run.

Aaron's blow, the 2986th hit of his career, capped a seven-run outburst in the second inning, helped by Felix Millan's three-run double and two bases on balls with the bases loaded by loser Bob Moose.

EXTENDS STREAK

Rico Carty, the league's leading hitter, extended his hitting streak to 24 games with singles in the second and sixth innings.

Larry Dierker won his fifth game in seven decisions as Houston Astros defeated Chicago Cubs, 3-1, sending the Eastern Division leaders to their third straight loss.

San Diego Padres had the most difficult time in the Western Division sweep, yielding seven runs in the first inning but coming from behind to win, 11-8, when Clarence Gaston's two-run homer sparked a four-run rally in the ninth inning.

Sandy Vance and Fred Norman combined for a six-hit shutout over New York Mets as Bill Grabarkewitz and Wes Parker each hit two-run doubles in Los Angeles Dodgers' 4-0 victory.

Bobby Bonds stole three bases, including third twice, and drove in two runs to lead San Francisco Giants to a 4-1 victory over Montreal Expos.

DRIVES IN SIX

In the American League, Tony Oliva drove in six runs with a home run, triple and single to lead Minnesota Twins, the Western Division leaders, to an 8-5 victory over Detroit Tigers.

Unbeaten Luis Tiant posted his fifth victory despite setting a club record of nine walks in the five and two-thirds innings he worked.

DOUBLE-PLAY RECORD

Major league record of nine double plays in a game was tied in Chicago White Sox' 2-1 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Boston Red Sox, held hitless for five innings by Gene Brabender, erupted for all their runs in the sixth inning to defeat Milwaukee Brewers, 6-0.

Gloria Crow, Carlson Top Junior Bowlers

Gloria Crow bowled steadily and Larry Carlson benefitted from a big game to win the Junior Champion of the Year fivepin titles Sunday at Town and Country Lanes.

The two 17-year-olds will share the Rod Hendry Memorial Trophy in the competition inaugurated this year by the Victoria Fivepin Association.

Miss Crow had 258 for her first two games for a 41-point lead over Karen Roberts going into the final game. Miss Roberts closed the margin to four points at the finish with a 283 game as Miss Crow rolled a 246 to finish with 762.

Carlson had 191 in his opener and trailed leader Randy York by 72 points. Carlson had three spares to start his second game then ran a string of seven strikes to finish with the highest game of the day, a 363. Carlson had a 76-point lead over Russel Hunt going into the final game and finished with a 209 for a total of 763, 58 points more than Hunt.

Miss Crow has been bowling in Youth Bowling Council-leagues for five years while Carlson has been a YBC bowler for four years. Both have a year of elegibility left in junior competition.

Wilt Chamberlain

Wilt's a Different Stilt This Series

* * * * * * * * *

He Believes He Has Something to Prove

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Next time Wilt Chamberlain comes on your TV screen — like tonight for instance — look a little closer.

You'll notice a different Chamberlain.

There's something he wants now and wants badly, and when Wilt Chamberlain wants something he takes on some of the qualities of a tidal wave and a great many things get swept away before him.

What Chamberlain wants is an NBA championship and in order to get it, Los Angeles Lakers must defeat New York Knicks tonight in Los Angeles and again later this week in New York.

Jerry West and the rest of the Lakers want the title too, but nobody wants it more than Chamberlain.

PRIME TARGET

Able a ballplayer as he is, Chamberlain has been subject to criticism ever since entering the league 10 years ago. It doesn't matter he's the greatest scorer in NBA history or that he revolutionized the game's economic system with a yearly salary estimated as high as $333,333. He still is a prime target.

"For that kind of money," some say, "he ought to at least be able to sink a coupla fouls."

"Where was he when it counted last year?" others ask. "In those last minutes of the final championship game with Boston?"

DAMAGED KNEE

Wilt Chamberlain was on the bench then with a damaged knee that's where he was, and there were those who still feel he should have been out there playing against the Celtics giving it everything he had left, the same way Jerry West did.

"West once broke his nose, had it packed and played the entire game," one of Wilt's critics reminds. "Chamberlain sits down if his spirit is broken."

HAVING GREAT SERIES

That's not really true and maybe that's why winding up with a winner now is so important to Chamberlain. Only a few months ago he underwent knee surgery and his own doctor said he would never play again this season. But he is playing and what's more he's having a great series, sweatband around his forehead and all.

"You were limping a little out there," somebody said to him earlier in this series with the Knicks.

PROVING SOMETHING

There's no question the Lakers' celebrated centre is "up" for these games with the Knicks. He feels he has to prove something.

"I'm the only athlete I know of who's pretty good at his position that everybody else is telling how to play it," he says. "They don't wanna see me do this, they don't wanna see me do that. When I shoot the fadeaway they say I should be going for the basket and dunking the basketball, then when I go in they say I should be doing something else."

HE'S NOT ALONE

Chamberlain thinks he's alone in that regard. He isn't. People still keep telling Jack Dempsey how he should've fought Gene Tunney and Jack's going on 75. Chamberlain is only 34. Dempsey never bothers arguing anymore, but Chamberlain usually answers back. He figures it's important.

Only the other day Wilt got worked up when he heard that Irv Kosloff, the Philadelphia 76ers' owner, was saying he was paying Billy Cunningham more than any player he ever had.

Chamberlain said that was a lie and Kosloff later said he was sorry he started the whole thing.

Chamberlain is much better off when he relaxes. Not only at the foul line but off the court also. Like the other night after he helped the Lakers to their first victory by batting down a couple of Knicks' passes.

Somebody mentioned the fact to him following the game and after Wilt Chamberlain was through listening, he dead-panned:

"Yeah, I tried to — even with my wooden hands."

Tonight's game will be telecast on Channel 4 starting at 7 p.m. PDT.

ALEC MERRIMAN

An outdoor-use permit that would be sold to recreationists who travel in British Columbia with trailers, campers, boats, tents and other camping units could be the answer to the outdoor litter and pollution problem.

The suggestion has come from the Chilcotin Rod and Gun Club and will be among resolutions considered when the B.C. Wildlife Federation meets in convention at Trail, May 21 to 23.

The Chilcotin club notes that campers have access to areas not seviced by adequate refuse disposal facilities, thereby adding to the total overall pollution problem faced by British Columbians.

It suggests that permit fees be used to establish a fund exclusively to provide disposal facilities and staff to service these facilities at the unorganized camping areas.

Last year 1,394,147 camper nights were recorded in organized government campsites alone, and who knows how many were spent in unorganized camping areas. The number of outdoor recreationists will increase significantly in the future to the point that indiscriminate refuse disposal could render large areas unsuitable for recreational use, the resolution warns.

It points out that provision of the Litter Act, requiring burying of garbage and wastes, will prove impractical in areas where topsoil is thin or absent, and in any event will provide only a temporary solution to the problem.

Congratulations to the Chilcotin Club for coming up with a workable answer to a problem that plagues all areas of British Columbia and particularly Vancouver Island which is so favored by campers, and which has so much wild space available for campers.

We have been pestering the provincial recreation department officials for 15 years, warning about the litter and pollution problems at unorganized camping areas, such as the Sayward Lakes and Buttle Lake area.

We have met with little success in our pleas. Money, lack of staff and jurisdiction have been offered as excuses.

The new Anti Litter Act is welcome. It places responsibilities upon dirty campers and provides penalties, which is good. It also places responsibilities upon manufacturers and retailers to make sure their bottles and containers are returnable. What is doesn't do is place any responsibility upon the government to help people be clean. It is a sad fact, but if some facilities aren't provided people will foul their own nests.

At any place where campers congregate there must be at least minimal toilet facilities and a garbage collection point nearby. Most of all, there just has to be more dump stations for self-contained camper vehicles.

One can't condone the action of any person who pulls up to a roadside ditch, or a lakeshore, and dumps a holding tank. That is disgusting. But, just what are they going to do when there is no place to dump? There is only one government dump station on Vancouver Island—at Goldstream Park — and another planned at Rathtrevor, and four or five private campgrounds that provide dumping facilities at minimal cost, although none of them advertise the facility. In all of British Columbia there are only six government dump stations in operation, with 10 more planned.

It would seem like a good business for a service group . . . like a fish and game club or some other organization . . . to set up a dump station and operate it as a fund-raising proposition in areas like Campbell River, where camping pressure is high and facilities meagre.

But, it really should be a government function to encourage campers to be clean and to help them to be clean.

The proposed outdoor use permit would be a logical step.

The resolution suggests the permit be on a yearly basis and paid by all persons using B.C.'s recreational lands and waters.

The permits could be issued along with campfire permits and hunting and fishing licences, at sporting goods stores, marinas, trailer and camper rentals, tourist bureaus, to mention a few outlets.

It could take the form of a campfire permit, and in addition, a vehicle sticker, comparable to those issued in national parks, could be issued to facilitate checking procedures.

Money collected from the permits could be used to provide additional disposal facilities at the more frequented areas along the highways and to create an anti-litter patrol.

It sounds like a good idea. Biggest danger could be that the government might eventually consider the permit fees as just another source for the consolidated general revenue fund . . . like it did with the conservation fund.

Underwood Anchors Claremont

Reg Underwood won the long jump, triple jump and javelin events and anchored two relay winners Tuesday to lead Claremont to the team championship in a high school boys' track and field meet with Oak Bay and Shawnigan Lake.

Claremont finished with 231 points followed by Oak Bay, 135, and Shawnigan, 111. The meet was held at Centennial Stadium.

Rob Ross was a double winner for Oak Bay, taking the 1500 and 3000-metre runs, the latter with an excellent time of nine minutes and three seconds.

DRIVE IN OFF TOPAZ

for British Columbia's exciting

totem circle

The MV "Queen of Prince Rupert" is an extension of British Columbia's fine highway system, bridging 330 miles of the fjord-like, coastal Inside Passage. Board with your vehicle at either Prince Rupert or Kelsey Bay on Vancouver Island to complete the Totem Circle tour. Enjoy stateroom luxury, fine food, traditional service, then 20 hours later arrive refreshed at your destination to continue your motoring adventure. Drive by the finest native totem poles along the Skeena River. Visit the Cariboo country with its lakes, ranches and goldrush Barkerville, then be awestruck with the grandeur of the Fraser Canyon. Vancouver and Victoria await you. See your travel agent, auto club, or send for our Totem Circle kit – in any season.

"QUEEN OF PRINCE RUPERT" Schedule

SUMMER (May 15 - Sept. 25) Sailings northbound and southbound on alternate days.

AUTUMN TO SPRING (Sept. 29 - May 13) Northbound leave Kelsey Bay Tuesdays and Thursdays. Southbound leave Prince Rupert Wednesdays and Saturdays. Off-season, save 25% on fares (car, camper, trailer, passenger) and staterooms too!

Vandiver, after several years conducting research, said: "I have talked to no fewer than seven former mistresses of General Pershing, and they not only admit it, they claim the right to that title proudly."

Indian Escort

CHILLIWACK (UPI) — A five-year veteran of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and one of the few Indians on the force was chosen Tuesday to escort Queen Elizabeth on her official visit to Canada this summer.

Constable Jim Greyeyes, 24, is to accompany the Queen as she tours the Northwest Territories and helps Manitoba celebrate its 100th year of confederation in July.

'Canadians —Not U.S.— Set Policy'

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Undersecretary A. E. Ritchie, former Canadian ambassador to the U.S. said Tuesday it is not evident to him that Canadian foreign policy is made in Washington.

In an appearance before the Commons external affairs committee, Ritchie also held that America's big economic stake in Canada gives this country a valuable bargaining lever in dealings with the U.S.

Ritchie said Americans' feeling is that "Canada foreign policy is extremely independent, and that if they tried to make it over they would get nowhere."

Prague into Austria

Czech Hijacks Plane

LINZ, Austria (AP) — A junior executive of a Czechoslovak uranium plant hijacked a small company plane to Austria Tuesday after knocking out his boss with a shoe and stabbing the pilot in the arm with a pocket knife, Austrian security police reported.

Shortly after takeoff, the junior executive, indentified as Pavel Verner, 32, knocked out his boss, Miroslav Rocnak, 47, police said.

Then he ordered pilot Pavel Bidermann, 30, to head for Austria. When the pilot resisted, Verner stabbed him in the lower arm.

Although Bidermann's stab wound was bleeding profusely, he managed to pilot the plane to a safe landing.

Fines Possibly in Millions

Oil Leak in Gulf Sparks 900 Specific Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chevron Oil Co. was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of wilfully violating United States government regulations that led to a massive oil slick last month in the Gulf of Mexico.

The 900 separate offences alleged in the indictment would result in a fine totalling millions of dollars if the firm is convicted.

Attorney-General John Mitchell said the indictment, returned in New Orleans federal court, is the first brought under the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act of 1953.

The grand jury charged Chevron knowingly and wilfully failed to install and maintain storm chokes or similar sub-surface devices on 90 oil wells in the gulf off the Lousiana coast.

Each day of each of the 900 alleged violations is a separate offence carrying a maximum $2,000 fine.

The indictment results from an investigation that began March 31 — the day the last of the leaks was capped.

Ottawa Checking Price Increases

OTTAWA (CP) — The prices an dincomes commission announced today it will review increases in prices for coffee, rubber tires, fine papers and duplicating services and supplies.

The coffee review will cover all price increases in the last few months.

The commission said it is aware of considerable increases in the cost of green coffee beans, primarily because of a major crop failure in Brazil.

"The purpose of the review is to ensure that the increase in revenues is less than the increase in costs of beans and other factors," the commission said.

On tires, the commission says it already has had preliminary talks with companies which have increased wholesale prices up to 2½ per cent.

Trials Moved

MONTREAL (UPI) — Trials for 60 persons charged following the February, 1969, computer centre occupation at Sir George Williams University here were postponed to the fall criminal assizes Monday.

One accused, 21-year-old William Waychison, of Montreal, pleaded guilty in sessions court to a charge of mischief stemming from the occupation, and was fined $1,000.

Coal Train Crews Book Off Sick

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 60 trainmen employed by CP Rail booked off sick Tuesday, holding up two freight trains in Coquitlam.

A CP Rail spokesman said the ten are members of the United Transportation Union, representing conductors and brakemen. He said the "sick off" followed a dispute over braking tests on the new unit trains hauling coal to Roberts Bank from the Fernie area.

The spokesman said he was hopeful the men would return to work today.

King Fisherman

Trout Winner in '68 Takes Early Lead

Danny Lee of Nanaimo, who won the 1968 King Fisherman Contest lake trout division with a 15-pounder from Sproat Lake and held the river trout lead until the last few days of the contest in 1968, has taken an early lead in the river trout division this year.

He takes that lead with a 12.3-pound steelhead from the Big Qualicum, and just to cinch it he also weighed in an 11.15-pounder from the same river.

Willows Beach Cleanup

Buy Firewood, Give Band Trip

The Oak Bay Youth Commission will hold a cleanup at Willows Beach Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday, beach logs will be gathered and cut while on Sunday the logs will be sold as firewood to the public for $1 a trunkload.

Men from the Oak Bay Fire department, police department, Lions, Kiwanis, Optimists and some Oak Bay aldermen will also participate in the cleanup.

Proceeds will go to the Oak Bay high school band to help finance its trip to Japan. The 85-member band will give 20 concerts between July 5 and 20 at Expo 70 in Osaka and at various Tokyo schools.

UVic Aids Canada Manpower

Students Mail Job Quiz

For the apparently growing number of university students unemployed each summer, a new province-wide job-finding survey is being developed to aid Canada Manpower.

Supported by a $3,600 budget grant, three UVic students have designed and mailed out questionnaires for all students and all potential employers with a staff of 20 or more.

There are no answes yet, says Rick Calderbank, who runs the operation, but once put through a computer in Vancouver, the completed questionnaires should have produced some answers by the end of May.

Calderbank described the effort as an adjunct to the university's manpower office service, which does not normally solicit general job information on the same scale.

Officials of the manpower office agree that results of the questionnaires could greatly help the federal job-finding service, which has on its files about 1,800 registrations from students.

About 50 per cent of the questionnaires sent to both undergraduates and graduates of this year were returned. Employers filled out only 20 per cent of the forms sent to them.

The program is part of a province-wide university effort called the task force on employment, sponsored by the B.C. Union of Students, which considers the growing number of students a serious problem. This summer, about 44,000 students are either employed or attempting to find jobs.

The task force's work even includes a lengthy instruction sheet on job-finding and interview tactics for students.

The questionnaires, besides asking for a student's job preferences, will compile information on how a student uses his summer earnings: to support his education? . . . or perhaps for no specific purpose. And it will also discover how choosy students are in accepting jobs.

Questions asked of graduate students will find out what debt has been incurred during their education as well as what are the goals they expect to achieve in employment.

Potential employers are asked what jobs, they have open for students, what kind of student they prefer and what the hiring process involves.

"Imperial Margarine's got flavour fit for a king."

They laughed when he bit into a three-tier sandwich spread with Imperial Margarine. They're not laughing now. They've seen the crown. They're spreading their own sandwiches with royal Imperial flavour. No other margarine can match it. Made with pure vegetable oils, it's available as Sof-Spread or Regular Imperial. The crown proves it—Imperial has flavour so good it makes you feel like a king.

TV's Emmy

Movie Wins Bids

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time a movie made for television, My Sweet Charlie, swept the nominations for the Emmy awards of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

This past season saw the television movie move ahead as original drama continued to slump. All three U.S. networks began this season to present movies especially made for the home screen.

My Sweet Charlie, which told of a white girl and a black youth on the run, was nominated as the outstanding dramatic program. Its stars, Patty Duke and Al Freeman Jr., were nominated for outstanding performances.

The NBC movie, the highest rated of the season and the fourth biggest ever show on television, also received nominations for direction, writing, cinematography, sound mixing and film editing.

Only two dramatic specials, David Copperfield and A Storm in Summer, were nominated. Jane Wagner's J. T., which won a Peabody Award for television writing, did not receive a single nomination.

Marcus Welby, M.D., a new dramatic series starring Robert Young, received eight nominations, including one for single outstanding dramatic program. Young, a previous Emmy winner for Father Knows Best, was nominated for best actor in a dramatic series.

Sesame Street was nominated as the outstanding new series and for achievement in children's programming.

In all, 168 nominations were made in entertainment categories. NBC had 80 nominations, ABC 40, CBS 36, National Educational Television 10 and syndicated two.

The Emmies will be handed out at the 22nd annual presentation ceremony to be telecast June 7 on ABC.

Bill Cosby, another winner from the past, was nominated for best actor in a comedy series, and his new show was nominated for best new series and best comedy series. Cosby won three Emmies for I Spy.

Actors nominated for best performance in a dramatic program were Sir Laurence Olivier in David Copperfield, Peter Ustinov in A Storm in Summer and Freeman.

Actresses nominated were Dame Edith Evans in David Copperfield, Shirley Jones for Silent Night, Lonely Night, and Miss Duke. Silent Night, Lonely Night was a movie made for television.

Movie Memories for Sale

Nostalgia goes on block this week at Metro Goldwyn Mayer movie lot in Hollywood as various stage and movie props used in last 30-40 years are auctioned. One of 150 cars is Mickey Rooney's famous jalopy which he used in Andy Hardy series.

Alan Ladd Once Held Spear

Whaler Battles Lake Ice

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — High on the windy bow where movie actor Alan Ladd once menaced marine mobsters with a harpoon gun stands a scientist, his most dangerous weapon a thermometer.

The Kister Dan of film fame now is sailing the Great Lakes as a research ship, bearing the name Martin Karlsen.

Her job is to carry scientists on projects for the federal government's Canada Centre for Inland Waters here.

WHALING SHIP

Built originally for whaling in the Antarctic, her design serves her well during the winter as she knifes through the thin ice of the lakes in constant search of data.

In April the 240-foot Danish vessel completed the third of three historic winter trips through the ice of Lake Ontario.

"Until now we've been basing our knowledge of the lake on scientific data acquired during the summer and fall," said Anthony Kirby, spokesman for the centre.

"We want to find out if the same conditions prevail in winter and what effect the ice has on the balance of nature."

The Karlsen now is a sophisticated, computerized vessel with a crew of 20 and a complement of 15 scientists. It, and another ship, the Limnos, are on a three-year charter to the centre.

RESULTS ANALYSED

Aboard the Karlsen scientists collect water samples to check chemical content and pollution loads, record temperatures at various depths and gather any other pertinent data.

The results, analysed in five laboratories on the ship, are put on computer cards.

"Our purpose is to learn as much as we can about water and its relationship to man, weather and life," Kirby said.

The first phase of the $23,500,000-centre now is nearing completion on a 44-acre Hamilton Bay site, just east of the Burlington canal. The centre is due for completion in 1972.

Extras to Get Extra For Wearing Beards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television and motion picture extras will receive a 21 per cent wage increase during the next three and one-half years in a new contract announced Monday.

The Screen Extras Guild and the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers announced the basic increase will be from the present $29.15 a day to $35.65 in the final 18 months of the contract.

Other provisions of the contract, retroactive to Feb. 1, call for an additional payment of $1.50 a day for each day worked from Aug. 1, 1969 through Jan. 31, 1970.

On a future date to be determined, bit players will get an extra $1.50 a day for wet work, body makeup, interviews and wearing a beard.

Injunctions

mill has a good supply of logs, the spokesman said and could remain open.

Closure of the sawmills would entail the layoff of about 600 men — 400 at the Gorge Road mill and 200 at Point Ellice.

The company would be counting on International Woodworkers of America members manning its boats to move the logs. The IWA refused to make a similar move Monday at Chemainus, forcing a layoff of 450 at the MacMillan Bloedel mill there.

The guild stands by its decision to picket log booms on the basis that they are "hot" products in many instances, despite industry claims that such picketing is illegal.

Officials from both the forest industry and some of the towboat companies involved have said during the past two days that injunctions will be sought from the B.C. courts to fight this union tactic.

One towboat company spokesman in Vancouver said Tuesday night: "Hell, by the time this is through they're going to need a great big court to handle nothing but injunction applications."

Guild officials, not accustomed to strike methods — the last towboat strike in B.C. waters was in 1931 — have replied to this by saying they have reserved walls in their strike headquarters in both Victoria and Vancouver for "nothing but injunctions."

Of the controversial log boom being picketed in West Bay, Victoria's strike coordinator Capt. Mickey MacGillivary said: "That is being picketed because it's hot. In fact, it's hotter than a two-bit pistol."

He said the guild considered logs in areas usually served by their boats to be "hot."

"We told B.C. Forest Products we had left them all the logs north of Point Ellice bridge — that's in their territory and their boats can move them."

As the third day of the strike came to an end more than 1,000 men engaged in various forest operations — most of them on Vancouver Island — were out of work. This figures could pass the 3,0000 mark by the weekend.

The guild, which had warned that a strike would cripple many segments of industry, has said oil companies will also be badly hit.

Oil and gasoline are brought to Vancouver Island by barge.

The owners' association has said it will not take the strike "lying down" and will operate as many struck vessels as possible by pooling management personnel who have marine tickets.

A guild spokesman said he understood the companies hoped to keep oil barges moving in this manner.

"That's all very well," he said. "But who is going to unload it for them?"

While B.C. Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has urged the federal government to get the parties back to the bargaining table, the owners' association said it expects a long hard strike.

J. H. Gardiner, president of the association, said in Vancouver that "essential services" would be kept open by company personnel, but didn't elaborate.

Talks between the guild and association broke off over the key issues of manning, safety and accommodation.

A government report which wasn't supposed to have been released, described conditions on many of the towboats as unsafe. The union has been unable to have manning and safety features negotiated into a new contract.

It has also failed to achieve its goal of $200 more a month on wages ranging from a common rate of about $600 a month to a top of about $900 for the masters, mates and engineers.

lives and continue withdrawal of troops on schedule."

Those attending the morning session at the White House were largely administration supporters but Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.—Mo.) said what he heard "does little to lessen my apprehension."

Representative Charles Whalen (Rep.—Ohio) said Nixon's answer to once question made it clear to him that "the real reason" for the U.S. drive was to lessen communist pressure on the Cambodian government — something which administration spokesmen have described as secondary to blocking attaeks on U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

Five senators, meanwhile, formally introduced a proposal to terminate U.S. operations in Cambodia within 30 days, and in Laos and Vietnam by the end of 1970, except for withdrawal of U.S. forces which would be completed by June 30, 1971, unless congress approved an extension.

The House is due to vote today — probably favorably — on a proposal to prohibit use of U.S. ground combat troops in Cambodia except as deemed necessary by the president to protest U.S. lives in South Vietnam.

Mormons Condemn Abortion

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Mormon Church has denounced attempts to limit population growth and ease restrictions against abortion as "contrary to the revealed instruction of God."

An editorial published in a weekly church supplement published by the Deseret News, which is owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Mormon, says:

"It is earnestly to be hoped that Latter-day Saints will not be misled by the ridiculous philosophy now being widely advocated that families are to be limited to one, or at most two, children."

Wallace Lead Slim For Alabama Post

From AP

George C. Wallace held a slender lead Tuesday night in his bid to reclaim the Alabama governor's office—a vital step if he is to fashion another U.S. presidential challenge in 1972.

But his race with Gov. Albert Brewer was so close it appeared neither man would gain a majority. That would force a runoff Democratic primary June 2.

Primaries in the United States are held to select party candidates for various posts; with only registered voters allowed to cast ballots for the candidate.

In Alabama, victory of the Democratic primary is tantamount to election as governor since the Republicans have said they will not have a candidate in November.

In Ohio, Governor James Rhodes had a commanding margin over Representative Robert Taft Jr. for the Republic nomination to run for the Senate.

A major imponderable there was the voters' reaction to election-eve turmoil on the campus, and the shooting to death of four Kent State University students by National Guard troops.

Moon Rocks Gift To Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Four mounted moon rocks the size of match heads were presented to Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday by U.S. Ambassador Adolph Schmidt to "serve as another close bond of friendship and co-operation" between the two countries.

Trudeau accepted the gift, presented to him on behalf of President Nixon, with "great pleasure." On the stand bearing the rocks is the small Canadian flag which was borne to the moon by Apollo 11 in its epic flight last July.

They gathered in chill wind to honor country's liberators

Dutch-Canadians Remember

Thanks Gesture Repeats

The end to almost five years of oppression, starvation and brutal revenge for acts of resistance came on May 5, 1945, in Wageningen, The Netherlands.

General Charles Foulkes, commanding the First Canadian Army, accepted the surrender of the Germans in the presence of Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands on behalf of the Supreme Commander Allied Expeditionary Forces.

In every hamlet and village of Holland, for the past 25 years, at 8 p.m. on May 5, the people have come together to pay tribute to those who gave their lives in the liberation of their country.

Tuesday night at the Victoria Cenotaph, about 500 persons of Dutch descent braved a chill wind as they sang Wilt heden nu treden (We gather together) in honor of the 7,000 Canadian servicemen and others who died in their country.

The band of the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and the pipes and drums of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), supplied the music for the ceremony.

They played O Canada and Wilhelmus van Nassauen, the Dutch national anthem.

Rev. J. S. Hielema of the Christian Reformed Church pronounced the invocation and J. G. Beekman, Consul-General of The Netherlands in Vancouver, told what that day of victory 25 years ago was like.

That was the day one could listen to the radio again, the day the Dutch prisoners were released from concentration camps, he said.

"And in this fight for freedom, the Canadian Army paid a big role." D. A. Slater of the Royal Canadian Legion, a veteran of action in Holland, gave his reminiscences, too.

Wreaths were laid at the foot of the Cenotaph and the ceremony came to an end with the playing of a Retreat by the Canadian Scottish and the lowering of the Dutch and Canadian flags.

Later, Acting Victoria Mayor Percy Frampton in a short ceremony in the tea room of the museum, received, on behalf of the city, 2,000 red tulips which have been planted in Beacon Hill Park.

Close-Door Session

Nerve Gas Briefing Friday

Officials of the federal Emergency Measures Organization will be in Victoria Friday for a close-door briefing with B.C. Civil Defence Personnel on the shipment by the U.S. of nerve gas from Okinawa.

Provincial civil defence coordinator John Erb said Tuesday the press will be excluded from the briefing at the insistence of federal officials, adding, "I guess they can't talk publicly about the classified aspects" of the shipment.

Victoria civil defence officials said they have received no official word of approval given Tuesday in Washington, D.C., for the shipment through the Juan de Fuca Strait and added they are relying on a promise that B.C. will get 28 days notice.

PLANS APPROVED

Meanwhile, Washington state Gov. Dan Evans' office in Olympia reported that U.S. Surgeon-General Dr. Jesse Steinfeld has given final approval of plans to ship the gas through Washington and Oregon.

Evans' office said the approval came in a letter from Steinfeld, and included a copy of a letter to Defence Secretary Melvin Laird giving the go ahead for shipment, to the Umatilla army depot near Hermiston, Ore., from the Bangor ammunition depot in Washington.

Evans and Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon have opposed the shipments on the grounds the two states can't provide the emergency medical treatment or evacuation the army says might be needed in the event of a disaster.

SHIPPING DATES

Erb said his office has been in touch with civil defence authorities in Olympia and were advised Tuesday's announcement hasn't made any difference to shipping dates.

"We have no shipping date," Erb said, "but they have agreed to inform us as soon as they get a date. We are depending upon the promise we received that we will get 28 days notice before any shipment comes through."

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

CNR Ogden Point Plan 'Feeble,' Says Mayor

An improvement plan for Ogden Point docks, submitted Tuesday to Victoria's public works committee by Canadian National Railways, was described as "a feeble attempt to make things look a little better" by Mayor Courtney Haddock.

"All they are trying to do is make the area just a little more presentable by backfilling and blacktopping some parts — that's all it is," the mayor said.

The CNR said in its request the improvements of the barge docking facilities were necessary to speed up lumber loading procedures and to prevent loss of revenue from loss of traffic.

Permission of the city was recommended to council after City Manager Dennis Young said that Victoria was in no position to deny the application.

"To deny it would be to deny the recently-prepared brief calling for harbor improvements," Young said.

"To agree with it means the CNR will have an increased investment in the area and therefore create a problem when the formation of a harbor commission will be discussed."

Haddock's comments weren't made during the brief discussion regarding the CNR's application for improvements, but some time later.

Making another pitch for early approval of the harbor commission report by Victoria and Esquimalt councils, the mayor said Ottawa was waiting to hear from Victoria.

"We must get this report to the transport department as soon as possible. The CNR application for dock improvements shows that they aren't willing to lose that revenue," he said.

"They want the money for themselves — that's quite obvious — but they aren't prepared to make large investments. That little bit of sprucing up is the first thing they are prepared to do in years."

Munns Road Line 'First in Series'

By DON GAIN

Transmission lines B.C. Hydro proposes to locate near Munns Road will be only the first in a series, according to a letter B.C. Hydro has sent to Saanich council.

The letter reports the findings of B.C. Hydro after a study of suggested alternatives to the proposed line location.

In another letter, council was asked by Patrick Codyre of 1890 Munns to protect owners of five homes on the road from possible expropriation by B.C. Hydro.

The mayor pointed out that the municipality has no power to protect but "can only provide a focal point for public opinion."

E. S. Collins, manager of B.C. Hydro land department, reported to the municipality that the suggested alternatives affecting Munns Road fell into three categories.

● If placed underground, the high degree of expense would not justify the situation. Collins quoted a cost of $300,000 per circuit per mile as against $30,000 for overhead wood poles.

The cost would probably be increased because of the difficult terrain, Collins said. In addition, the present proposal is for two circuits from Jordan River but within the next year another circuit from the Vancouver Island terminal near Duncan would be added as well as additional circuits in the future.

● If the lines were located to the north of the existing transmission line instead of to the south, it would mean the lines, which originate from the south, would have to be carried on high towers over the existing lines onto the north side of the existing right of way, Collins said.

"Then, in order to avoid the houses on Ivor Road, they would have to be brought back across the existing lines again onto the south side. These crossings would involve a high degree of hazard, and apart altogether from the high expense which would be incurred, would involve risks and the possibilities of severe interruptions of supply which we do not think we would be justified in imposing."

● A scheme whereby the proposed lines would be placed partly in the parks would leave existing houses on an island between two large rights of way and would involve taking a strip some 400 to 500 feet wide from Francis and Thetis Parks.

"This would involve asking the public to accept a reduction of park facilities with no commensurate gain, since the homeowners would be left isolated between two rights of way.

"In addition, we would be subject to the criticism that we had failed to consolidate our rights of way into as small an area as possible . . . We are under constant pressure from planners and others to utilize corridors rather than spreading our lines. If we adhere to our present plans we will be conforming to this pattern, although, as already explained, this is not the compelling reason for our decision."

Referring to reimbursement of individual property owners, Collins said "We hope it will be possible to negotiate satisfactory settlements with them without the need to resort to expropriation."

Compensation to the owners, he said, is made on the basis of market value of properties comparable to their own, and to this is added an allowance to cover disruption and moving expenses.

Saanich council Monday night again went on record as being opposed to overhead electrical lines.

Ald. William Noel said a Hydro official had shown him detailed plans of the proposed new routes.

"They have chosen the lesser of all the evils by displacing five homes," he said.

Council gave instructions that Codyre should be informed that the body is doing all it can to plead his case, even though there is, in law, little it can do.

Red Ensign Battler Loses Court Round

George Burnham of Victoria, champion of the Red Ensign, Tuesday lost his first court battle to bring down Canada's Maple Leaf flag, but says he will carry on and take his case into criminal court.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan of the British Columbia Supreme Court, in a judgment handed down Tuesday, ruled that the 89-year-old Burnham had no right to seek an injunction against use of the Maple Leaf flag and that to entertain the case would be an abuse of the judicial procedure.

Burnham, 620 Cook, was represented in court by J. J. Gow, who was unavailable Tuesday night for comment. Gow had argued in a Victoria hearing April 23 that the 1965 proclamation of the Canadian flag was not supported by statute and therefore Burnham's rights were affected.

Federal justice department lawyer Gordon Anderson had asked that the case be thrown out and said Burnham would have to show injury or loss in claiming his rights were affected.

Told of the decision, Burnham said Tuesday he would fight the case further under the appropriate sections of the British North America Act and in Criminal Court.

Character Preserved

Rockland Report Bans Highrises

By HUBERT BEYER

Unanimous approval by Victoria city council of a report on the future development of the city's Rockland area would convince real estate speculators that "the waiting game" was over, City Manager Dennis Young told Victoria's community development committee Tuesday.

"To deter these speculators from hanging on to certain dilapidated properties in the hope of obtaining a rezoning to highrise apartments, all you have to do is back this report unanimously," Young told the aldermen on the committee.

"Just stand up and say there will be no highrises allowed, and that's it."

The report was referred to the city's advisory planning commission for further consideration.

Contained in the report, prepared by the city's planning department, are the following recommendations:

● The traditional character of Rockland area should be preserved;

● No high or medium-rise apartment should be allowed;

● Council should consider the possibility of low-density garden apartments in a 3.3-acre pocket of land at Pemberton and Fort;

Specifications for conversions suggested by the report include:

The building must have been constructed before 1931; the site dimensions must comply with the minimum standards set for the area; off-street parking requirements must be met, and no alteration of the building exterior should be permitted.

The report said conversions of existing buildings to rest homes should be considered, but no permits should be given to convert a home to a personal care centre or hostel catering to "transient tenants."

Ald. Harold Olafson told the committee if council backed the report 100 per cent, development of a number of lots which were now in a "pitiful state" would soon be under way.

The report will go to city council for approval after it has been considered by the advisory planning commission.

By BRUCE LOWTHER

If only one of the Canadian Radio-TV Commission's proposed new cable-TV rules had been in effect last month, program blackouts on Victoria Cablevision Ltd. would have averaged 60 hours a week.

That amounts to less than one-sixth of the total programming from the three U.S. networks but, since most of the blacked-out programs would be in evening prime time, it comes to more than 80 per cent of the peak viewing period from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Les Curran, president and general manager of Victoria Cablevision Ltd., announced the 60-hour figure Tuesday as he disclosed his firm plans a campaign to keep cablevision viewing in Greater Victoria as close as possible to what it is now.

He said the figure was the result of a survey of how programs shown in March would be affected by a proposed CRTC rule banning any cable use of U.S. programs within one week of their appearance on a Canadian channel.

The CRTC announced April 10 a list of proposed rules that could cause such "within a week" blackouts and might also eliminate one or two U.S. channels from the Victoria cablevision system, including Channel 12 from Bellingham.

Curran said Tuesday he still feels, after a study of the CRTC proposals, that no U.S. channels will be lost by his firm.

But he added: "We're treating it (the CRTC list) with deadly seriousness. The more I look at it, the more concerned I become. I think probably the most onerous of all the proposals is this non-performance (blackout)."

Curran said there are "a lot of maybes and maybe nots" about the proposed rules but added that "I think these people (the CRTC) are determined to act on them."

He said his firm is going to fight by making representations to MPs and CRTC officials, and by getting ready for its licence-renewal hearing. That could come any time between next November and the following June.

Curran said Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal MP David Anderson has asked for a meeting to discuss the rules but he has heard "not a sound out of" Victoria Liberal MP David Groos. He also plans to meet CRTC vice-chairman Harry Boyle in Vancouver next week.

And Curran added: "I hope the public will join the fight. I hope they'll get on their hind legs and make a lot of noise."

Curran said: "I think that could be true in some cases, although just how extensive it would be I don't know. But do people really think Ottawa will restrict us (his firm) and leave an alternative open? Why, they might even authorize antennas beamed only at Vancouver."

Victoria Cablevision Ltd.'s licence runs for two years and was announced in August of 1969 after a hearing in Regina in November of 1968. Curran said he believes the termination date to be August of 1971 and added past history indicates the renewal hearing might come as early as next November.

Firebug Hunt Given Tips

News that a firebug may be on the loose in Victoria has brought several anonymous tips to investigating officials, The Daily Colonist learned Tuesday.

The officials declined comment on their inquiries into five weekend fires that were set deliberately, but it was learned that "more than two" pieces of information were received and are being investigated.

Exodus Feared In Lockout

British Columbia's construction lockout was three weeks old Tuesday and there was little to mark the day apart from the laments of some Victoria union leaders who feel the exodus of skilled tradesmen from the province may be underway.

"There is a trend beginning to show itself now," said Tom Wheatley, business agent for the Victoria local of the plumbers.

And this trend is for the men to go where the work is — chiefly to Alberta, where there is going to be an awful lot of construction."

He said a handful of plumbers had already left for Alberta. They were not drifters, but longtime residents of Victoria who own homes here, he said.

"My fear is that we're going to lose some good men and we're not going to get them back again when this thing is all over."

Bargaining has been held on an off-and-on basis with some of the nine unions involved in the lockout, but there has been nothing to indicate there will be early settlement.

The action was taken by the Construction Labor Relations Association on the claim that the construction unions were making unrealistic demands. They said the unions wanted increases ranging from 40 to 105 per cent. CLRA says it represents 600 contractors.

The unions involved are the laborers, teamsters, rock and tunnel workers, bricklayers, plumbers (other than in Victoria), cement masons, operating engineers, glass workers and heat and fost insulators.

The carpenters — biggest of the construction unions in the province with a membership of about 10,000 — could be included soon. They have not announced the result yet of a strike vote. Their contract expired April 30.

Silver Threads Show Paintings

More than 200 paintings by members of Silver Threads centres are on display at the Centennial Square centre today from 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

PTA Will Hear Talk on Drugs

Marijuana and drugs will be discussed by Constable Doug Wilson of the Victoria city police drug squad, at a meeting of the Metchosin PTA at 8 p.m. today in the Metchosin elementary school activity room. There will be a question and answer period, and pamphlets and brochures will be available. Adults only are invited.

Victoria West School

Petition Asks City Help

A 1,700-name petition asking moral support from Victoria city council for new classrooms at Victoria West school will be delivered to city hall at 9 a.m. today.

Organized by Mrs. Marjorie Moeskau, 527 Selkirk, the petition carries names of parents in the Vic West area who have been trying to pursuade provincial government to approve the construction.

Mrs. Moeskau is also trying to repair a rift between the parents and Esquimalt MLA Herb Bruch, who Monday criticized them for their methods of lobbying for their case.

She said she has written a letter to Bruch asking him to name a time and place for a meeting to discuss the construction. Bruch indicated he might meet them but said they should "scream" at the school board if they want classrooms built.

This statement brought a sharp reply Tuesday from Greater Victoria school trustee Peter Bunn, who said Bruch has been "caught with his pants down" in blaming the board.

Bunn, who chairs the board's building committee, said Bruch is "absolutely right off base" because Vic West has always been the board's first priority for new construction and only last week the provincial department received a letter reiterating the position.

"It has nothing to do with the school board — it's now up to the treasury board," Bunn said in an interview.

Director Plans Rotary Speech

Dr. J. Wiems, director of instruction for the Greater Victoria school board, will speak about the implications of some alternatives in education at a meeting of the Victoria Rotary club at 12:10 p.m. Thursday in the Empress Hotel.

Spain's 'Woman of Iron'

Still Going Strong

By NINO LO BELLO

MADRID — Being known as the Strongest Woman in the World" is not enough for 35-year-old Linda Baker. She thinks she could very easily pass as being the strongest person, male or female, anywhere on the face of the earth, and since Linda has more umph in her little pinky than five men have with both hands, we won't argue the question.

Albeit her muscular prominence, Linda is all woman — feminine right up to her curly black locks. Her three children, whom she supports with Herculean performances in Spain's bullrings and sport stadiums, look upon mom as soft and cuddly. Hubby died in a car accident some time ago, so Momma Linda has taken over the job of supporting and raising her kids with every bit of her strength.

For instance, Linda will grip an iron bar between her teeth and invite six men from the audience to come up and hang onto the bar, three at each end. Without budging a foot, Spain's muscle moll stands firmly planted to the ground while the bar slowly begins to sag. Later the men are invited to try to bend the bent bar even more so (which they never manage to do) or to straighten the bar out (which no one has yet done). After everydody has flopped, Linda does it on one whoosh, presto!

Next demonstration:

A cord latched to a truck is tied in a firm knot to Linda's long hair. The motor of the truck is revved up, and the driver puts the vehicle into first gear, pressing all the way down on the gas. The truck doesn't budge forward an inch. Neither does the hefty hunk of female. Then while everybody is making with applause of admiration, Linda edges back a step at a time — so that the "speeding" truck is actually pulled backwards.

If anybody in the audience still has the slightest doubt about her feats, the distaff Charles Atlas now goes about proving that she has more power in her arms than in her teeth or hair. Forthwith each arm is tied to the backs of a pair of motorcycles, and while the two drivers are gunning their motors and trying to zip off in different directions, Linda flexes her biceps even more so, the two motorcycles are now pulled towards her. More applause!

Should that demonstration still fail to convince, Linda subsequently puts her powerful neck into play. With a cord from a motorscooter tied around her neck, Madame Muscle proceeds to control the riderless, speeding scooter as it makes a circular path. Eventually the scooter rises from the ground and Linda keeps it going around in a circle — like a toy airplane, with her neck as the focal point.

"The Woman of Iron," as the Spaniards sometimes call her, was born and raised in La Mancha, the same region that gave rise to Don Quixote. A lot of men like to kid her about coming from the bailiwick of the Cervantes folklore hero; they bug her with questions about when she intends to fight some windmills.

Linda's stock answer to these taunts, which displays her strong personality, is that she has never found a belligerent windmill in Spain. "Bring me the windmill — and I'll demolish it with one finger: And you with the other!" she tells her wiseacre fans.

Built low to the ground and weighing almost 200 pounds, the sinewy senora (48-35-46) can't really account for her way-out strength.

"Maybe it came when I was a girl working on a farm and had a lot of heavy chores to do every day," she explains.

Linda strains at ropes

"I didn't know my own strength until I was in my early 20s, after I had married. It was my husband who first became aware of it."

Rather than going in for weightlifting, barbells and that whole nonsense, Linda began building up her power as a kind of hobby — by bending trees, snapping wooden planks in two, tearing telephone books apart and tugging automobiles uphill. On the death of her husband, she perfected a four-part act, got herself booked as an intermission feature in a bull arena and became an instant wow. She is still going strong.

Modern Society Creates Child Monster—Doctor

By removing the modern child's economic purpose and giving him no other, modern society has created a monster, psychiatrist Dr. Gary Wilson said Monday at a meeting in Oak Bay junior high school, opening mental health week in the Victoria area.

The theme of the meeting — and of the week — is the invention of the adolescent.

A film Monday contrasted the 17th Century, when children were an integral part of society and when they began — at 7 or 8 — to earn their living alongside their parents, with the 20th Century, where children remain in a child's world until their late teens.

The adult world requires that youth live by adult values, he said. "We say you've got to be smart, capable, punctual, hard-working, and you've got to acquire things. The kids are saying, 'Do we have to?' "

Youth, having spent itself training to enter a world from which it remains at the same time completely separate, is reluctant to assume the values of a world young people have had the leisure to find fault with.

Mental Health Week continues with the annual general meeting of the play school Co-operative Association at 8:15 p.m. Thursday and an open house at Victoria's Canadian Mental Health Association Offices, 1951 Cook, from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Friday.

Happily-Wed Man Told Pay Alimony

NORTHFLEET, England (UPI) — Charlie Mayers, happily married with three sons, got a court letter ordering him to pay alimony to a woman he had never met.

The letter said he had deserted his wife and her two children and would have to pay her $21.60 a week.

"If I didn't know my husband so well this letter could have broken our marriage," said Mayers' real wife, Ethel.

Said Northfleet magistrate's court: "We simply sent the order to the wrong man."

Rent Original Art, Gallery's Suggestion

By BILL THOMAS

Homeowners who want to decorate their walls with original art don't have to spend a fortune if they are members of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

The gallery's women's committee rents original oils, watercolors, and graphics to members from among its collection of 280 items.

"We put the loan collection on view during the afternoon of the first Monday of each month," explained Phyllis Preston." and anyone who wished to rent can return at 7:30 p.m. to make a selection.

"We have works by such well-known artists as Bruno and Molly Boback, Maxwell Bates, Jack Shadbolt, Herbert Siebner, and Fleming Jorgensen.

"The pictures may be rented for a minimum of one month or a maximum of three months and the coast ranges from $1 to $4 a month. If, after three months the family decides it likes the picture and wants to buy it, the first three months rental can be applied to the purchase price."

Commercial members of the gallery can brighten the walls of their offices at a flat rental rate of $2 a month, with an additional charge of $1.50 for pick up and delivery.

Patrons who rent pictures on the first Monday in June will be allowed to keep them until the first Monday in September at a bargain rate. They will pay only for June and July and have the enjoyment of their chosen work of art free for the month of August.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you said the safest place to be during an electrical storm is in a car. A number of years ago the National Geographic Society published the results of extensive experimentation with relation to the action of lightning. A car with the driver inside was repeatedly struck with a million volts of man-made lightning. The man in the car suffered no injuries whatsoever.

The tests proved that if only the tires touched the ground and there were no loose parts or other objects in contact with the earth, and if the occupants did not allow any part of their bodies to touch the metal parts of the car, they could not be injured.

The National Geographic Society further concluded that the three safest places to be during a lightning storm are (1) in the furnace (2) in the refrigerator and (3) in a car. — Clifford H.S.

Dear Cliff: Thank you for the supportive evidence. The next letter should be of interest to you.

Dear Ann Landers: We had always heard the chances of being struck by lightning while in a car were about 10,000,000-1. Well — meet the one in 10,000,000. We live in Ionia, Michigan.

In 1963 we were rolling on the Northwest Expressway into Chicago. The children were nervous about the lightning which seemed to be flashing all around us. Both my husband and I kept telling them that the safest place to be during an electrical storm is in a car. In mid-sentence — ka-pow!!! A tire blew out. The smell of burning sulphur was suffocating. The radio was knocked out and the top pieces of the antenna "evaporated." We knew at once that lightning had struck the car.

The tire company refused to honor the guarantee. They said — "This was no ordinary blowout." They were right. We were that one in 10,000,000! — J.H.N.

Dear J.H.N.: Thanks for the fill-in. But I'd still rather be in a car than in a furnace or a refrigerator.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not writing for advice — it's too late for that. I'm writing in the hope that you can help other women whose lives are ahead of them. Women, like me, who are frigid.

The purpose of a wife is to be a mate to her man, to respond to him and to create new life. I have tried to be a mate. I have tried to respond to my husband. And I have had children. I love my children very much, but there was no joy in their creation.

I urge every woman who is not getting pleasure and satisfaction out of sex to seek professional help. I didn't, and I am sorry. I spent my entire married life pretending — and not very successfully, I'm afraid. Now that I am old I am bitter and resentful. I've missed it all. — Bouquet of Regrets.

Dear Regrets: My only comment is to repeat verbatim a sentence in your heartbreaking letter. "I urge every woman who is not getting pleasure and satisfaction out of sex to seek professional help."

Managerial Jobs Closed

Woman Boss 'Token'

By ROSEMARY SPEIER

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian businesses discriminate against women by making only about a third of managerial career opportunities available to female university graduates, George Cook, research officer for the federal labor department, said Tuesday.

He said the top Canadian companies which list managerial job openings in the Canadian Careers Directory won't even interview females for jobs unless the positions are listed as being open to women in the directory.

The most recent directory circulated on university campuses by companies looking for graduates had listed 3,268 vacancies but only 1,244 of these jobs were open to women.

"We train women but refuse to allow them to use their abilities," Cook told a study group on job discriminations at a conference sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

"There are honest sexual advantages a woman has that can be used to increase a company's productivity. Women are a natural resource that business is exploiting in low-paid positions but is not developing for better jobs."

Mary Lennox, president of the Traffic Employees' Association, said women are not going to stand for this sort of discrimination much longer "and changes are going to come much faster than most men think."

As head of an all-female union of telephone operators, she said she sees "a great deal of exploitation and underdevelopment."

Miss Lennox said she resents it that she never finds a top female executive on the other side of the bargaining table during labor negotiations.

"I often sit in rooms like this when I am the only woman there. I am becoming a token, like the one black man who gets invited to parties."

However, Jack McLean of the Bank of Montreal's marketing department questioned whether women have been relegated to a minority position "or have they automatically assumed it?"

"If women don't like where they are why don't they change?" he asked. "What are women doing to show they want something different, other than these silly radicals called feminists?"

Told some companies hesitate to hire women because of high absentee rates and turnover, Cook said a study of absenteeism among male and female civil servants' in Canada showed little difference.

Time Faces Charge

Discrimination Complaint Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state was expected to file a complaint against Time Inc., Monday, charging it with discrimination against women employees on four of its major publications, a spokesman for Attorney-General Louis Lefkowitz said.

The spokesman said the attorney-general's office had investigated complaints filed by more than 20 women at Time, Life, Fortune and Sports Illustrated that they are confined to research duties and denied promotions.

Lefkowitz's formal complaint is expected to assert that Time Inc. is violating a state law prohibiting discrimination because of sex in employment or promotional opportunities.

Jail Cell Invaded By Wife

She climbed a high chain link fence, straddled the barbed wire top and squeezed through horizontal window bars for a reunion with her husband, Paul, 21, serving a term for petty larceny, police said.

The reunion ended abruptly when a night jailer heard them talking.

Patient Holds Stethoscope

MIAMI (AP) — When Dr. Stephen Halpert examines a patient, the patient is the one holding the stethoscope and the doctor is the one in the wheel chair.

Both of Halpert's arms and both legs have been paralysed since 1967, when a cervical vertebra was crushed in a collision between his motorcycle and a tractor.

Halpert then was a student at the University of Florida College of Medicine.

"I knew I wanted to be a doctor before the accident and it was just a matter of going back and studying academically and knowing my limits," he said in an interview.

He got his degree last December.

He has limited used of his hands and can take notes. The patients help him by manipulating instruments such as the stethoscope, which they hold against their chests while he listens.

Halpert's specialties are diagnosis and pre-operative and post-operative care.

'Earners Should Provide'

OTTAWA (CP) — All wage- and salary-earners in Canada should make contributions to the unemployment insurance fund and benefits paid out to unemployed people should be increased, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said Tuesday.

"My tendency is that universality is not only desirable, it's logical," Mackasey told the Commons labor committee as it considered spending estimates of the unemployment insurance commission.

The minister made clear that his views will not necessarily be those expressed by the cabinet in pending white paper proposals for changes in unemployment insurance. But he added:

"I'm prepared to take a lot of flack from people who may consider unemployment insurance a kind of tax or something they'll never need for themselves."

He also said that the maximum benefit of $53 a week paid to an unemployed man with a family "is hardly enough to live on in 1970."

He insisted, however, that any increase in benefits would have to await legislation based on the white paper.

The minister told the committee that 1,200,000 Canadian workers are not covered by unemployment insurance.

Montreal Editor Sees Good Signs

Separatists 'Bring Health'

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Ryan, editor and publisher of the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir, said Tuesday Rene Levesque's Parti Quebecois may be the party that will "bring more health to our democracy."

In an address to the Association of Canadian Advertisers on last week's Quebec general election, Ryan said that although the separatist PQ has a future "fraught with risks," it offers an alternative to youth that other political structures do not.

The rise in PQ popularity has been more spectacular and gone farther than the "Trudeau wave" of 1968, he said, and with Quebec a natural place for a flourishing of nationalist sentiment, the PQ would likely remain united and continue to grow.

Ryan said the PQ's showing in last Wednesday's election — it drew 23 per cent of the popular vote, and won seven seats although Levesque was defeated—demonstrated that it has strength in working-class areas and holds its support in intellectual circles.

"There are more brains at work for the PQ than any other party in Quebec," he said, dismissing suggestions that the party's showing was of minor importance.

Election results showed that although the 20 per cent of Quebec's voters who are English-speaking voted almost solidly Liberal, a third of the votes cast by French-Canadians went to PQ candidates. In the 1966 election, one of eight votes went to two separatist parties.

Bourassa Already Making Decisions

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier-elect Robert Bourassa said Tuesday Quebec's new Liberal government will be sworn in Tuesday, May 12.

But he told a news conference that he is already making decisions as if he were in the premier's office.

The Liberal leader, whose party won last Wednesday's provincial elections, met for less than an hour with members of the Liberal caucus.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, leader of the outgoing Union Nationale government, also met with Union Nationale candidates and organizers Tuesday.

Biggest Gift Anonymous

LONDON (Reuters)—An anonymous donor has given 5,000,000 pounds ($13,000,000) for medical research, it was announced Monday. The gift is believed to be the biggest single private donation made in Britain for research.

A Modest, New Approach to Feminine
See-Through!

Coquette Co-ordinates

by Peter Pan

A modest new approach to the filmy world of see-through fashions. Fully co-ordinated under and outer wear—designed to give a total see-through look that's ultra feminine and so appealing!

Coquette Co-ordinates were created for the see-through world of fashion—with a touch of modesty. Filmy see-through shifts and blouses to wear over matching bras, bikinis and half slips. . . . So what you see is something very pretty and feminine, but most of all something that matches perfectly. All pieces are made of imported print sheers that are machine washable and drip dry. There are 3 dainty prints and 6 scrumptuous colours. Champagne, Pink, Green, Honey Beige, White and Yellow. And a good selection of styles to choose from.

A. Plaquet Front Shift—Sizes 8 to 16. Pink and Green only. Each $18

B. Bandeau Bra—B 32-38; C-D 34-38. In all 6 colours. Each $7

8 CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Frank Hawthorn, Jack and Vivian wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends who gave their kindness, sympathy and prayers during the illness and at the death of a dearly loved husband and brother. Special thanks to Drs. Wong, Hosner and Lockyer, and to Brigadier Underhill and Major Wood for their constant visitation, which meant so much to us all, and to our dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Paterson.

We wish to thank our relatives and many friends for their lovely cards and flowers and kind expressions of sympathy during the loss of our dear little Sherri. Sincere appreciation is extended to our neighbors, Dr. C. A. McNeill, Rev. H. D. Robinson, Dawson Construction and employees for their kind help and understanding words.—Norman and Christine, Doug and Minnie Fleetwood.

The memory of the kindness and sympathy shown me by my relatives, friends and business associates will remain with me throughout the years. I want you all to know that I am truly grateful for the comfort you have given me in my sorrow. Special thanks to George and Trudy Heller, Dr. Billung-Meyer and McCalls Funeral Home.—Mrs. Heather Ruttan.

9 IN MEMORIAM

TURNBULL—In loving memory of William H. Turnbull, who passed into the presence of his Lord May 6, 1966.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

JOHNSON—In loving memory of our dear Mum, who passed away May 6, 1967, and dear Dad, who passed away March 5, 1954.

"Dear Lord, forgive a silent tear,
A constant wish that they were here.
Others were taken, yes, we know,
But they were ours, and we loved them so."

—Always remembered by daughter Gladys, son Henry and families.

JOHNSON—Treasured memories of our dear "Nanny," Edith Johnson, who passed away May 6, 1967, and our dear "Bobo," William Johnson, March 5, 1954.

"Death seems final—but love is forever."

—Ever remembered and sadly missed by granddaughter Dianna, Brian and great-grandchildren, Deborah, Michael, Kenneth and Kevin; also granddaughter Joanna, Paul, and great-grandchildren, Christopher and Kelly.

BRUCE LOWTHER
AbouTV

Without realizing it, Canada last week got its first taste of what the Canadian Radio-Television Commission's campaign for Canadianism will do to its TV viewing.

The CRTC has ordered Canadian content of 60 per cent and a maximum U.S. content of 30 per cent on the CBC effective next Oct. 1 and on CTV a year later. The CBC last week announced its 1970-71 programs, saying they will more than meet the Canadian-content rule.

Laugh-In, Disney World, Julia and a few others are back while the CBC has dropped Beverly Hillbillies, Bonanza, Governor and J. J., Green Acres, Mission: Impossible and Name of the Game.

I don't care for any of the last six, and some may be going because of low ratings rather than Canadian content or lack of it. But this is a perfect example of how the CRTC can force a decision on the viewers as to what they shall see, long before they can do anything about it.

The CBC is adding some new U.S. shows — a suspense thing called Most Deadly Game (which was to have starred the late Inger Stevens), The Interns, The Odd Couple, The Partridge Family, the new Red Skelton show and Storefront Lawyers, the last with Canadian Barry Morse.

Returning Canadian shows include Front Page Challenge, Corwin, Manipulators, Singalong Jubilee, Countrytime, a one-hour Tommy Hunter show and the old Telescope series. Britain will provide Somerset Maugham stories and an adult comedy, while the CBC will add seven hours a week in Canadian information, drama, comedy and variety programs.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Tuesday's answer — Weird time continued with a couple of wildies. For one, Joanne Woodward played Eve White, Eve Black and Jane in Three Faces of Eve. For another, the Three Coins in the Fountain were tossed by Dorothy McGuire, Maggie McNamara and Jean Peters. Of the six, I'll take Eve Black.

Today's question — Speaking of silly movies, who played Grace Moore in the movie So This Is Love and who played Melba in the movie Melba, both in 1953? Even worse, George Hamilton played what songwriter in Your Cheatin' Heart and who played W. C. Handy in St. Louis Blues? Answers Thursday.

"And, now, here he is—our answer to Engelbert Humperdinck—VLAD. BISCHOFF JFIZER-KENVIC!"

Wednesday Highlights

C-5:00 p.m.—Baseball, San Francisco at Montreal. Willie and his fellow Giants meet the peewee all-stars—2, 6.

C-8:00—Debut of a four-part NET series on the viewpoint of U.S. conservatives—9.

C-9:00—Second of two Kraft Music Hall country hours. With Roy Clark, Phil Harris, Bobbie Gentry—5.

Wednesday Movies

C-9:00 a.m.—I Like Money (good 1962 Peter Sellers comedy). Also starring the talented Herbert Lom—4.

12:45 noon—Angel with a Trumpet (only fair 1949 Viennese family epic), Oskar Werner, Maria Schell, zillions more—6, 8.

5:30 p.m.—Gunslinger (1956 no-no). I like Beverly Garland, but as a lady marshal against John Ireland?—12.

5:30—No title available. If KTVW took one minute from each of 90 dubbers, we'd never know the difference—13.

C-8:30—Father Goose (poorish 1964 romanticomedy), Cary Grant, Leslie Caron, Trevor Howard. Many like it, but it's not my golden egg—8.

C-9:00—Raintree County (badly-made 1958 chitlins drama), Liz Taylor before the diamond. Plus Montgomery Clift, Eva Marie Saint and practically the entire Confederacy—7.

11:00—Dark Corner (1946 suspense, so bad it's funny), Lucille Ball, Clifton Webb—13.

11:45—Katie Did It (1951 romanticomedy). It starts amusingly but, when Ann Blyth comes on as Katie, disappears downhill—2.

C-12:00—Father Goose (see 8:30)—6.

12:00 — Back to Bataan (high camp 1945 John Wayne)—7.

12:00—Too Late Blues (1961 jazz drama). Bob Darin, Stella Stevens. Notable only for the direction of John Cassavetes, and the music—8.

C-1:05 a.m.—The Avenger (1962 Steve Reeves in Troy, part two). This starts downhill and never recovers—5.

Wednesday Radio

1:15 p.m.—Today's Artist: Ravi Shankar — CBU-FM (105.7).

8:00—In the worlds of the CBC: "Since Mother's Day is near, Concern interviews Frank Zappa, leader of the American rock group, The Mothers of Invention." I've lost my sense of values and don't know where to find them—CBU (690).

C—Color; M—Mother.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Vul: E-W

◇ A K Q J 4
♣ K Q 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
6 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Ace of spades

In Room 1 B. Jay Becker and Howard Schenken bid to six hearts with the North-South cards. Declarer ruffed the spade opening lead with the seven of hearts and, noting that the slam must be cold unless he lost two trump tricks, made the essential play of laying down the ace of hearts.

Despite the 4-0 break, the rest was easy. Declarer continued with the jack of hearts, finessing, then took the king of hearts and shifted to the plain suits, leaving West to take this high trump whenever he liked.

At the other table the contract was also six hearts but after ruffing the spade opening declarer failed to observe that the trump suit needed careful handling. He made the fatal slip of leading the eight of hearts to dummy's king.

Declarer was now out of business, for West was left with Q-9-x of hearts against declarer's A-J-10, and as soon as he got in with the queen he returned another spade to force declarer to ruff with an honor. West therefore made a second trump trick with the nine.

It will be noted that the declarer in Room 1 would have been equally safe if East had held the four outstanding trumps instead of West. In that case declarer would have been able to duck the jack of hearts around to East at trick three, then ruff a spade return with the eight of hearts, take the ten of hearts and enteer dummy with a club to draw the last trump with dummy's king.

Clash at Chemainus

Chemainus Action Sparks IWA Row

By KLAUS MUENTER

CHEMAINUS — Management of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. sawmill and booming operation at Chemainus and Local 1-80, IWA members, are at loggerheads over what the union calls a strike-breaking attempt by the company.

A MacMillan spokesman said Tuesday application for injunctions against the Merchant Service Guild and the IWA will be made.

The spokesman said, "The mill will continue to operate as much as possible and of the normal crew of about 650 men, 200 are retained."

Fernie Viala, first vice-president of local 1-80, said he took the initiative Monday morning after two men from the 40-member Copper Canyon booming crew (MacMillan Bloedel) refused to move a boom from the grounds to the mill for production.

The two men were suspended and the other boom employees sat down. Viala said the two men refused to move the boom because it was not in their jurisdiction. He said those booms are normally moved by towboat men belonging to the Merchant Service Guild who are now on strike.

Viala said, "I called a meeting with the sawmill workers and instructed them that 'hot logs' were not to be handled." He said about 8 p.m. Monday the owner of the tugboat moved the boom into the sawmill area for production, but twice IWA men refused to remove the swifters from the boom, which resulted in the suspension of four more IWA members.

Viala said the boom moved by the towboat owner was marked as hot. He stated that there are still a number of "fair" logs that could be used without any objection from the IWA.

"The company's claim that there is an illegal strike in progress is not so," he said. "The men refuse to handle hot products under the direction of the union. Having said this, the crews have also been instructed by the union to continue working on material that is considered fair. The IWA will continue to uphold a traditional right that has been in effect since labor first organized, and that is the right to refuse to strike-break or scab."

A MacMillan Bloedel spokesman described the incident as an "illegal work stoppage."

Tick tock

Daylight Dings On Way?

If Victoria council accepts a committee recommendation the chimes of Victoria's city hall tower clock will soon break their 20-year silence and once again, a sound like Big Ben will be heard in the capital city.

A recommendation to allow operation of the chimes during day hours was made to city council Tuesday by the public works committee.

Mayor Courtney Haddock said the chimes were disconnected in 1950 following a number of complaints from guests in nearby hotels.

"They claimed they couldn't sleep at night, and the chimes have been silent ever since.

It is expected that the chimes can be put into operation again without any difficulty.

Campsite Work Progresses

CAMPBELL RIVER — A permanent campsite in the Lost Lake area, near Campbell River, is being developed by Discovery Passage Boy Scouts Association.

Main feature of the camp will be a 16-foot by 40-foot A-frame lodge.

A number of volunteer workers are helping with the project, including Les Sanderson, engineer at Elk Falls Co. who is chairman, and Bill Hallowin, who recently retired from the mill, who is foreman.

Material for the venture has been donated by local businessmen and Elk Falls Co. has donated 2,300 board feet of two-inch by six-inch construction lumber.

Soviet Brass Welcomed To Prague

PRAGUE (UPI) — Moscow's top leadership came to Prague Tuesday for the first time since the Soviet-led invasion of 1968 and received a red flag, hugs and kisses welcome from the government of Czecholsovakia.

Leonid Brezhnev, the first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, and Premier Alexei Kosygin led a top-level delegation for the celebrations this week of the 25th anniversary of the Red Army's liberation of Czechoslovakia from the Nazis.

At the same time, the two nations will sign a new "friendship treaty." Brezhnev is also expected to satisfy himself that the men who now rule Czechoslovakia have succeeded in the "normalization" that the Soviets demanded.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN THAT, in case the Debentures specified in this Notice be not presented for redemption (in whole or in part as above provided) on the date of redemption above mentioned all interest thereon, or on the proportionate amount thereof to be redeemed, shall cease from and after the said date.

THE ATTENTION OF HOLDERS OF THE SAID 7% CONVERTIBLE SINKING FUND DEBENTURES, SERIES AA, IS DRAWN TO THE RIGHT OF CONVERSION TO WHICH THE HOLDERS OF THE SAID DEBENTURES ARE ENTITLED UNDER ARTICLE VI OF THE TRUST INDENTURE. In brief, the Trust Indenture provides that the holder of each of the said Debentures has the right to convert such Debenture into common shares of the Company at a rate of Seventy (70) such common shares as presently constituted for each One Thousand Dollar face value of the Debenture and the Debenture holder shall be entitled without demand to interest accrued on all such Debentures up to but not including the day of surrender of such Debenture for conversion.

THE TRUST INDENTURE ALSO PROVIDES THAT SUCH RIGHT OF CONVERSION MAY BE EXERCISED BY THE HOLDER OF EACH OF THE SAID DEBENTURES AT ANY TIME BEFORE THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS THREE (3) BUSINESS DAYS IMMEDIATELY PRECEDING THE REDEMPTION DATE FIXED IN THIS NOTICE FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE SAID DEBENTURES. The Trust Indenture further provides that the holder of any of the said Debentures shall exercise such right to convert Debentures into common shares of the Company by delivering to the said Trustee at its principal office in one of the Cities of Vancouver or Calgary, Canada:

(a) Such Debenture together with all unmatured coupons thereto pertaining and with, if the Debenture be registered as to principal and the said Trustee so requires, a power of attorney to transfer the same duly executed in blank to the satisfaction of the said Trustee.

(b) A written request signed by the holder of such Debentures or his attorney or agent duly appointed in writing to the satisfaction of the said Trustee exercising his right to convert such Debenture and naming the person or persons in whose name or names the said common shares are to be issued, the number to be issued to each and the address of each:

And, if the holder of such Debenture shall request the issuance of common shares in the name or names of a person or persons other than himself, by paying such further sum of lawful money of Canada as may be required to satisfy any transfer taxes or other governmental taxes or charges arising by reason thereof.

Departments Will Display Fires Work

Saturday will be Fire Service Recognition Day in Both Saanich and Victoria — and that phrase means the firemen will show their wares to the public.

The International Association of Fire Chiefs is sponsoring such days for fire departments across the North American continent in an effort to let the public know what firemen do and how their work helps everyone.

No observances are planned in Esquimalt and Oak Bay, but in Victoria, an open house is planned at the main firehall at 1234 Yates from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

DISPLAYS SET

The Victoria program includes displays and demonstrations of firefighting and lifesaving equipment, also starting at about 1:30. The most spectacular item is expected to be a display of the use of high-expansion foam.

In Saanich, open house is set from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the municipality's three firehalls — No. 1 at 760 Vernon, No. 2 at 5500 Hamsterley and No. 3 at 3987 Shelbourne.

At the No. 1 firehall, crews will demonstrate firefighting equipment at 3 p.m. and ambulance rescue equipment will be displayed about 3:45.

MEN PRACTICE

Both departments have been rehearsing, with Saanich Deputy Chief Glen Robbins getting his men to work Monday. Dave Hill started up a ladder carrying a hose over his shoulder, and Ernie Lindner and Rick Shumba followed.

Saturday they'll do it for the public.

Students to Compete For Garden Prizes

All elementary schools within Sooke school district 62 are eligible to enter the third annual miniature garden contest sponsored by the Metchosin Garden Club.

The contest will be divided into growing and design categories. Entries must be in boxes not larger than 15 by 15 inches.

Judging will be May 14 and 15. Three age classes have been formed for entries in the 11 schools involved, and ribbons will be awarded to the top three entries in each of the age brackets May 14.

Winning entries will go on to an interschool competition, where cash prizes will be awarded in the final judging May 15.

In the growing category, a first prize of $5, a second prize of $3.50 and a third prize of $1.50 will be given.

A first prize of $3, a second prize of $2 and a plaque for third prize will be given in the design category.

Winners in the final judging will also be given points as well as cash prizes.

The school to collect most points will be awarded a small golden shovel plaque donated by the Colwood Plaza merchants Sooke elementary won the trophy last year.

Winning entries will be on public display in St. Mary's church hall, 4354 Metchosin, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. May 16.

Church to Stage Psychodrama

A Unitarian minister from Seattle — Rev. James Zacharias — will conduct a psychodrama demonstration at 8 p.m. Friday in the Unitarian Church of Victoria, 106 Superior Street.

He and his wife will demonstrate a variety of psychodramatic techniques involving participants from the audience.

The minister is a graduate of Hiram College, Ohio. He received his BD degree from the Graduate School of Theology, Oberlin, Ohio. He studied sociology at the University of Denver and was employed as a pastoral counselor in that city and in Washington, D.C.

He has published two articles on psychodrama in the Group Psychotherapy Journal, entitled Psychodrama with Teenagers and Psychodrama of an Unwed Mother.

Swedish Jewels Soon on Display

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish cabinet announced the crown jewels will be put on public display at the royal castle. Until now the 24 royal pieces have been kept in an underground vault at the Swedish National Bank and taken out only once a year for the opening of parliament.

Youth Sentenced in Forging

An 18-year-old youth was sentenced Tuesday in Victoria Provincial Court to a youth detention unit for repaying a man's hospitality by forging a cheque on the man's bank account.

That phrase was used by Judge William Ostler to describe the action of Douglas Brent Dockter, no fixed address, who pleaded guilty April 27 to a charge of uttering a $640 forged cheque April 24 in Saanich.

Court was told then that Dockter had arrived in this area April 23, phoned some friends who gave him a place to stay and then uttered the cheque the next day when the friends were away from their home.

CHEQUE CHARGES

Dockter also pleaded guilty Tuesday to two charges from Vancouver. One dealt with an $850 forged cheque and the other with an attempt to obtain goods worth $872 through use of a cheque drawn on a bank where Dockter had no account.

The judge sentenced Dockter to a total of six months definite and one year indeterminate in a youth detention unit.

Brian George Nestor, 53, of 1349 Grant, was fined $35 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance by being drunk Monday morning in the 1300 block Grant.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said police were told that Nestor wanted "to go east to hunt wolves," got a rifle and then got drunk and fired four shots into the ground. Nestor then told the court his cat had caught a rat and he shot the rat because it wasn't dead.

"It sounds like a figment of your imagination," said the judge, and when Nestor asked about getting his rifle back, Ostler added "that's between you and the police officials."

Kenneth George Thompson, 28, of 2526 Government, was committed by Ostler for trial in a higher court following a preliminary hearing on a charge of attempting to utter a forged cheque. Bail was set at $2,500.

In the court section of Judge J. A. Byers, a sentence of a $400 fine and a two-year driving ban was given to Joseph Vollmer, 911 Forshaw, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Peter Robert Byrne, 33, of 660 Granderson, was fined $300 after he was found guilty by Ostler following a trial on a charge of theft involving items worth less than $50.

Court was told that Byrne took a number of small items worth a total of $9.17 from the Simpsons-Sears store at 3190 Shelbourne March 28. Byrne was given two months to pay the fine.

Even Piggy Robbed

A thief broke into Goodwill Enterprises Store, 560 Yates over the weekend and took $3 from a donation box on the main floor and $6 from a piggy bank in the store's office. Police said the front door of the building has been forced.

Driver Charged In Hit-Run

Police have charged a man with failing to remain at the scene of an accident following an accident at Oak Bay and Davie Monday night when a car driven by Marilyn King, 2349 Foul Bay Road, was in collision with another. Police estimated damage to the King car at $500.

Litter War Starts

Anti-Litter Day in B.C. will be May 20, according to the provincial cabinet, who urges all citizen to "think clean" that day and after.

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said he has written to all B.C. mayors and school principals announcing the special day. He also intends to supply school principals with copies of the recently passed Litter Act, so they can discuss it with teachers and students.

Kiernan said he hoped that school principals, city councils and recreation organizations will arrange special projects to mark Anti-Litter Day and bring the problem home to the public.

"Everyone is responsible for littering at one time or another," said Kiernan. "We have to make people realize that pollution is an individual responsibility and that littering and carelessness are wrong."

Ex-Esquimalt Student Wins Travelling Grant

A 23-year-old former Esquimalt resident has become the only Canadian student of history to win a $2,500 Mackenzie King travelling scholarship grant for 1970.

The foundation providing the grants has announced that one has been awarded to Andrew Yarmie, son of Mrs. Mary Yarmie, 855 Selkirk, and a student at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ont., during the past year.

Yarmie, who was born in Saskatchewan and educated in Greater Victoria, was graduated from the University of Victoria in the spring of 1969, winning a scholarship to McMaster.

He will use the King grant to enter the University of London in England next fall to study for a PhD degree. The King grants are given annually for studies abroad in the fields of law, political science, chemistry and history, and only five were awarded in Canada this year.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — George Wallace has put his political reputation on the line in a Democratic party test which will determine Alabama's next governor.

Bridge

Winners in the weekly duplicate bridge game conducted by the Victoria unit of the American Contract Bridge League: 1. Bruce Paul and Miles Blades. 2. Brian Larkey and Jim McAvoy. 3. Gwen Humphrys and Keith Stapleton. 4. Duncan Smith and Ronald Smith. 5. Jack Goldie and Pearl Smith. 6. Laura Tingley and Freda Small. 7. Anne and Earle Dye.

At Firestone we like to sell you tires— but not too often.

You can count on a warm welcome when you come in for a set of tires. Naturally.

But if you come back to replace those tires too soon, we may ask some searching questions. And we'll probably ask permission to put your car on the hoist for a look-see.

The fact is, we pride ourselves on being the mileage people.

Our tires go even farther with Firestone RIDING SYSTEM SERVICE

How does Riding System Service make the difference? As the diagram shows, your tires are part of the riding system. Defects in other components can scuff and scrape and pound the life out of your tires.

Even an easy-to-fix thing like misaligned wheels can damage your tires. And also play havoc with crucial things like ball joints and steering rods.

So as you can see, a free Riding System Analysis can save you a lot of money. And it can also add a lot to your safety and comfort.

Why are we so concerned about the mileage you get from your Firestone tires?

Because we want you to come back for more.

But not too often.

Love and Beans

Few of the vegetables we grow in our backyard plots are quite so trouble-free as the English broad bean. Growing so stoutly and vigorously, and with an absolute minimum of attention, they are inclined to be neglected and left to go their own way while the more tempermental subjects are nursed and babied along.

The broad bean responds enthusiastically to a kind word and a pat on the head, though; a few little attentions given at the right time will make a surprising difference, not only to the quality of the beans harvested, but also to the length of time the plants remain in production. Well-grown specimens will continue to produce worthwhile crops of the succulent green seeds long after the neglected orphans have packed up and called it a day.

It is best to pinch out the tops of the plants about the time when the first four flower clusters have set and are beginning to form pods. This helps swell the pods, but in addition, it takes the succulent growing tips out of circulation just about the time when the blackfly becomes active.

The blackfly, known also as dolphin or bean aphid, is the one bad pest of the broad bean; it gathers in the thousands on the tips of the plants. When the juicy growing tip is removed, these plant lice don't stick around and attack the older, tougher portions of the plant, but move on to some of their other favorite feeding grounds, especially nasturtiums, dahlias and the young branch tips of wild cherry and chokecherry.

Incidentally, that succulent rosette in the tip of the broad bean plant makes very good eating when steamed or lightly boiled and served like spinach — always providing they are gathered before they are fouled by the blackfly hordes. One fashionable restaurant in London makes broad bean tops a specialty of the house, serving them as an accompaniment to grilled Dover sole.

Once the blackfly gets settled into the tops, it isn't worthwhile trying to spray them or wash them off. The correct drill in this case is to pinch them out and bung them in the incinerator, along with their unwelcome inhabitants.

If you look over your broad beans from time to time, you'll often find suckers emerging from around the base of the plant, much like the sucker shoots of corn. Broad bean suckers are useless, though, contributing nothing to the crop, so they should be wrenched off as fast as they appear, allowing each plant to develop only a single stem.

Try to get the suckers removed while they are still very small, for the bigger they are, the more their removal resembles a major surgical operation, with all its attendant shock to the patient.

Another helpful attention is regular feeding to help the pods swell. This is best started when the first pods are two inches long, and the feed they appreciate most at this stage is a high-phosphate fertilizer such as 11-48-0. You could scratch it in dry around each plant, about one heaping tablespoonful per plant, but a better way is to dump a cupful in your six-quart watering can and leave overnight to dissolve, then stir and give each plant two cupfuls every ten days.

Broad beans benefit even more than most plants from a surface mulch of straw, peat, sawdust, manure or lawn mowings over their rooting area. Like all members of the bean family, they haven't many roots, and the few they have are near the soil surface. A mulch insulates these shallow roots from the hot sun, providing the cool, moist conditions they love.

Thinking Aloud

One easy way to distinguish a virtue from a vice is that a virtue enjoys seeing itself reflected in others — as generosity appreciates generosity — but a vice resents seeing itself reflected in others — as egotism cannot stand rival egotism.

The most over-valued trait in the arts is "sincerity," considered as a good thing in itself; the worst singers I have every heard were suffused with sincerity — so much so that they could scarcely hear their lack of talent.

The finest rebuke to long-windedness was given by Henry Clay, when Alexander Smyth, a tedious speaker in Congress, said to him, "You, sir, speak for the present generation; but I speak for posterity." "Yes, replied Clay, "and you seem resolved to speak until the arrival of your audience."

The most stimulating play I saw on Broadway all season was Kopit's Indians, which closed prematurely but prompted me to read the new book, The Geronimo Campaign, by Odie Faulk, which gives an exciting but reliable account of the white man's perfidy at that time.

Mini Out, Midi In

The "midi" is in. The "mini" is out. And the "maxi" never took at all. I caught up with designer Ray Aghayan at lunch at Les Ambassadeurs in London. Ray is fresh from the applause for his clothes for Lauren Bacall in Applause on Broadway. He is in London to buy fabrics for his Elizabeth the First boutique, shared with partner Bob Mackie in Hollywood. "The 'midi' is the thing that is going to happen," he assured me. "The designers are going about it with such a vengeance," he continued, "that it's bound to happen." Miss Bacall loathes the midi, but the artful Ray got around this by having her wear pants or hostess gowns. She is playing a famous actress, so her clothes would be exotic. "The mini," he added, "went too high. Anything that is so difficult for the majority of the people to wear cannot last forever. The knee, like the elbow, is not the most attractive part of a woman. So now you will all have to wear the midi. But if you have bow legs, raise the skirt to just below the knee."

I asked Ray who was the most elegant of the ladies he has dressed in Hollywood and Broadway. But he refused to make enemies of the rest. He thinks that among his recent and past clients, Zsa Zsa Gabor is very beautiful—"if only she would pay her bills." She bought $5,000 worth of dresses the last time she visited Ray's boutique. He is sure she will pay, one of these days.

Clients in good standing include Melina Mercouri for whom he designed the clothes in Gaily, Gaily (in London the Norman Jewison film is titled, Chicago, Chicago.) Also Juliet Prowse and Edie Adams for their acts in Las Vegas.

"When I came from Iran at the age of 17," he told me, "I wanted to be an actor." His family wanted him to be an architect. After some education at UCLA he designed Judy Garland's clothes for her television series. He has not stopped since. Jewison wants him to design the clothes for Fiddler on the Roof, but it means going to Yugoslavia, and I am not ready for that just now."

He might be going there later for Nicholas and Alexandra, which Sam Spiegel insists will start production on August 3. He has to sign some major characters, although at one time Peter O'Toole was set for the role of Rasputin.

JACK SMITH

Target: Serendipity

Dwight Long is a member of a very small elite. He has sailed around the world in his own boat.

It is a dream many men have in their youth, but most end up putting it quietly away, along with all the others.

It is one I have put away myself, though not entirely. It dies hard.

Long's boat was named The Idle Hour. Mine is named The Serendip, or will be. Serendip was an ancient kingdom whose three young princes set out to find adventure, and found a great deal more.

Long made his voyage in the 1930s, when he was somewhat more seaworthy than he is today, as I was. He sailed to Hawaii, Samoa, Tahiti, the Fijis, New Guinea, Bali, Singapore and Ceylon, among other storied places, before running through the Mediterranean, going up the Thames to London and crossing the Atlantic.

In his book, Sailing All Seas, he writes of Pago Pago, the harbor of Tutuila Island, in the Samoas, which in the 30s was still as beautiful as the South Seas that Captain Cook's men found two centuries ago:

"At sunset, as the light faded over the encompassing mountains, the palms on the nearer ridges were silhouetted blackly against the deepening violet to the sky.

"A huge moon floated up into the heavens, drenching the jungle of Taro and banana and vines with a flood of silver radiance and picking out the tops of the palms whitely as they rustled in the gentle breeze."

He writes also of sailing out to meet the Matson liner, all his colors and signals up, as the white ship steamed toward Pago Pago, the passengers lined up along her rails.

It was only a year or two later, as I reckon, that I sailed into Pago for the first time myself, but I was one of those on the deck of the liner, having run up from my dishes in the galley to glimpse that glorious landfall.

Alas, I have heard stories that Pago has gone to industry since the war, with fish canneries spewing their wastes into that dark water in which I saw brown girls swimming out to meet me, with pink and yellow flowers in their hair.

It hardly sounds like a fit place, anymore, for the Rev. Mr. Davidson to go to hell in.

"No," Dwight Long told me the other day, "it isn't all gone. Don't forget, the Pacific Ocean is vast. It covers a third of the globe.

"I'd still like to go to Truk, and the Marquesas, and the Gilberts, and the Wallace Islands. There are still places out there that haven't been touched by commerce, by jets . . ."

I asked him what it did to a man, a voyage like he took.

"It gives you time to think," he said, as if that might be the most precious of our vanishing resources. "It becomes a part of you. It's something nobody can take away."

Long made a film of the voyage, Six Years Around the World. I guess I'll go see it. Theatre armchairs are fairly comfortable, and a good documentary is an experience they can't take away from you. Maybe I'll find serendipity.

2 new ways to serve Thrifty Chicken.

Spicy Glazed Chicken 'n' Fruit

3 whole chicken breasts, split cooking oil.
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
1 can (14 ounces) Hunt's Peach Halves or Apricots.
1 can (7½ ounces) Hunt's Tomato Sauce with Mushrooms.
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon or nutmeg.
1 teaspoon whole cloves.

Brush chicken with cooking oil; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Arrange, skin-side up, in 13x9x2 inch baking pan. Bake at 375° for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, drain syrup from fruit into saucepan; stir in Hunt's sauce and cinnamon; simmer five minutes. Turn chicken; pour on half of sauce. Bake at 375° for 30 minutes more. Turn chicken; pour on remaining sauce. Stud fruit with cloves and arrange around chicken. Bake 10 to 15 minutes more, basting occasionally, until fruit is thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.

DRUMSTICKS Italian Style

6 chicken drumsticks.
6 chicken thighs.
¼ cup cooking oil.
Salt and pepper.
1 onion, sliced.
1 bay leaf.
½ teaspoon oregano
1 can (5½ ounces) Hunt's Tomato Paste.
1 cup water.
1 cup macaroni, cooked and drained.

In skillet brown chicken in cooking oil; pour off fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; add onion, bay leaf and oregano. Mix Hunt's Tomato Paste, water and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour over chicken; simmer, covered, 30 minutes; remove bay leaf. Stir in macaroni and cook 10 minutes more. Makes 6 servings.

Rape Defendant Testifies

'Tried to Get Rid of Her'

Floor-layer Irenee Brisson, 33, who is being tried in Victoria B.C. Supreme Court on a charge of rape, told the court Tuesday he called the complainant in the case a "whore and a slut" but did not have intercourse with her.

His main concern at the end of a party in his motel room on the night of Dec. 6-7, 1969, said Brisson, was to get her out of his room.

He had no interest in the woman, he testified and besides, he believed that she had a disease.

There had been a struggle, the accused told court, during which he put his hand over the woman's mouth to keep her from shouting his name over and over again but he had no sexual relations of any kind with her.

He then gave her $2 for a taxi home and went to bed and to sleep without knowing if and when she left his room. He awakened about 3 a.m. on Dec. 7 and she was gone, he said.

The trial went into its second day Tuesday as the defence put its only witness, the accused man, who comes from Vancouver, into the box. Today crown counsel and the defence attorney will address the jury and Mr. Justice Kirke Smith will make his charge.

Earlier the 28-year-old complainant, mother of two children, said that she was threatened with a beer bottle and a knife in the hotel room after a party on the night of Dec. 6 and she submitted to intercourse and other sex relations because she feared for her life.

During the attack, she testified, she was slapped and punched.

The next day, she testified, Brisson telephoned her twice at her home and threatened her and her children if she told her brother, police or his boss about what had happened.

All this was denied in testimony by the accused Tuesday.

SCUFFLE IN ROOM

He might have accidentally struck the woman during the scuffle in his room, he said, and he did call her a whore and a slut in the exchange when he was trying to get rid of her, but he did not have relations of any kind and did not force her to undress as she had earlier testified, he told the court.

She was getting louder and louder all the time in her denunciations of him, the accused told the court, and he only wanted to shut her up and get rid of her.

Mrs. Christina Hall said that she was listening in when Brisson called the complainant up the day after the incident.

THREAT ALLEGED

Mrs. Hall told the court that Brisson told the complainant that if she didn't keep her mouth shut he was going to come over and fill her and her children up with dope after which he would cut them up and people would think she was a dope addict who had committed suicide.

Earlier, the complainant had testified that Brisson threatened her with a linoleum knife at the time of the incident.

Central Saanich Taxes Increase

Central Saanich ratepayers face a 3.66 mill rise in taxes for 1970, with the largest portion of the increase coming in school taxes.

The new mill rate, set by council Monday night, is 53.85 and will pay for a $473,340 budget which has risen by $43,497 from 1969's $429,843, or slightly more than 10 per cent.

HEALTH COST

The mill rate is made up of 21 mills for general expenditures (last year's was 19.75), 32 mills for schools (29.75), .42 wills for debt (.48), and .43 mills for hospitals (.21).

Because of a redistribution by the Capital Regional Board of public health costs, central Saanich is budgetting $6,550 in that area, against last year's $364.

The social welfare apportionment has risen to $49,384 from $40,248, in line with the municipality's population increase.

FIRE HALL

Fire and police costs rose to $109,473 from $93,472, which includes an addition to the police staff.

Capital expenditures from revenue will come to $80,950, up $16,510 from 1969. Renovations to the fire hall and a new police car are involved.

Scouts Set Jamboree In Arctic

Applications have been circulated to Victoria area Boy Scout troops for Canada's second Arctic and Northern Jamboree July 8 at Churchill, Man.

The nine-day program on the shore of Hudson Bay will be officially opened by Queen Elizabeth.

About 500 boys from the Arctic and some 500 from southern Canada, as well as 100 from Greenland and Alaska will be on the site.

A. E. Yates, assistant regional Scout commissioner for the Victoria area, said Tuesday that the minimum age for the boys participating in the jamboree will be 14.

Boy Scouts going on the jamboree will not necessarily be Queen's Scouts, Yates said.

Those wanting to go on the trip will generally have to pay their own way, although deserving Scouts in need will receive some help from various group committees, he said.

The jamboree will be supported by the Northwest Territories and Manitoba, which are celebrating their centennials and the Hudson's Bay Company, which is marking its 300th anniversary.

Killings Protested

Angry Students Battle Police Across America

From UPI

Angry student demonstrations spread through scores of college campuses Tuesday and spilled into downtown streets of some cities.

Police turned tear gas on crowds of protesters at the University of Wisconsin, University of California at Berkeley, University of Texas and State University of Buffalo, N.Y.

More than 1,000 anti-war demonstrators — many of them striking college and high school students — converged on Dag Hammerskjold Plaza at the United Nations in New York. The mob snarled rush hour traffic and caused security forces to seal off the U.N. headquarters, locking hundreds of tourists inside.

The student rebellions were protests against the American military strike into Cambodia and the fatal shooting of four Kent (Ohio) State University students by national guardsmen.

Boston University announced it was closing for the year because a "massive expression of student concern" had created a campus atmosphere in which the personal security of students was threatened.

Brown and Tufts Universities terminated classes for the year. Harvard Law School students and faculty voted "overwhelmingly" to urge closing of classes for the rest of the year.

But crowds of demonstrators fought with police and reserve officer training corps buildings were under heavy attack by vandals in some cities.

Wisconsin Gov. Warren Knowles called up national guard units. As they assembled near the University of Wisconsin campus, crowds of anti-war protesters skirmished repeatedly with police. The students hurled rocks: police retaliated with tear gas. At least 21 were arrested.

In the classic Berkeley pattern, a crowd of 700 to 1,500 demonstrators roamed the University of California campus, throwing rocks at police, being dispersed by tear gas, and forming again.

Police in Austin, Tex., twice used tear gas on protesters, once to break up a crowd of some 2,000 University of Texas students who charged the state capital, surrounded buses and cars and threw rocks, bottles and books at police.

Police in Buffalo, showered with missiles and taunted with cries of "Shoot me, shoot me," used tear gas to break up a crowd of 1,500 who went on a window-smashing spree.

'Guard Wrong To Kill'

KENT, Ohio (Reuters) — Brig.-Gen. Robert Canterbury said Tuesday in the light of the consequences, he feels the national guard under his command was not justified in firing on a crowd of demonstrators at the Kent State University campus Monday.

Canterbury, assistant adjutant-general of the Ohio national Guard, told a news conference an investigation ascertained that 16 of the about 100 guardsmen discharged a total of 35 rounds at the crowd, killing four of them and wounding nine others.

Asked whether he thought the guardsmen were correct in firing on the demonstrators, he said: "In the light of the consequences, where four students lost their lives, it was not justified and could never be justified."

However, he stressed that the guardsmen fired because they feared for their lives.

"I was there, I was hit by rocks and I felt that I could have been killed," he said.

Canterbury said in light of decreasing tension on the campus, 400 men will leave the area today, leaving 300 guardmen to patrol the campus.

Asked whether there was any progress in the investigation into the report a sniper started the bloody conflict, he said "we are still investigating that possibility."

"I personally heard a single shot but was unable to identify the make of rifle or where it came from," he said.

Asked whether he felt the guardsmen had acted out of panic, he said: "No, it was the only recourse available."

The university, which has been ordered closed until Monday, will be under martial law at least until the weekend.

Students remaining on the campus were unanimous in their condemnation of the national guardsmen's actions.

"They committed blatant murder," said William Fitzgerald, a history graduate student, said. "It was bloody butchery."

Pelletier arrives in Victoria

Pelletier Tangles with Victoria Broadcasters

Balance, Not Blackout, Aim of New Rules

By BILL THOMAS

Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier made it quite clear Tuesday to a group of angry local broadcasters that no matter how they twiddled their dials of protest, the government is determined to preserve and foster the Canadian indentity in radio and television.

"You can create a situation," Pelletier told C-FAX operator Clare Copeland, "whereby a man will cross the street in New York City or in Chicago and will buy the Montreal market or Vancouver market or the Toronto market without our even knowing the transaction has even taken place.

"So I think there is an essential function to discharge, in this regard, and I think the CRTC is trying to do just that."

"The CRTC is trying to make regulations that don't shut us all in behind our borders, but on the other hand balance the foreign input that you can channel into Canada as far as you can control it in order to protect Canada."

Pelletier told Copeland that if the Canadian content in Canadian broadcasting is not protected "you could no longer talk of Canada as a sovereign country."

Protest Way Cleared

From UPI, LAT

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration plans to ask federal district court today to waive a 15-day waiting period for White House demonstration permits so that student activists can go ahead with a massive weekend protest against Vietnam and what they called the "Kent Massacre" — the killing of four students by Ohio National Guardsmen.

The move will be designed to convince young people that the administration really does support orderly dissent — as opposed to violent protest — and possibly to defuse some of the emotion certain to surround an influx of thousands of students into the nation's capital.

Two student anti-war groups and one of combined clergy and laymen combined to call on Americans, young and old, to join in the Washington protest — to face the White House "urgently, angrily and nonviolently."

Explaining the approach, one source said there is a feeling within the administration that many young Americans honestly believe the justice department is against all dissent, whether peaceful or not. He said the department wants to knock down any such idea.

No Slipup Here

Illinois National Guard Sgt. Dennis Hennessy greases flag pole in front of armory on Chicago's South Side after students threatened to take flag down. Students had persuaded officials to lower flag to half-staff in memory of four slain at Kent State University, but after they left flag was raised to top and grease applied to lower half of pole. —(AP)

Injunction Flurry Fights Widening Strike Tieup

- IWA levels strike-breaking charge in Chemainus. Page 21

By DON COLLINS

Industry appeared Tuesday to have declared an "injunction war" in an attempt to stay alive in the face of the province's devastating towboat strike.

Coupled with this was the determination of the B.C. Towboat Owners' Association to man as many of its 350 idled boats as possible with experienced company men and keep some vital tows on the move.

One of Island Tug and Barge's towboats was reported "on the go" somewhere Tuesday night out of Victoria, guided by company men and possibly towing a barge with freight cars.

This was the picture as the strike of 1,150 B.C. members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild ended its third day. Several forest operations had closed or almost closed despite the newness of the strike.

One of many applications for Supreme Court injunctions is expected in an attempt to delay what would be one of the most severe blows to industry — the closure by Friday of B.C. Forest Products Gorge Road and Point Ellice sawmills.

Involved in this is a huge log boom in West Bay which is being picketed by the guild.

The company says the picketing of the logs is illegal and wants the pickets removed on the hope that company boats can be used to move the boom up the Gorge to the sawmills.

A B.C. Forest Products spokesman in Victoria said Tuesday the closure of the two sawmills was a "definite possibility" by Friday if the logs weren't moved.

Political Crisis

Ulster Splits Dublin

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Republic was plunged into political crisis early today as Premier Jack Lynch sacked two government ministers and a third immediately announced he had quit.

Ireland's minister of justice resigned Tuesday.

Lynch announced: "I have requested the resignations as members of the government of Neil Blaney, minister for agriculture and fisheries, and Charles Haughey, minister for finance, because I am satisfied that they do not subscribe fully to government policy in relation to the present situation in the six counties (Northern Ireland) as stated by me at the Fianna Fail (ruling party) convention in January last."

'Radical' Hospitals Proposed by B.C.

B.C. Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said Tuesday approval in principle has been given by the government to the idea of B.C. "putting up all the money and building two new radically designed hospitals."

In an interview over Vancouver radio station CKNW, Loffmark said the 150-bed hospitals would use the most modern techniques and equipment to keep down the size of the staff needed and to reduce operating costs.

He gave no locations for the proposed hospitals.

Loffmark said "radical, modern design" of hospitals seems to offer the best prospect of lowering the cost of B.C. hospital service.

Deported Deserter Back, Judge Reopens Inquiry

VANCOUVER (CP) — County Court Judge E. J. C. Stewart has ordered reopening of a federal inquiry into the Jan. 25 deportation of three U.S. Army deserters following the escape and reappearance in Canada of a second member of the trio.

Commission counsel Allan McEachern said Tuesday that the inquiry, of which Judge Stewart is commissioner, will resume May 11 in Vancouver.

At the same time, lawyer Don Rosenbloom disclosed that Charles Leonard, 18, of Chico, Calif., had deserted his army unit a second time and made his way back into Canada 10 days ago.

Kreeger, Leonard and Earl Hockette, 21, of Santa Cruz, Calif., escaped from a U.S. Navy shore patrol vehicle a few hours after being escorted across the border by RCMP and a customs officer at Huntingdon, B.C., to Sumas, Wash.

Kreeger made his way back to Canada and testified at the inquiry. Leonard was recaptured, court-martialled at Fort Ord, Calif., returned to his unit several weeks ago and deserted again.

Rosenbloom said he plans to ask Judge Stewart to allow Leonard to testify when the inquiry resumes.

"Leonard is one of the main principals in the case and he wasn't available to testify before," said the commission counsel. "We've been informed by Mr. Rosembloom that he is now, and Judge Stewart felt he would like to hear all the evidence available."

'No Deeper Than 21.7 Miles'

Nixon Stresses Limited Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)— United States forces will penetrate no deeper than 35 kilometres (21.7 miles) into Cambodia without congressional approval and American troops will be out of that country by June 30, President Nixon told senators and congress Tuesday.

Speaking to members of the House of Representatives and Senate foreign affairs and military committee in two separate sessions Tuesday, Nixon is reported to have given assurances the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, announced last Thursday in a country-wide address, would be no deeper than 30 to 35 kilometres — 18.6 to 21.7 miles.

- U.S. spearheads fourth drive into Cambodia. Page 3

The chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, Representative Thomas Morgan (Dem. Pa.), told reporters Nixon would come to Congress for approval should he decide it was necessary to make a deeper penetration.

It was also Morgan who said Nixon plans to have U.S. forces out of Cambodia by June 30.

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler, in a briefing with reporters following the afternoon meeting, went one better than Morgan and said U.S. forces would go no deeper than 30 kilometres — 18.6 miles — into Cambodia.

Asked about reports Nixon made his decision to go into Cambodia against the advice of Defence Secretary Melvin Laird and State Secretary William Rogers, Ziegler said:

"I would say from my observation that is not correct and I'm sure they (Laird and Rogers) will support that."

Nixon met in the morning with members of the Senate and House armed services committee and in the afternoon with those of the Senate foreign relations committee and the House foreign affairs committee.

From all these committees — especially the Senate foreign relations committee — there has been a measure of criticism of the presidential course in Indochina, and Nixon obviously was seeking to still it and increase his support.

He did not succeed completely. But from some of those on hand he drew laudatory remarks.

In both the morning and afternoon meetings, Nixon briefed the Senate and House members and answered questions. And there were briefings by top military and diplomatic advisers.

Senator Robert Griffin (Rep. Mich.) told reporters Nixon had done a masterful job, adding:

"He made clear his intention of not expanding the war, the invasion of the Communist sanctuary would actually limit the war, enable him to help save American

SAIGON (Reuters) — Armed soldiers burst into the national pagoda before dawn Tuesday and opened fire on about 600 monks, nuns and students occupying the building, a South Vietnamese military spokesman said.

The soldiers, after a two-hour battle, evicted the militant anti-government Buddhists who took over the pagoda two days ago. Displaced monks said 10 persons were killed and 20 wounded.

Church Prays in 'Despair' Over Cambodia

NARAMATA, B.C. (CP) — The B.C. conference of the United Church of Canada Tuesday stood for five minutes of silent prayer as an expression of "outrage and despair" at the decision by the United States to move into Cambodia.

Island Lodge Makes Dream True

Photostory
By MARY BACKLUND

GALIANO ISLAND—An old love affair is something most people cherish, but when that love affair is connected with an island, and a dream comes true, then it has a special appeal.

Brian Pellant, when he was three, started to visit Galiano Island during holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pellant. He came every year with them until 1966 when he moved east to work. Then, in 1969, he and his wife came again to Galiano, this time to find tht there was a chance to buy Galiano Lodge.

LODGE PURCHASE

They returned to Regina, and shortly afterward, Brian and his future partner, Barry Smith, flew to Galiano and successfully negotiated purchase of the lodge.

Although Brian's parents live in Vancouver, they did not get the "Galiano fever" like their son, and parents. They first came to Galiano in the early 1920s, and were among the first paying guests to visit the island. island.

They went to what is now a private home, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Steward. Then it was owned by Mrs. Steward's family, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Scoones and was rented by Miss Kathleen Frampton, who ran a boarding house for a short while.

Although Brian's grandparents did not buy land on the island, they have not missed one year and they have spent their holidays on the island for 45 years.

Galiano Lodge was built by Charlie Elveson more than 50 years ago, and he sold the property to Mr. and Mrs. Scoones in 1938. They turned the large house into a hotel, calling it Greenways, which they sold to Mr. and Mrs. George Jack in 1945. The Jacks carried on for only two years, then sold it to Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robson who changed the name to Galiano Lodge. They kept it for 16 years.

NEW BUILDING

In early 1950, the big building burned to the ground, but that did not deter the Robsons. They immediately began to build a new lodge, and soon had it operational.

They erected a one-storey building on the original foundation, and then built twelve units, six on each side of the big building.

In 1963, the lodge was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Clarke who added four rooms to the original building, and a larger dining area. In 1968 they sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dess.

Campbell River

Regional Director Answers a Hack

CAMPBELL RIVER—Mayor Kenneth McDonald was called on at a recent Campbell River council meeting to prove that electoral area directors have their hands in municipal wallets, or retract his statements.

Norman Lysne, director for electoral area E in Comox-Strathcona region, presented a prepared statement to council, defending the region Board, particularly the electoral areas.

He said: "In view of statements made by the mayor and some aldermen I feel that the mayor should either prove his point or retract his statements."

The controversy, Lysne said, seemed to stem around the 1970 budget requisition of $53,664.58, for Campbell River municipality. He broke it down into separate items, and projected a 1971 budget, based on existing functions, of some $23,851.

NEW AMBULANCE

Included in this year's amount as $13,920.05 for a new ambulance for Campbell River fire protection district

"Latest indications are that this will be in excess of actual needs," said Lysne, "and therefore will show a surplus this year and, as a consequence, a healthy reduction in 1971."

A requisition of $7,847.04 was earmarked for Glacier View home for the elderly in Courtenay this year. However, Mr. Lysne felt that no amount would be required in 1971.

"In my opinion, Glacier View must either reach a self-supporting state by 1971 or be closed down.

"At present we (the Region) are subsidizing a facility in an amount in excess of $32,000 which has a maximum capacity of 28 beds, over $1,000 per year.

STUDY FUND

"Is this one of the places where electoral areas have their hands in municipal wallets?" he challenged.

Regarding the feasibility study reserve fund, of $43,650, the item in the regional budget on which McDonald had expressed the strong objections, Lysne said: "This is a one-time item. Careful expenditure of this fund should guarantee its stability for years to come.

"This is one area where the mayor objected the loudest and, in my opinion, has the weakest kind of case."

According to Lysne's figures, Campbell River's share of the fund would be $10,637.37 this year, but nothing in 1971.

WATER USE

Lysne felt that there would have to be feasibility studies for water and sewage disposal which, he said, were too big and complex for any body smaller than the regional district.

He failed to see "who has any more to benefit from either function than the municipalities."

The estimated 1971 budget was based on current functions and an increase in functions would mean a budget increase. Possibilities were recreation, fire protection, water supply, sewage disposal or pollution control, he said.

"But those functions would only become a part of the regional district activities if the taxpayers so decree.

'KEEP TRYING'

Later, McDonald commented on feasibility studies and planning costs.

He said: "We have to keep trying. We have to keep using the needle, we have to keep harping about these injustices if we feel they exist, to see that these costs are rightfully placed where they belong.

"Campbell River complained bitterly at the time of the creation of the planning advisory board, of having to pay these costs, but this year they have set aside $2,500 for this purpose, and costs will be charged directly to the electoral areas concerned."

Pupils Brush Up on Care

Photostory
By AGNES FLETT

NANAIMO — Large-scale preventive dental programs are operating throughout Canada for Indian and white children, says Dr. William Egan of the federal health department.

Egan, who is helping with the service to Indians, said Tuesday night that there was a parallel program being carried out for white children.

He says that every Indian reserve in the country would be covered by the program—no matter how isolated they were.

Egan has visited all the reserves on Vancouver Island and some on the coastal areas of the Mainland, such as Bella-Bella, Churchhouse and Prince Rupert. He reaches some by plane and others, like Alert Bay, Tofino, Fort Rupert and Holberg, by boat.

He said the program was designed to get every Indian child's teeth brushed with a new fluoride toothpaste as a precaution against cavities.

Egan said that the paste was developed by the U.S. Army about two years ago and was used extensively by soldiers in Vietnam. It had also been made available to the Canadian armed forces.

On Tuesday, Egan took the service to Kuper Island residential school where about 112 children live. With the assistance of Christine Louie, an Indian nurse-aide, of Creston, he started the children on the program.

The treatment would be repeated in six months' time.

IWA Clashes with MacMillan Bloedel

Strike-Breaking Charges Fly at Chemainus Mill

By KLAUS MUENTER

CHEMAINUS — Management of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. sawmill and booming operation at Chemainus and Local 1-80, IWA members, are at loggerheads over what the union calls a strike-breaking attempt by the company.

A MacMillan spokesman said Tuesday application for injunctions against the Merchant Service Guild and the IWA will be made.

The spokesman said, "The mill will continue to operate as much as possible and of the normal crew of about 650 men, 200 are retained."

Fernie Viala, first vice-president of local 1-80, said he took the initiative Monday morning after two men from the 40-member Copper Canyon booming crew (MacMillan Bloedel) refused to move a boom from the grounds to the mill for production.

The two men were suspended and the other boom employees sat down. Viala said the two men refused to move the boom because it was not in their jurisdiction. He said those booms are normally moved by towboat men belonging to the Merchant Service Guild who are now on strike.

Viala said, "I called a meeting with the sawmill workers and instructed them that 'hot logs' were not to be handled." He said about 8 p.m. Monday the owner of the tugboat moved the boom into the sawmill area for production, but twice IWA men refused to remove the swifters from the boom, which resulted in the suspension of four more IWA members.

Viala said the boom moved by the towboat owner was marked as hot. He stated that there are still a number of "fair" logs that could be used without any objection from the IWA.

He said MacMillan and Bloedel "have seen fit to use intimidation and coercion to force IWA members into strike breaking.

"The IWA traditionally has refused to cross picket lines or to handle hot products during a labor dispute," he said. "We have never seen management with such a vicious attitude as in the case of the Chemainus sawmill and boom. The position of the union is by no means different than in previous strikes.

"For instance, during the BA oil strike MacMillan Bloedel management was informed that our members would not handle hot products, and there were no arguments from them at that time, he said.

"Obviously there is something more behind this move than hits the eye," Viala said. "The merchant service guilds strike is a legitimate strike triggered by management refusal to recognize problems of safety and manning on West Coast towboats. The IWA has pledged support for these unionists and refuses to handle products that are normally handled by the striking towboat men.

"It comes as no surprise to local, union officers that company officials are threatening both union officials and employees with court injunctions.

"The company's claim that there is an illegal strike in progress is not so," he said. "The men refuse to handle hot products under the direction of the union. Having said this, the crews have also been instructed by the union to continue working on material that is considered fair. The IWA will continue to uphold a traditional right that has been in effect since labor first organized, and that is the right to refuse to strike-break or scab."

A MacMillan Bloedel spokesman described the incident as an "illegal work stoppage." He said, "The production at the sawmill was interrupted at about 9 p.m. Monday when some members of the boom crew refused to open a boom of logs and make ready for the sawmill. The remanufacturing section of the mill continues with a small crew, and the balance of the crew was sent home. The refusal to handle logs by IWA members is a breach of the labor contract with the company."

Courtenay Charged

COURTENAY — The city of Courtenay is to be sued for polluting Courtenay River.

The case will be heard in Courtenay Provincial Court Friday.

The charge, laid by fisheries officer Bill Webber, was discussed by council in committee Monday. When the meeting resumed in public, it was decided to enter a guilty plea. Ald. Harry Harris and Ald. Dan Woodrow voted against the motion.

The charge alleges that the "corporation of the city of Courtenay on or before April 29 near the city marina, allowed a deleterious substance, to wit oil, to pass into water frequented by fish."

It was indicated that the civic airport landing area had been oiled and, during a cloudburst, surplus oil had gone into the marina water.

Rich Hall, president of Courtenay branch of the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control, said the charge had not been an official action by SPEC.

He said that an individual member, or any other citizen, could have provided the information for the charge.

The charge carries a minimum fine of $100 and a maximum of $1,000 on conviction.

Aldermen Argue Future Of Education Tax Saving

COURTENAY — A reduction in the Courtenay school district mill rate, which provided an extra $24,400, sparked a sharp debate at Courtenay city council this week when two aldermen wanted the mill rate reduced. They were defeated when a vote was taken.

Ald. Harry Harris wants to pass on the saving to taxpayers through a decrease in assessment. He said local taxpayers had already been hit hard by water and sewer increases.

He recommened that the mill rate of 60 be lowered to 59 which would be "in effect splitting the difference with the taxpayer."

Harris was supported by Ald. Dan Woodrow who said: 'We knocked hell out of them with increases in water and sewer rates." He felt that the school saving should be passed back to the taxpayer.

Ald. Sandy Strachan said he agreed residents had been hit hard by water and sewer increases but felt that "our water and sewer rates are still a lot lower than in a lot of other cities the same size."

Strachan said the money should be kept in the budget and spent for something people could see — such as street paving.

Ald. Ron Field backed Strachan's view.

"There is work that must be done and no money to do it," he said. He thought the mill rate should be held at 60, adding that "some of the work that should be done concerns health and that's important."

Mayor George Hobson said a cutback in the mill rate this year would be false economy.

"Nobody would like to see a decrease more than I but do we want to do this needed work or not?"

The saving to the taxpayer would be the cost of a "a bottle of rye," Ald. Bill Bell commented. "No amount of persuasion will change my mind on the matter."

There was a 5-2 vote to keep the mill rate at 60. Strachan, public works chairman, moved, under new business, that the street paving program be increased by $18,000. That brought immediate objections from Harris who stated, "That's pushing the matter too quickly." Bell also felt council should give more consideration to the matter. The motion was tabled until May 19.

Building permits totalled $173,850 for April and included five single family dwellings and an addition to the B.C. Tel building.

First Girls Enter Parksville Contest

PARKSVILLE — The first contestants to enter the annual Miss Parksville beauty contest are two Qualicum Beach girls, Sandra Knox and Rosemary Knight, both 17.

Sandra is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and Rosemary will wear the banner of Miss Kinsmen for Parksville Kinsmen Club.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knox, Sandra is an honor student at Qualicum Beach senior high school, where she is completing Grade 12. She plans to go on to university and to become either a home economics teacher or a dietician.

Rosemary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Knight and is also a Grade 12 student with special interest in languages. She plans a business training course following graduation.

Campbell River

Ice Arena Campaign Climbs to $68,000

CAMPBELL RIVER — Campbell River's ice-skating arena fund climbed nearer to the $70,000 mark this week.

It now stands at $68,000 in cash, pledges and payroll deductions. It is hoped to raise at least $100,000 of the necessary $300,000 by subscription.

Elk River Timber Co. has pleged $10,000 to be converted upon construction of the proposed $300,000 arena, and a further $1,000 has been pleged through payroll deductions by the Campbell River Teachers' Association.

Donations of $100 each have been received from C. E. Weir and Miller's Tire Co.; teachers of Campbell River school district have donated $193; the doctors of the medical clinic have donated $400; $50 from Larry Evans; $84.81 came from a recent table tennis tournament and $32.66 from Grade 7 students at Pinecrest school.

Latest contribution was from the students at Rockland elementary school who gave $284.29 which represents almost 200 pounds of pennies collected by the children. Cedar school students have collected more than $600 so far in their mile of pennies.

A sweepstake is being conducted by the three major supermarkets in Campbell River. Safeway, Overwaitea and Super-Valu, the winners of which will be given three minutes of free shopping. The first draw will take place on May 23 for the free shopping spree at Safeway on May 30. The dates for drawing of winners for the other two markets will be announced later.

Armco Ltd. and P. P. L. Indistries of Vancouver are preparing rough plans for costing of the arena. It is hoped that the committee will have preliminary plans completed within the next week or two.

Skier Views Sports

Rotary Told About Apathy

COURTENAY — Winter Olympics gold medal winner Nancy Raine told Courtenay Rotarians Tuesday that Canadians are "a little apathetic" about sports.

"When a Canadian wins something," she said, "we're very pleased, but a little surprised."

Mrs. Raine commented on films taken during the world ski championships and the Olympics. She said international skiing is necessary if young people are to have competition to enter.

She told the club that Du Maurier, which formerly sponsored international skiing, had withdrawn because of pressure from the government. The health department, she said is not in agreement with athletics being sponsored by tobacco companies.

Asked why she had retired, Mrs. Raine said when a person has a goal and reaches it, she should go on to something else. She did wonder at times but did not regret the decision, she said.

She also spoke about government support for athletes in Canada and said there was not enough government sponsorship. She said swimmer Elaine Tanner should be sponsored on speaking tours at schools where she can tell the children what it's really like and encourage them to enter athletics.

"We will all have to keep our fingers crossed until May 11" when B.C. will learn if the Olympic committee has chosen Garibaldi Mountain for the ski championships, she said, and called it one of the best sites that could be chosen, but added that there are politics involved.

Happily-Wed Man Told Pay Alimony

NORTHFLEET, England (UPI) — Charlie Mayers, happily married with three sons, got a court letter ordering him to pay alimony to a woman he had never met.

The letter said he had deserted his wife and her two children and would have to pay her $21.60 a week.

"If I didn't know my husband so well this letter could have broken our marriage," said Mayers' real wife, Ethel.

Said Northfleet magistrate's court: "We simply sent the order to the wrong man."

Rent Original Art, Gallery's Suggestion

By BILL THOMAS

Homeowners who want to decorate their walls with original art don't have to spend a fortune if they are members of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

The gallery's women's committee rents original oils, watercolors, and graphics to members from among its collection of 280 items.

"We put the loan collection on view during the afternoon of the first Monday of each month," explained Phyllis Preston," and anyone who wished to rent can return at 7:30 p.m. to make a selection.

"We have works by such well-known artists as Bruno and Molly Boback, Maxwell Bates, Jack Shadbolt, Herbert Siebner, and Fleming Jorgensen.

"The pictures may be rented for a minimum of one month or a maximum of three months and the cost ranges from $1 to $4 a month. If, after three months the family decides it likes the picture and wants to buy it, the first three months rental can be applied to the purchase price."

Commercial members of the gallery can brighten the walls of their offices at a flat rental rate of $2 a month, with an additional charge of $1.50 for pick up and delivery.

Patrons who rent pictures on the first Monday in June will be allowed to keep them until the first Monday in September at a bargain rate. They will pay only for June and July and have the enjoyment of their chosen work of art free for the month of August.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you said the safest place to be during an electrical storm is in a car. A number of years ago the National Geographic Society published the results of extensive experimentation with relation to the action of lightning. A car with the driver inside was repeatedly struck with a million volts of man-made lightning. The man in the car suffered no injuries whatsoever.

The tests proved that if only the tires touched the ground and there were no loose parts or other objects in contact with the earth, and if the occupants did not allow any part of their bodies to touch the metal parts of the car, they could not be injured.

The National Geographic Society further concluded that the three safest places to be during a lightning storm are (1) in the furnace (2) in the refrigerator and (3) in a car. — Clifford H.S.

Dear Cliff: Thank you for the supportive evidence. The next letter should be of interest to you.

Dear Ann Landers: We had always heard the chances of being struck by lightning while in a car were about 10,000,000-1. Well — meet the one in 10,000,000. We live in Ionia, Michigan.

In 1963 we were rolling on the Northwest Expressway into Chicago. The children were nervous about the lightning which seemed to be flashing all around us. Both my husband and I kept telling them that the safest place to be during an electrical storm is in a car. In mid-sentence — ka-pow!!! A tire blew out. The smell of burning sulphur was suffocating. The radio was knocked out and the top pieces of the antenna "evaporated." We knew at once that lightning had struck the car.

The tire company refused to honor the guarantee. They said — "This was no ordinary blowout." They were right. We were that one in 10,000,000! — J.H.N.

Dear J.H.N.: Thanks for the fill-in. But I'd still rather be in a car than in a furnace or a refrigerator.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not writing for advice — it's too late for that. I'm writing in the hope that you can help other women whose lives are ahead of them. Women, like me, who are frigid.

The purpose of a wife is to be a mate to her man, to respond to him and to create new life. I have tried to be a mate. I have tried to respond to my husband. And I have had children. I love my children very much, but there was no joy in their creation.

I urge every woman who is not getting pleasure and satisfaction out of sex to seek professional help. I didn't, and I am sorry. I spent my entire married life pretending — and not very successfully, I'm afraid. Now that I am old I am bitter and resentful. I've missed it all. — Bouquet of Regrets.

Dear Regrets: My only comment is to repeat verbatim a sentence in your heartbreaking letter. "I urge every woman who is not getting pleasure and satisfaction out of sex to seek professional help."

Managerial Jobs Closed

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian businesses discriminate against women by making only about a third of managerial career opportunities available to female university graduates, George Cook, research officer for the federal labor department, said Tuesday.

He said the top Canadian companies which list managerial job openings in the Canadian Careers Directory won't even interview females for jobs unless the positions are listed as being open to women in the directory.

The most recent directory circulated on university campuses by companies looking for graduates had listed 3,268 vacancies but only 1,244 of these jobs were open to women.

"We train women but refuse to allow them to use their abilities," Cook told a study group on job discriminations at a conference sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

"There are honest sexual advantages a woman has that can be used to increase a company's productivity. Women are a natural resource that business is exploiting in low-paid positions but is not developing for better jobs."

Mary Lennox, president of the Traffic Employees' Association, said women are not going to stand for this sort of discrimination much longer "and changes are going to come much faster than most men think."

As head of an all-female union of telephone operators, she said she sees "a great deal of exploitation and underdevelopment."

Miss Lennox said she resents it that she never finds a top female executive on the other side of the bargaining table during labor negotiations.

"I often sit in rooms like this when I am the only woman there. I am becoming a token, like the one black man who gets invited to parties."

However, Jack McLean of the Bank of Montreal's marketing department questioned whether women have been relegated to a minority position "or have they automatically assumed it?"

"If women don't like where they are why don't they change?" he asked. "What are women doing to show they want something different, other than these silly radicals called feminists?"

Told some companies hesitate to hire women because of high absentee rates and turnover, Cook said a study of absenteeism among male and female civil servants in Canada showed little difference.

Time Faces Charge

Discrimination Complaint Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state was expected to file a complaint against Time Inc., Monday, charging it with discrimination against women employees on four of its major publications, a spokesman for Attorney-General Louis Lefkowitz said.

The spokesman said the attorney-general's office had investigated complaints filed by more than 20 women at Time, Life, Fortune and Sports Illustrated that they are confined to research duties and denied promotions.

Lefkowitz's formal complaint is expected to assert that Time Inc. is violating a state law prohibiting discrimination because of sex in employment or promotional opportunities.

Jail Cell Invaded By Wife

She climbed a high chain link fence, straddled the barbed wire top and squeezed through horizontal window bars for a reunion with her husband, Paul, 21, serving a term for petty larceny, police said.

The reunion ended abruptly when a night jailer heard them talking.

How Many Firebugs?

Is a firebug on the loose in Victoria? If there is, is the burning being done by one person or by two or even more?

Victoria fire and police officials weren't saying much Monday after a weekend in which five fires apparently were set deliberately, but the indication was the answer to the first question is yes and the answer to the second is that it's possible.

As the officials joined an inspector from the B.C. fire marshal's office in Vancouver in an investigation, a formal warning was issued to owners of all public buildings in Greater Victoria to take security measures against arsonists.

The only definite clue reported by the officials is that two young men in their early 20s were seen running out of an apartment building at 735 Pandora shortly before two of the five suspicious fires were seen Saturday night.

One was described as short with blond hair and the other was said to be tall with dark hair.

Damage was minor in the fires at the apartments on Pandora and on a loading platform at the rear of the nearby Hammond furniture building at 716 Johnson.

It was also minor in the next suspicious blaze, which occurred Sunday morning in the boiler room of an apartment hotel at 710 Cormorant. Firemen said papers were found smouldering in a waste container.

But damage may amount to $50,000, according to unofficial estimates, after another deliberately-set double fire Sunday night in business buildings at 530 Broughton and 918 Government.

Asked if Victoria has a firebug, Deputy Fire Chief Carl Coates told the Colonist that "certainly the fires were set . . . and the evidence would certainly lead me to believe that somebody is on the loose and carrying on this very serious crime of arson."

First hint of the double fire Sunday came at 10:40 p.m. when John McLaren of 1353 Pandora, working in his firm of McLaren Display and Fixtures at 1001 Langley, noticed a flickering of light under his office's rear door.

He opened the door, which faces on a hall leading to other business offices in the building at 530 Broughton, saw flames and called firemen. They later traced the source of the fire to combustible materials stored in a room next to the building's main stairway.

McLaren told firemen he had heard footsteps, a bang on a wall and other noises in the area of the hall and storage room shortly before he saw the light under his door.

Damage to the 530 Broughton building was estimated unofficially at more than $25,000.

About 11:30, while firemen were still fighting the flames at 530 Broughton, an onlooker saw flames in the second floor of the B.C. Land building at 918 Government.

Firemen traced the source of that blaze to combustibles in the main hall on the second floor. Damage to the B.C. Land building was given an unofficial estimate of $20,000 to $25,000.

Business Tax Set

A business tax will be levied in Saanich next year, council decided Monday night.

The tax was set at 5 per cent of the yearly rental value of premises occupied by a business, the value to be established by the assessor, or 1-10 of 1 per cent of the value of the business property and equipment.

It will be the first such tax levied by the municipality. It has been under discussion for more than two years.

Tax committee chairman Frank Waring told council about $40,000 would be collected and it would cost about $10,000 to collect it the first year, with collection cost diminishing over the years.

Mayor Hugh Curtis said the basic philosophy, in his mind, was that the municipality needed the money.

Ald. Foster Isherwood mentioned increased police protection and welfare costs.

Licence Inspector Roy Wootten said businesses have two health inspections a year and two fire inspections in addition to daily police protection.

Ald. Alan Newberry asked how much consultation there had been with the business community. He was told that Saanich Chamber of Commerce representatives attended several meetings of the tax committee.

After voting unanimously to levy the business tax, council voted also to establish a committee to reconsider business licence fees.

It was pointed out that the amount of the business licence is deducted from the business tax.

Comptroller-Treasurer John Tribe said businesses would have the right of appeal to a court of revision if they felt their levy was too high.

Campsite Work Progresses

CAMPBELL RIVER — A permanent campsite in the Lost Lake area, near Campbell River, is being developed by Discovery Passage Boy Scouts Association.

Main feature of the camp will be a 16-foot by 40-foot A-frame lodge.

A number of volunteer workers are helping with the project, including Les Sanderson, engineer at Elk Falls Co. who is chairman, and Bill Hallowin, who recently retired from the mill, who is foreman.

Material for the venture has been donated by local businessmen and Elk Falls Co. has donated 2,300 board feet of two-inch by six-inch construction lumber.

Trustees Given Support

NORTH COWICHAN — Representatives from four ratepayers' groups in North Cowichan at a special meeting Monday night decided to support Cowichan school board in securing funds for classroom construction from a previous referendum and to co-operate on other local issues.

Associations represented were from the southend, Maple Bay, Westholme and Crofton. Executive members of the southend group, Katherine Beise, said "A number of people spoke in favor of supporting the Cowichan school board."

Pelletier arrives in Victoria

If the Canadian content . . . is not protected 'you could no longer talk of Canada as a sovereign country'

Pelletier Tangles with Victoria Broadcasters

Balance, Not Blackout, Aim of New Rules

By BILL THOMAS

Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier made it quite clear Tuesday to a group of angry local broadcasters that no matter how they twiddled their dials of protest, the government is determined to preserve and foster the Canadian indentity in radio and television.

"You can create a situation," Pelletier told C-FAX operator Clare Copeland, "whereby a man will cross the street in New York City or in Chicago and will buy the Montreal market or Vancouver market or the Toronto market without our even knowing the transaction has taken place.

"So I think there is an essential function to discharge, in this regard, and I think the CRTC is trying to do just that."

"The CRTC is trying to make regulations that don't shut us all in behind our borders, but on the other hand, balance the foreign input that you can channel into Canada as far as you can control it in order to protect Canada."

Pelletier told Copeland that if the Canadian content in Canadian broadcasting is not protected "you could no longer talk of Canada as a sovereign country."

Protest Way Cleared

From UPI, LAT

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration plans to ask federal district court today to waive a 15-day waiting period for White House demonstration permits so that student activists can go ahead with a massive weekend protest against Vietnam and what they called the "Kent Massacre" — the killing of four students by Ohio National Guardsmen.

The move will be designed to convince young people that the administration really does support orderly dissent — as opposed to violent protest — and possibly to defuse some of the emotion certain to surround an influx of thousands of students into the nation's capital.

Two student anti-war groups and one of combined clergy and laymen combined to call on Americans, young and old, to join in the Washington protest — to face the White House "urgently, angrily and nonviolently."

Explaining the approach, one source said there is a feeling within the administration that many young Americans honestly believe the justice department is against all dissent, whether peaceful or not. He said the department wants to knock down any such idea.

INJUNCTIONS TO FIGHT TIEUP

● IWA levels strike-breaking charge in Chemainus. Page 35

By DON COLLINS

Industry appeared Tuesday to have declared an "injunction war" in an attempt to stay alive in the face of the province's devastating towboat strike.

Coupled with this was the determination of the B.C. Towboat Owners' Association to man as many of its 350 idled boats as possible with experienced company men and keep some vital tows on the move.

One of Island Tug and Barge's towboats was reported "on the go" somewhere Tuesday night out of Victoria, guided by company men and possibly towing a barge with freight cars.

This was the picture as the strike of 1,150 B.C. members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild ended its third day. Several forest operations had closed or almost closed despite the newness of the strike.

One of many applications for Supreme Court injunctions is expected in an attempt to delay what would be one of the most severe blows to industry — the closure by Friday of B.C. Forest Products Gorge Road and Point Ellice sawmills.

Involved in this is a huge log boom in West Bay which is being picketed by the guild.

The company says the picketing of the logs is illegal and wants the pickets removed on the hope that company boats can be used to move the boom up the Gorge to the sawmills.

A B.C. Forest Products spokesman in Victoria said Tuesday the closure of the two sawmills was a "definite possibility" by Friday if the logs weren't moved.

Political Crisis

Ulster Splits Dublin

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Republic was plunged into political crisis early today as Premier Jack Lynch sacked two government ministers and a third immediately announced he had quit.

Ireland's minister of justice resigned Tuesday.

Lynch announced: "I have requested the resignations as members of the government of Neil Blaney, minister for agriculture and fisheries, and Charles Haughey, minister for finance, because I am satisfied that they do not subscribe fully to government policy in relation to the present situation in the six counties (Northern Ireland) as stated by me at the Fianna Fail (ruling party) convention in January last."

'Radical' Hospitals Proposed by B.C.

B.C. Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said Tuesday approval in principle has been given by the government to the idea of B.C. "putting up all the money and building two new radically designed hospitals."

In an interview over Vancouver radio station CKNW, Loffmark said the 150-bed hospitals would use the most modern techniques and equipment to keep down the size of the staff needed and to reduce operating costs.

He gave no locations for the proposed hospitals.

Loffmark said "radical, modern design" of hospitals seems to offer the best prospect of lowering the cost of B.C. hospital service.

Deported Deserter Back, Judge Reopens Inquiry

VANCOUVER (CP) — County Court Judge E. J. C. Stewart has ordered reopening of a federal inquiry into the Jan. 25 deportation of three U.S. Army deserters following the escape and reappearance in Canada of a second member of the trio.

Commission counsel Allan McEachern said Tuesday that the inquiry, of which Judge Stewart is commissioner, will resume May 11 in Vancouver.

At the same time, lawyer Don Rosenbloom disclosed that Charles Leonard, 18, of Chico, Calif., had deserted his army unit a second time and made his way back into Canada 10 days ago.

Kreeger, Leonard and Earl Hockette, 21, of Santa Cruz, Calif., escaped from a U.S. Navy shore patrol vehicle a few hours after being escorted across the border by RCMP and a customs officer at Huntingdon, B.C., to Sumas, Wash.

Kreeger made his way back to Canada and testified at the inquiry. Leonard was recaptured, court-martialled at Fort Ord, Calif., returned to his unit several weeks ago and deserted again.

Rosenbloom said he plans to ask Judge Stewart to allow Leonard to testify when the inquiry reaumes.

"Leonard is one of the main principals in the case and he wasn't available to testify before," said the commission counsel. "We've been informed by Mr. Rosembloom that he is now, and Judge Stewart felt he would like to hear all the evidence available."

'No Deeper Than 21.7 Miles'

BULLETIN

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. and South Vietnamese troops drove three more spearheads —the fourth, fifth and sixth of the campaign—into Cambodia today, bringing to 50,000 the number of Allied soldiers now committed to President Nixon's cross-border offensive against guerrilla bivouacs. (See also Page 2.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States forces will penetrate no deeper than 35 kilometres (21.7 miles) into Cambodia without congressional approval and American troops will be out of that country by June 30, President Nixon told senators and congress Tuesday.

Speaking to members of the House of Representatives and Senate foreign affairs and military committee in two separate sessions Tuesday, Nixon is reported to have given assurances the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, announced last Thursday in a country-wide address, would be no deeper than 30 to 35 kilometres — 18.6 to 21.7 miles.

The chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, Representative Thomas Morgan (Dem. Pa.), told reporters Nixon would come to Congress for approval should he decide it was necessary to make a deeper penetration.

It was also Morgan who said Nixon plans to have U.S. forces out of Cambodia by June 30.

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler, in a briefing with reporters following the afternoon meeting, went one better than Morgan and said U.S. forces would go no deeper than 30 kilometres — 18.6 miles — into Cambodia.

Asked about reports Nixon made his decision to go into Cambodia against the advice of Defence Secretary Melvin Laird and State Secretary William Rogers, Ziegler said:

"I would say from my observation that is not correct and I'm sure they (Laird and Rogers) will support that."

Nixon met in the morning with members of the Senate and House armed services committee and in the afternoon with those of the Senate foreign relations committee and the House foreign affairs committee.

From all these committees — especially the Senate foreign relations committee — there has been a measure of criticism of the presidential course in Indochina, and Nixon obviously was seeking to still it and increase his support.

He did not succeed completely. But from some of those on hand he drew laudatory remarks.

In both the morning and afternoon meetings, Nixon briefed the Senate and House members and answered questions. And there were briefings by top military and diplomatic advisers.

Senator Robert Griffin (Rep. Mich.) told reporters Nixon had done a masterful job, adding:

"He made clear his intention of not expanding the war, the invasion of the Communist sanctuary would actually limit the war, enable him to help save American

Soldiers Shoot At Nuns

SAIGON (Reuters) — Armed soldiers burst into the national pagoda before dawn Tuesday and opened fire on about 600 monks, nuns and students occupying the building, a South Vietnamese military spokesman said.

The soldiers, after a two-hour battle, evicted the militant anti-government Buddhists who took over the pagoda two days ago. Displaced monks said 10 persons were killed and 20 wounded.

Church Prays in 'Despair' Over Cambodia

NARAMATA, B.C. (CP) — The B.C. conference of the United Church of Canada Tuesday stood for five minutes of silent prayer as an expression of "outrage and despair" at the decision by the United States to move into Cambodia.

Alternative Study Outlined

By DON GAIN

Transmission lines B.C. Hydro proposes to locate near Munns Road will be only the first in a series, according to a letter B.C. Hydro has sent to Saanich council.

The letter reports the findings of B.C. Hydro after a study of suggested alternatives to the proposed line location.

In another letter, council was asked by Patrick Codyre of 1890 Munns to protect owners of five homes on the road from possible expropriation by B.C. Hydro.

The mayor pointed out that the municipality has no power to protect but "can only provide a focal point for public opinion."

E. S. Collins, manager of B.C. Hydro land department, reported to the municipality that the suggested alternatives affecting Munns Road fell into three categories.

● If placed underground, the high degree of expense would not justify the situation. Collins quoted a cost of $300,000 per circuit per mile as against $30,000 for overhead wood poles.

The cost would probably be increased because of the difficult terrain, Collins said. In addition, the present proposal is for two circuits from Jordan River but within the next year another circuit from the Vancouver Island terminal near Duncan would be added as well as additional circuits in the future.

● If the lines were located to the north of the existing transmission line instead of to the south, it would mean the lines, which originate from the south, would have to be carried on high towers over the existing lines onto the north side of the existing right of way, Collins said.

"Then, in order to avoid the houses on Ivor Road, they would have to be brought back across the existing lines again onto the south side. These crossings would involve a high degree of hazard, and apart altogether from the high expense which would be incurred, would involve risks and the possibilities of severe interruptions of supply which we do not think we would be justified in imposing."

● A scheme whereby the proposed lines would be placed partly in the parks would leave existing houses on an island between two large rights of way and would involve taking a strip some 400 to 500 feet wide from Francis and Thetis Parks.

"This would involve asking the public to accept a reduction of park facilities with no commensurate gain, since the homeowners would be left isolated between two rights of way.

"In addition, we would be subject to the criticism that we had failed to consolidate our rights of way into as small an area as possible . . . We are under constant pressure from planners and others to utilize corridors rather than spreading our lines. If we adhere to our present plans we will be conforming to this pattern, although, as already explained, this is not the compelling reason for our decision."

Referring to reimbursement of individual property owners, Collins said "We hope it will be possible to negotiate satisfactory settlements with them without the need to resort to expropriation."

Compensation to the owners, he said, is made on the basis of market value of properties comparable to their own, and to this is added an allowance to cover disruption and moving expenses.

Saanich council Monday night again went on record as being opposed to overhead electrical lines.

Ald. William Noel said a Hydro official had shown him detailed plans of the proposed new routes.

"They have chosen the lesser of all the evils by displacing five homes," he said.

Council gave instructions that Codyre should be informed that the body is doing all it can to plead his case, even though there is, in law, little it can do.

Red Ensign Battler Loses Court Round

George Burnham of Victoria, champion of the Red Ensign, Tuesday lost his first court battle to bring down Canada's Maple Leaf flag, but says he will carry on and take his case into criminal court.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan of the British Columbia Supreme Court, in a judgment handed down Tuesday, ruled that the 89-year-old Burnham had no right to seek an injunction against use of the Maple Leaf flag and that to entertain the case would be an abuse of the judicial procedure.

Burnham, 620 Cook, was represented in court by J. J. Gow, who was unavailable Tuesday night for comment. Gow had argued in a Victoria hearing April 23 that the 1965 proclamation of the Canadian flag was not supported by statute and therefore Burnham's rights were affected.

Federal justice department lawyer Gordon Anderson had asked that the case be thrown out and said Burnham would have to show injury or loss in claiming his rights were affected.

Told of the decision, Burnham said Tuesday he would fight the case further under the appropriate sections of the British North America Act and in Criminal Court.

Character Preserved

Rockland Report Bans Highrises

By HUBERT BEYER

Unanimous approval by Victoria city council of a report on the future development of the city's Rockland area would convince real estate speculators that "the waiting game" was over, City Manager Dennis Young told Victoria's community development committee Tuesday.

"To deter these speculators from hanging on to certain dilapidated properties in the hope of obtaining a rezoning to highrise apartments, all you have to do is back this report unanimously," Young told the aldermen on the committee.

"Just stand up and say there will be no highrises allowed, and that's it."

The report was referred to the city's advisory planning commission for further consideration.

Contained in the report, prepared by the city's planning department, are the following recommendations:

● The traditional character of Rockland area should be preserved;

● No high or medium-rise apartment should be allowed;

● Council should consider the possibility of low-density garden apartments in a 3.3-acre pocket of land at Pemberton and Fort;

● The policy of permitting conversion of mansion-type homes to apartment buildings should be continued after careful revision of the specifications.

Specifications for conversions suggested by the report include:

The building must have been constructed before 1931; the site dimensions must comply with the minimum standards set for the area; off-street parking requirements must be met, and no alteration of the building exterior should be permitted.

The report said conversions of existing buildings to rest homes should be considered, but no permits should be given to convert a home to a personal care centre or hostel catering to "transient tenants."

Ald. Harold Olafson told the committee if council backed the report 100 per cent, development of a number of lots which were now in a "pitiful state" would soon be under way.

The report will go to city council for approval after it has been considered by the advisory planning commission.

Cable Survey

Blackouts Prime Time Bogey

By BRUCE LOWTHER

If only one of the Canadian Radio-TV Commission's proposed new cable-TV rules had been in effect last month, program blackouts on Victoria Cablevision Ltd. would have averaged 60 hours a week.

That amounts to less than one-sixth of the total programming from the three U.S. networks but, since most of the blacked-out programs would be in evening prime time, it comes to more than 80 per cent of the peak viewing period from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Les Curran, president and general manager of Victoria Cablevision Ltd., announced the 60-hour figure Tuesday as he disclosed his firm plans a campaign to keep cablevision viewing in Greater Victoria as close as possible to what it is now.

He said the figure was the result of a survey of how programs shown in March would be affected by a proposed CRTC rule banning any cable use of U.S. programs within one week of their appearance on a Canadian channel.

The CRTC announced April 10 a list of proposed rules that could cause such "within a week" blackouts and might also eliminate one or two U.S. channels from the Victoria cablevision system, including Channel 12 from Bellingham.

Curran said Tuesday he still feels, after a study of the CRTC proposals, that no U.S. channels will be lost by his firm.

But he added: "We're treating it (the CRTC list) with deadly seriousness. The more I look at it, the more concerned I become. I think probably the most onerous of all the proposals is this non-performance (blackout)."

Curran said there are "a lot of maybes and maybe nots" about the proposed rules but added that "I think these people (the CRTC) are determined to act on them."

He said his firm is going to fight by making representations to MPs and CRTC officials, and by getting ready for its licence-renewal hearing. That could come any time between next November and the following June.

Curran said Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal MP David Anderson has asked for a meeting to discuss the rules but he has heard "not a sound out of" Victoria Liberal MP David Groos. He also plans to meet CRTC vice-chairman Harry Boyle in Vancouver next week.

And Curran added: "I hope the public will join the fight. I hope they'll get on their hind legs and make a lot of noise."

Curran said: "I think that could be true in some cases, although just how extensive it would be I don't know. But do people really think Ottawa will restrict us (this firm) and leave an alternative open? Why, they might even authorize antennas beamed only at Vancouver."

Victoria Cablevision Ltd.'s licence runs for two years and was announced in August of 1969 after a hearing in Regina in November of 1968. Curran said he believes the termination date to be August of 1971 and added past history indicates the renewal hearing might come as early as next November.

Firebug Hunt Given Tips

News that a firebug may be on the loose in Victoria has brought several anonymous tips to investigating officials, The Daily Colonist learned Tuesday.

The officials declined comment on their inquiries into five weekend fires that were set deliberately, but it was learned that "more than two" pieces of information were received and are being investigated.

Victoria West School

Petition Asks City Help

A 1,700-name petition asking moral support from Victoria city council for new classrooms at Victoria West school will be delivered to city hall at 9 a.m. today.

Organized by Mrs. Marjorie Moeskau, 527 Selkirk, the petition carries names of parents in the Vic West area who have been trying to persuade provincial government to approve the construction.

Mrs. Moeskau is also trying to repair a rift between the parents and Esquimalt MLA Herb Bruch, who Monday criticized them for their methods of lobbying for their case.

She said she has written a letter to Bruch asking him to name a time and place for a meeting to discuss the construction. Bruch indicated he might meet them but said they should "scream" at the school board if they want classrooms built.

This statement brought a sharp reply Tuesday from Greater Victoria school trustee Peter Bunn, who said Bruch has been "caught with his pants down" in blaming the board.

Bunn, who chairs the board's building committee, said Bruch is "absolutely right off base" because Vic West has always been the board's first priority for new construction and only last week the provincial department received a letter reiterating the position.

"It has nothing to do with the school board — it's now up to the treasury board," Bunn said in an interview.

Exodus Feared In Lockout

British Columbia's construction lockout was three weeks old Tuesday and there was little to mark the day apart from the laments of some Victoria union leaders who feel the exodus of skilled tradesmen from the province may be underway.

"There is a trend beginning to show itself now," said Tom Wheatley, business agent for the Victoria local of the plumbers.

And this trend is for the men to go where the work is — chiefly to Alberta, where there is going to be an awful lot of construction."

He said a handful of plumbers had already left for Alberta. They were not drifters, but longtime residents of Victoria who own homes here, he said.

"My fear is that we're going to lose some good men and we're not going to get them back again when this thing is all over."

Bargaining has been held on an off-and-on basis with some of the nine unions involved in the lockout, but there has been nothing to indicate there will be early settlement.

The action was taken by the Construction Labor Relations Association on the claim that the construction unions were making unrealistic demands. They said the unions wanted increases ranging from 40 to 105 per cent. CLRA says it represents 600 contractors.

The unions involved are the laborers, teamsters, rock and tunnel workers, bricklayers, plumbers (other than in Victoria), cement masons, operating engineers, glass workers and heat and frost insulators.

The carpenters — biggest of the construction unions in the province with a membership of about 10,000 — could be included soon. They have not announced the result yet of a strike vote. Their contract expired April 30.

Director Plans Rotary Speech

Dr. J. Wiems, director of instruction for the Greater Victoria school board, will speak about the implications of some alternatives in education at a meeting of the Victoria Rotary club at 12:10 p.m. Thursday in the Empress Hotel.

Spain's 'Woman of Iron'

Still Going Strong

By NINO LO BELLO

MADRID — Being known as the Strongest Woman in the World" is not enough for 35-year-old Linda Baker. She thinks she could very easily pass as being the strongest person, male or female, anywhere on the face of the earth, and since Linda has more umph in her little pinky than five men have with both hands, we won't argue the question.

Albeit her muscular prominence, Linda is all woman — feminine right up to her curly black locks. Her three children, whom she supports with Herculean performances in Spain's bullrings and sport stadiums, look upon mom as soft and cuddly. Hubby died in a car accident some time ago, so Momma Linda has taken over the job of supporting and raising her kids with every bit of her strength.

For instance, Linda will grip an iron bar between her teeth and invite six men from the audience to come up and hang onto the bar, three at each end. Without budging a foot, Spain's muscle moll stands firmly planted to the ground while the bar slowly begins to sag. Later the men are invited to try to bend the bent bar even more so (which they never manage to do) or to straighten the bar out (which no one has yet done). After everydody has flopped, Linda does it on one whoosh, presto!

Next demonstration:

A cord latched to a truck is tied in a firm knot to Linda's long hair. The motor of the truck is revved up, and the driver puts the vehicle into first gear, pressing all the way down on the gas. The truck doesn't budge forward an inch. Neither does the hefty hunk of female. Then while everybody is making with applause of admiration, Linda edges back a step at a time — so that the "speeding" truck is actually pulled backwards.

If anybody in the audience still has the slightest doubt about her feats, the distaff Charles Atlas now goes about proving that she has more power in her arms than in her teeth or hair. Forthwith each arm is tied to the backs of a pair of motorcycles, and while the two drivers are gunning their motors and trying to zip off in different directions, Linda flexes her biceps even more so, the two motorcycles are now pulled towards her. More applause!

Should that demonstration still fail to convince, Linda subsequently puts her powerful neck into play. With a cord from a motorscooter tied around her neck, Madame Muscle proceeds to control the riderless, speeding scooter as it makes a circular path. Eventually the scooter rises from the ground and Linda keeps it going around in a circle — like a toy airplane, with her neck as the focal point.

"The Woman of Iron," as the Spaniards sometimes call her, was born and raised in La Mancha, the same region that gave rise to Don Quixote. A lot of men like to kid her about coming from the bailiwick of the Cervantes folklore hero; they bug her with questions about when she intends to fight some windmills.

Linda's stock answer to these taunts, which displays her strong personality, is that she has never found a belligerent windmill in Spain. "Bring me the windmill — and I'll demolish it with one finger: And you with the other!" she tells her wiseacre fans.

Built low to the ground and weighing almost 200 pounds, the sinewy senora (48-35-46) can't really account for her way-out strength.

"Maybe it came when I was a girl working on a farm and had a lot of heavy chores to do every day," she explains.

Linda strains at ropes

"I didn't know my own strength until I was in my early 20s, after I had married. It was my husband who first became aware of it."

Rather than going in for weightlifting, barbells and that whole nonsense, Linda began building up her power as a kind of hobby — by bending trees, snapping wooden planks in two, tearing telephone books apart and tugging automobiles uphill. On the death of her husband, she perfected a four-part act, got herself booked as an intermission feature in a bull arena and became an instant wow. She is still going strong.

Modern Society Creates Child Monster—Doctor

By removing the modern child's economic purpose and giving him no other, modern society has created a monster, psychiatrist Dr. Gary Wilson said Monday at a meeting in Oak Bay junior high school, opening mental health week in the Victoria area.

The theme of the meeting — and of the week — is the invention of the adolescent.

A film Monday contrasted the 17th Century, when children were an integral part of society and when they began — at 7 or 8 — to earn their living alongside their parents, with the 20th Century, where children remain in a child's world until their late teens.

The adult world requires that youth live by adult values, he said. "We say you've got to be smart, capable, punctual, hard-working, and you've got to acquire things. The kids are saying, 'Do we have to?' "

Youth, having spent itself training to enter a world from which it remains at the same time completely separate, is reluctant to assume the values of a world young people have had the leisure to find fault with.

Mental Health Week continues with the annual general meeting of the play school Co-operative Association at 8:15 p.m. Thursday and an open house at Victoria's Canadian Mental Health Association Offices, 1951 Cook, from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Friday.
